Police Find 8th Victim; Man Charged

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

CRESTON—Dale Merle Nelson has been charged with non-capital murder in the slayings of eight persons near this southeast B.C. city.

I witnessed the capture of the accused mass slayer by RCMP in a wooded area near his cabin Sunday afternoon.

I was inspecting the scenes of the seven shootings early Saturday in the West Creston area, about 18 miles west of here, when I learned from police that a man had been spotted in the woods behind a cabin a mile away.

I rushed to the spot and watched as Nelson was flushed from the bush. A police dog rushed him and pinned him to the ground until police could handcuff him.

An eight-year-old girl believed held captive by the gunman was not with Nelson when he was captured. She was later found dead.

Nelson faces a charge of non-capital murder in connection with the slayings of the eight people.

The final act of the manhunt began about 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

While on holidays in Nelson, I heard of the shootings and drove to Creston Sunday to visit three places in the shooting area. The first place was the Alex Wasyk residence where Shirley Wasyk and her daughter Tracy had been shot to death and from which Tracy's body was subsequently taken.

A deep crimson blood-stain was visible in the back bedroom of the run-down shack, where Tracy had apparently been slain.

After several minutes I left the Wasyk residence and made my way to the next stop, which was the house of Raymond Phipps, about two miles along the road.

I asked if I could take a look at the scene and was told that as long as I didn't go into the house I could look all I wished.

RCMP Guards Front Door

The scene was gruesome. Deep pools of blood stained the living room floor where the body of Ray Phipps had fallen after he was blasted by a high-powered rifle, apparently while answering a knock at the front door.

Another large patch of dried blood marked the spot where Phipps' common-law wife, Isabel St. Almond, had been shot and her body mutilated with a knife.

In the corner of one of the small shack's side windows was a bullet hole the size of a silver dollar.

The bodies of three of Phipps' children were found by police in the two bedrooms of the house, each shot several times and also mutilated.

After I had finished looking at the Phipps residence, I noticed four RCMP officers emerging from wooded hillside directly behind the Phipps' property.

The officers conducted a brief confidential conference. I gathered from their activity that something had been spotted in the woods above the house. However they refused to comment.

BLOOD STAINS

The time by now was about 3:30 p.m. I made my way from the Phipps property noticing on the way out a blood-stained knife in the back of one of the RCMP identification mobile units.

The house where Dale Nelson lived was situated between the Wasyk and Phipps houses, about one mile from each. This is where I went next.

Four RCMP officers were on guard at the Nelson house. Earlier in the day a slashed plastic window pane had been noticed by an officer, and there was evidence in the cabin that someone had been in during the night and had taken out some food and water.

WINDOW BROKEN

Police later admitted that they believed Nelson himself had made his way back to his cabin and had been able to break in a back window.

Poison Kills Fish In Mainland River

SURREY (CP) — The entire fish population in the lower reaches of the Campbell River, about 15 miles south of Vancouver, was killed during the weekend by an undetermined poison.

Don Udy, fish and wildlife conservation officer, said the kill included at least 1,000 bullheads, many flounders and cutthroat trout and a few spawning coho salmon. He said dead fish were found from the mouth of the river to a point about three miles upstream.

He said a number of fish, including about 50 coho, were also found dead in the Serpentine River, about five miles north of the Campbell.

Mr. Udy said other fish, including coho of up to 10 pounds, were found gasping for breath in the Serpentine but recovered quickly when moved upstream from a quarter-mile stretch that was contaminated.

Mr. Udy said heavy weekend rain could have caused a run-off of pesticides or herbicides from farms in the area, but other possible causes were also being investigated.

Both the Campbell and Serpentine are small streams that run into Boundary Bay near the Canada-U.S. border. They are favorite haunts of sports fishermen at this time of year with the coho run just starting, and Mr. Udy warned anglers to stay clear of the affected areas.

10-Mile Oil Slick Off P.E.I.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island today called on federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson for all possible "expertise and equipment" to deal with a huge oil slick moving through the Gulf of St. Lawrence following the sinking Monday of an oil-laden barge.

Campbell said the slick was 10 miles long and five miles wide and was moving one-third of a mile an hour toward the northeast coast of New Brunswick.

Present wind conditions were taking the oil away from Prince Edward Island, but this could change at any time.

The premier said all coastal areas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence were threatened by the oil.

There was no immediate indication how much of the barge Irving Whale's 850,000 gallons of bunker C oil had escaped. The barge sank Monday morning while under tow.

New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Newfoundland all have coastal areas bordering on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

EXPRESS OPTIMISM

Transport department officials earlier expressed optimism that oil would not escape from the Whale because it was only four years old and was structurally sound.

Campbell, who met transport department and armed forces officials here today, said the oil moving through the gulf was bunker C "from all appearances." This is a heavy grade of fuel oil, similar to the oil which polluted Nova Scotia's shoreline following the sinking of the tanker Arrow last winter.

The slick was not a solid mass of oil but covered a five-by-10-mile area halfway between the coast of Caraquet, N.B., and Cape North, P.E.I.

Its present course would carry it away from P.E.I.'s famous sand beaches on the north shore of the province, including the P.E.I. National Park.

The premier said top priority will be given to stopping the seepage from the 2,300-ton unmanned barge which sank in rough seas 60 miles north of P.E.I. early Monday while being towed by the tug Irving Maple to Bathurst, N.B.

RELEASE of Leila Khaled, 25, held by British authorities and identified as the female accomplice in attempted hijacking of an Israeli El Al airliner Sunday, is major demand of Palestinian guerrillas holding other plane passengers hostage in Palestine. (AP Wirephoto.)

Swiss Agree To Exchange

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced tonight it will release the hijacked Swiss airliner and about 22 Swiss passengers as soon as the three Popular Front guerrillas held in Zurich are delivered here, an official communique said.

Times News Services

A team of negotiators from the International Red Cross flew today to Amman, Jordan, in hopes of saving the lives of 180 persons being held hostage by Palestinian guerrillas aboard two hijacked airplanes.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine has threatened to blow up the planes and their passengers unless Arab guerrillas held in Western countries are released by 7 p.m. PDT Wednesday.

Another 120 hostages were removed from the Trans World Airlines and Swissair planes now being held in this sunbaked desert city in Jordan.

The Red Cross said in Geneva today the guerrillas had increased their ransom demands to include the release of 3,000 Arab prisoners held by Israel.

A first ultimatum demanded the release of seven Arabs held by West Germany, Switzerland and Britain.

"The Front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warnings," a guerrilla spokesman said in Amman.

Britain Agrees to Talk Details

Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand. Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath, after an emergency cabinet meeting agreed to co-ordinate with the other governments in working out a package deal to win the release of the hijack victims.

A third plane was also involved Sunday in the drama. A Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes.

A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crew aboard.

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were in hospital for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

All three planes were hijacked en route to New York.

A fourth hijack attempt was thwarted by Israeli security officials when Palestinian Leila Khaled was seized and a male companion fatally shot when they attempted to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC-8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York.

She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded also are in jail on charges involving airline hijackings.

Three of the prisoners are awaiting trial in Munich and the other three have been sentenced in Zurich to 12-year prison terms.

SEND NEGOTIATORS

In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Red Cross mediators earlier convinced the Palestinians to release 120 hostages, mostly women and children, who were taken to a hotel in Amman.

The 180 remaining included all Israeli nationals aboard, plus men from the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland.

The hotel where the 120 were staying was hit by mortar fire during the night, but there were no injuries.

The attack appeared to be part of the skirmishing in the city between Palestinian Arab guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

LIST DEMANDS

The Popular Front demanded that:

- Switzerland free the three Arab commandos being held in that country for an attack in February, 1969, on an Israeli El Al Boeing at Zurich Airport.
- Britain free Miss Khaled and return her safely to Jordan.

SCHOOL OPENS —EXCEPT IN TRAIL

Lightning Hits Football Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A bolt of lightning which flashed out of the darkening sky over a practice high school football game killed two players and injured 20 other youngsters, two critically.

The bolt Monday centred on a huddle of the Gibbs high school offensive team, working on plays to be used in the season opener Sept. 18.

Killed were tackle Robert Newton, 17, and quarterback Vincent Williams, 16.

Four players remained in hospital, two of them — Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16 — listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Halfback Michael Washington, 16, said he was standing beside Chapman in the huddle when the lightning hit.

"A big flash came in the middle, and the shoulder pads looked like they were flowing," Williams said.

REFUSES TO LEAVE VICTORIA OFFICE

Clarkson Transferred, Demands Probe

By PETER McNELLY

Reg Clarkson, supervisor of the Vancouver Island region of the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia, today demanded an investigation into the reasons for his transfer out of Victoria to the foundation's Vancouver office.

Clarkson was notified of his transfer on Aug. 17 in a letter from the Foundation's executive director in Vancouver, E. D. McRae. He was to have reported today to the Vancouver to take a post as counsellor.

'LOSS OF CONFIDENCE'

But Clarkson said he is staying in Victoria because he cannot abandon his patients on short notice. At a morning press conference, Clarkson said McRae's letter said he was being transferred due to a "loss of confidence at the government level in my work with the alcoholism foundation on Vancouver Island."

He said he has repeatedly tried, without success, to get the foundation's executive to explain what they mean by a loss of confidence.

"I have been repeatedly refused a written interpretation of what is meant by this. One person (whom Clarkson would not identify) told me the reason is because the RCMP have spotted Communist unemployed agitators coming to my office."

He said he has been refused an appeal before the foundation's board of directors, but has talked to his lawyer and will press for either an investigation or an appeal.

The real reason behind the transfer, Clarkson said, "is to silence my complaints against the operation of the Alcoholism Foundation. For two years I have been complaining about the waste of money on counselling and the neglect of preventative education and community organization to fight alcoholism."

Asked if he believed the provincial government no longer had confidence in his work, Clarkson produced written testimonials support-

. . . 3 PLANES HIJACKED

● West Germany free three commandos held since an attack on a busload of El Al passengers at Munich Airport in February.

● Israel release a number, as yet unspecified, of guerrillas held in Israeli jails and also free two Algerians detained when their British airliner landed at Tel Aviv in July.

The Popular Front said the freedom of people aboard the hijacked aircraft holding dual Israeli and U.S. nationality depended upon the fourth condition being met.

The Associated Press said it is believed the Israeli government holds about 50 commandos as prisoners. Reuters news agency reported 3,000 commandos are said to be in Israeli jails.

STAND BY

Armored units of the Jordanian army stood by helplessly as about 200 armed guerrillas surrounded the planes at Dawson Field, a dusty desert airstrip at Zerqa, 25 miles northwest of Amman. There was no gunfire, probably because the army was eager to avoid harming the hostages. A Palestinian flag fluttered over a tent, and a tanker truck passed out water to the commandos.

Inside the aircraft, the hostages sat — hot, hungry and thirsty. The commandos finally allowed the Red Cross to bring food and blankets aboard.

"Go and show this to Nixon and Meir" — President Richard Nixon and Israeli premier Golda Meir — "and tell them about the Arab revolution," a guerrilla told reporters as he pointed to the scene.

Arriving in Amman, the freed hostages told of sitting with their seat belts buckled for 15 hours before a Red Cross official persuaded the guerrillas to permit visits to the lavatory.

IN GOOD SHAPE

U.S. embassy spokesman said those released included 73 Americans, 20 Indians, 14 Swiss, and seven Germans.

All were free to leave Amman, the guerrillas said. Some women may choose to remain until their husbands still being held hostage on the planes can join them.

Apart from an American woman passenger taken to hospital with a broken wrist after the Swissair plane landed, the released passengers seemed in good condition.

"It was murderously hot in the desert," said an American student Peggy Burt, a Swissair passenger who admitted she had been terrified during the hijacking.

But Blanca Schallenberg, a 21-year-old blonde from Winterthur, Switzerland, said the hijackers were "quite nice and very polite."

"They gave medical help to a male passenger suffering from epilepsy and a woman who had a swollen foot."

Gerry Tomiatti, a blonde Austrian who works in a New York beauty parlor, stroked her fluffy white dog, Whisky, and sipped ice-cold beer as she said: "The girl hijacker was very attractive. I noticed her because she wore a red hat. I thought she was a hostess."

She added: "The only time the passengers panicked was when the plane landed with great force. When the emergency chutes went down we saw a dozen men, all armed, shooting in the air."

SECRETARY-GENERAL of the United Nations, U Thant, today denounced hijackings by Palestinian guerrillas of several international aircraft as "savage and inhuman acts" and called for prompt and effective measures to stop them.

SIRHAN'S MOTHER ON SEARCHED PLANE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bomb check described as routine delayed the scheduled departure today of a jetliner on which the mother of convicted assassin Sirhan Bishara Sirhan booked passage to Amman, Jordan.

An airlines spokesman termed the delay routine and said the luggage was being checked on a "just in case" basis.

In the Middle East, meanwhile, Palestinian Arab guerrillas denied they had demanded the release of her son as a provision for the return of two hijacked jetliners with 180 passengers detained in Jordan.

. . . CLARKSON

ing him from provincial and federal civil servants, St. Joseph's Hospital executive director E. G. Q. Van Tilburg and the Vancouver Island president of the B.C. Social Workers Association, Roy Ferris.

Van Tilburg's statement read in part, "It would be a great loss to the community if Mr. Clarkson leaves as regional director."

Clarkson has a caseload of 80 families and individuals in counselling and group therapy. He said the foundation's Vancouver office has not told him who will take his place and how his clients will be treated during the changeover.

NOT A DEMONTION

In a telephone interview from Vancouver, McRae said Clarkson had not be demoted and would receive the same salary he was getting in Victoria.

However, Clarkson said the transfer is a "humiliating demotion" which further indicates the foundation's poor administration.

"Why not fire me if I'm so bad. If an investigation shows that my work is not above average, I'll resign.

'IMPOSSIBLE' RULE

Clarkson said McRae notified him by telephone on June 25 not to go to the Legislative Buildings any more, except to see health branch official, or he would be fired. This is impossible in his work, Clarkson said, for he has to confer on alcohol and welfare problems with the provincial rehabilitation department.

He said he has continued to have discussions with provincial civil servants since June 25 and does not expect to be fired for having his press conference at the Legislative Buildings today.

During discussions with the foundation's executive and board of directors since Aug. 17, Clarkson said he was accused of not working enough for the foundation.

He said this meant his activities with the Victoria Low Income Group—he's the executive secretary — and a volunteer citizens' committee on alcoholism he created.

FIGHTING FOR POOR

"Because of my fighting publicly for the poor, it is easy to say that the government wants me silenced. This is not true. The real reason for my demotion is to silence my complaints against the operation of the foundation."

Clarkson has been with the foundation in Victoria for six years. In a letter to the board of directors dated Aug. 31 Clarkson quotes a letter to him from McRae as saying that the foundation is "presently in the somewhat unhappy position of being held in rather low esteem by several senior and very influential civil servants and cabinet ministers."

But Clarkson's letter says he has "never experienced anything but co-operation and respect for the foundation" from senior civil servants.

The foundation is a private organization supported by grants from the provincial government.

PRIVATE PRACTICE?

If he is not permitted to continue counselling his clients, Clarkson said he may work with them in private practice in Victoria.

He said he has had little indication of support by the foundation's board of directors for his request for a public hearing on his transfer.

He said the foundation's traditional counselling methods are twice as costly as they should be, running to $200,000 a year.

Little empirical evidence exists, he said, to support the idea that counselling has any success. Most entering treatment at the foundation, he said, remain only a few weeks.

Clarkson proposed group therapy sessions, the elimination of probing into personal histories and elimination of medical services as part of the counselling process.

He also proposed more alcoholics suitable to the Alcoholics Anonymous program be referred to that agency rather than to the foundation.

. . . GUNMAN CAPTURED

The cabin is very tiny, about 20 feet by 30 feet at most. Nevertheless Nelson had been able to get past the RCMP guard on duty at the cabin during the night and had made it back out again without being noticed.

At 4:15 p.m. Sunday an RCMP officer reported spotting a man in the woods behind Nelson's cabin. I heard the message go over the police radio calling in more units as well as police dogs being used in other areas of the search.

Within 20 minutes, 30 RCMP were gathered at the cabin, all armed with rifles. Three police dogs then arrived at the scene.

WIFE TAKEN AWAY

I was ordered to stay back from the cabin.

I did so, but was still able to see the actions of the RCMP as they moved on both flanks of the hillside where they expected a man to be hiding.

A wave of officers moved uphill from Nelson's cabin, staying behind cover of trees and rocks.

An RCMP corporal, who I later learned to be Cpl. A. L. Beach of Cranbrook, then took a portable loudspeaker and directed the following message to the hillside:

"Dale Nelson, Dale Nelson. This is the RCMP. You are surrounded. We have police dogs ready to send in. Stand up, put your hands in the air and walk towards the cabin."

After a few seconds the message was repeated. RCMP officers were then instructed not to fire until fired upon, again over the loudspeaker.

DO YOU HEAR?

After another short pause, the original message was again repeated, after which Cpl. Beach said, "Dale Nelson, do you hear me?"

From a grassy area on the hillside came a voice that said: "Yes." An RCMP officer said, "Come out with your hands up!"

The voice replied "Okay."

At this point, a heavily-built man with a fair complexion and beige work clothes with no shoes stood up from some tall grass and walked downhill towards the cabin. He got only a few steps before being knocked to the ground and pinned by an RCMP dog.

Several constables ran to the spot and covered the man, later identified as Dale Nelson, with shotguns and rifles.

RIFLE FOUND

Police said a loaded rifle and about a dozen rounds of ammunition were found beside a nearby tree.

Nelson was then escorted the remaining short distance down the hillside to his cabin.

A police spokesman came forward and with a look of obvious relief on his face, announced, "The suspect has been captured alive."

I asked the policeman if the eight-year-old girl believed to have been abducted by the gunman was with Nelson. The spokesman answered, "We don't know that."

Nelson was then handcuffed and placed in the back seat of a police cruiser while the officers stood around in the clearing beside Nelson's cabin.

Suddenly a rifle shot rang out. Lightning-fast hands whipped to triggers and quick eyes sought out the source of the shot.

But all that had happened was that one constable's gun had accidentally discharged, with the bullet landing beside his foot in the ground.

BODY FOUND

Nelson was then taken from the area by police car to Creston.

I stayed around the Nelson cabin for a short time and then went back to the Phipps residence, where I suspected some trace might be found of Cathy St. Almond, the girl abducted by the gunman.

After an hour and a quarter's wait, I learned from police that the young girl's body had been found in an area not far from where Nelson's abandoned car had been found Saturday. Police said she apparently died of stab wounds.

This ended the manhunt and I drove home to Victoria to write the story.

Foreign Journalists Seized in Africa

LUSAKA (AP) — Six foreign correspondents were reported imprisoned and another confined to hospital under guard today as the third summit conference of non-aligned countries opened in this Zambian capital.

Kenneth L. Whiting of The Associated Press, Hans Reinhardt of the West German news agency DPA and Ron McDonnel of Vispews, a British agency, were taken by plainclothes security policemen Monday night from the conference hall and the university dormitory where the press is housed. Reinhardt apparently suffered a heart attack after the arrest and was taken to hospital.

Plainclothes police escorted Chris Munnion of the London Daily Telegraph, based in Salisbury, Rhodesia, from the conference hall today.

The others—Tony White of Reuters news agency and Dan van der Vat of the London Times—were missing when the conference convened, but a United States embassy source said they are with Whiting, McDonnel and Munnion in a prison.

The South African Press Association in Johannesburg said Edward H. Linington of its staff also was arrested. It said all journalists based in South Africa were barred from the conference.

No reason was given for the arrests, but all the correspondents were based in South Africa or Rhodesia, and Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda is a staunch opponent of the area's white-minority governments.

The U.S. state department said it is seeking to act in the case of Whiting, an American citizen. The Associated Press headquarters in New York cabled an appeal to Kaunda in behalf of the correspondents.

Reinhardt suffered the attack moments after telling a colleague: "I've been arrested." He was reported in satisfactory condition today.

The U.S. embassy source said an embassy official took food to the prison and found those there in good spirits. They "seemed comfortable and well treated, although all are very, very curious about their future," the source said.

Indians Confer

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — About 25 delegates attended a weekend meeting here of the Terrace District Indian Band Council and representatives from the B.C.-Yukon office of the department of Indian affairs.

The meeting discussed economic development, band self-government, social service programs and indian fishing rights.

Remains A Question

Education Minister Donald Brothers said today he doesn't know whether Frank Levirs, superintendent of education is reconsidering his resignation.

But Brothers said Levirs, who submitted his resignation last week following appointment of Joe Phillipson as acting deputy minister, will remain on the job in any case until the end of the year.

The minister said he hasn't officially accepted Levirs' resignation. Levirs is due to retire in early 1972.

Asked whether there are any other signs of discontent in the department following the appointments last week, Brothers replied: "All is sweetness and light."

Suspect Captured In Creston Manhunt

Times Staff

CRESTON — An extensive manhunt for the suspected killer of eight Creston area residents came to a dramatic end here late Sunday afternoon with the capture by RCMP of Dale Merle Nelson of West Creston.

An hour and a quarter after the capture, RCMP searchers, apparently aided by information supplied by Nelson, found the body of an eight-year-old girl believed abducted by the gunman at the time of the killings. Police said she had died of knife wounds.

Nelson, 31, was apprehended only 75 yards from the back of his cabin residence, about two miles from the scenes of the slayings early Saturday of seven members of two farm families.

Killed were: Mrs. Shirley Wasyk, 30, her daughter Tracy, 7, Raymond Phipps, 42, his common-law wife Isabel St. Almond, 26, and Phipps' children Paul, 10, Brian, 7, and Kenneth, 18 months.

FOUND NEAR CAR

Police identified the eighth victim as Cathy St. Almond, 8. Her body was discovered in the area where Nelson's abandoned car was found early Saturday.

About 50 RCMP officers had been engaged in the manhunt for Nelson since early Saturday when the Creston detachment received a report of a possible shooting at the Alex Wasyk residence in West Creston.

Upon arriving at the scene, officers discovered the bodies of Mrs. Wasyk and Tracy. Police said they had both been shot several times.

Mr. Wasyk was working at a logging camp and was not home. One of the Wasyk children was found hiding in nearby bushes and another, a girl, Debbie, had run to the house of neighbors to tell of the shootings.

While police were still investigating this matter, they received a report that a man was proceeding to a nearby residence "to commit assaults" upon the family there.

FAMILY EVACUATED

Police moved on to this residence and evacuated the family.

In checking out other residences in the area they came upon the bodies of the five victims at the Phipps residence.

The position of Phipps' body indicated that he had been shot at close range, probably while answering the front door. Mrs. St. Almond's body lay near the kitchen stove.

The three children's bodies were found in the small shack's two bedrooms. All the bodies had been shot several times and had been mutilated with a knife.

During the time police were at the Phipps residence, the gunman apparently slipped back to the Wasyk house and removed the body of Tracy Wasyk.

Her mutilated and decapitated body was later found with Nelson's abandoned car, about three miles from the Wasyk house, on Corn Creek Road.

No further trace was seen of the suspected killer until late Sunday afternoon, when RCMP officers reported they had spotted a man in the woods behind Nelson's house, which lay between the Phipps and Wasyk houses.

Ten police units converged on the area and police and tracking dogs spread out on the hillside behind the small shack. A loudspeaker message urged whoever was in the woods to give himself up by walking towards the cabin with hands in the air.

After the message was repeated several times, a man later identified as Nelson appeared from among some tall grass on the hillside and was subdued by officers, after being knocked to the ground and pinned by a police dog.

He was taken into custody and transported to the Creston detachment of the RCMP where he was charged with the non-capital murder of Mrs. Shirley Wasyk.

He was to appear before provincial court judge Harold Langston this morning.

SPARSELY POPULATED

Gunman Dodged Police in Heavy Bush

By BRIAN BUTTERS

CRESTON — West Creston, about 18 miles across the Kootenay River from the main community of Creston in southeastern B.C., is a sparsely populated area sprinkled with run-down farmhouses.

This is the area where a gunman roamed early Saturday morning and shot to death and mutilated the bodies of seven members of two families.

Another body was found Sunday after the suspected killer had been captured near his own house in West Creston, raising te death toll to eight.

The suspect, Dale Nelson of West Creston, a resident logger of the area for 15 years, gave himself up after being surrounded by RCMP and police dogs on a wooded hillside about 75 yards behind his small cabin.

Nearby was a loaded rifle and a dozen rounds of ammunition.

A look at the countryside and the dense woods surrounding the scene of the killings reveals why it was possible for the gunman to evade capture by police for almost two days after the slayings.

TERRAIN ROUGH

Thick woods reach down from a nearby mountain. The terrain is rough with abundant hiding places, and when darkness falls the area is pitch-black.

The gunman apparently used these factors to full advantage during his spree. After killing two people at the Wasyk house, police said he moved about two miles down the road to the house of Raymond Phipps where five residents were shot and mutilated, and another family member taken captive.

The gunman then slipped back to the Wasyk house, removed the body of one of the victims and drove off down the road again, finally abandoning his car in the Corn Creek area of West Creston, about three miles from the scene of the last shootings.

MOVED TO SHACK

Twenty-four hours later, early Sunday morning, the gunman moved from where he was hiding to a small shack identified as Nelson's residence.

A back window covered with plastic was slashed open with a knife and the gunman entered the house and removed food and water. An RCMP lookout was posted a short distance from the house but did not see or hear the man enter the house.

It is likely the gunman did not stray from the immediate area because it was a point behind Nelson's shack where a man was spotted hiding in the bush only minutes before Nelson was captured.

New Fires, New Irons

JUST AS TWENTY YEARS OF international hopes appeared about to be crowned by peace negotiations between Jews and Arabs, a number of associated developments have occurred to place the whole Middle East situation again in hazard. The internal stresses of the Arab bloc have been dramatically demonstrated, with the result that fighting could even break out between Jordan and Iraq; and Israeli charges that the Suez truce has been infringed by the placement of missile sites since the cease-fire have stalled the talks in New York. The Israeli spokesman remains at home, for "consultations", and United Nations Mediator Jarring's task is still in a very preliminary stage.

Widespread Arab anger at the action of Jordan's King Hussein in agreeing to negotiate with Israel exploded last week in an attempt to assassinate him. And Jordanian government attempts to control Palestine guerrilla operations inside the country provoked an incredible warning from Iraq that unless the Jordanian army forces ceased firing at the rebels, Iraqi troops stationed nearby would defend the guerrillas. Such an infringement of Jordanian sovereignty could not, of course, be tolerated and Iraq was so informed.

The problem of the Egyptian missile sites in the out-of-bounds Suez area placed the United States in a serious jam. When at first Washington tried to ignore or depreciate the Israeli claims, in hopes that the negotiations could be got underway, the Israelis reminded the Americans that as sponsors of the cease-fire they had in effect guaranteed Israeli security. To have fallen down in this regard would have put the whole question of United States guarantees in question, and since a Washington guarantee will be essential if Israel is to be persuaded to reliniquish the buffer territories it captured two years ago, the Suez infringements had to be recognized.

Photographic evidence could not be denied, and the United States was forced to lodge a protest — along with a rather subdued request for the removal of the offending missiles — with Cairo and Moscow. Outright rejection of the request could lead to a further confrontation between the two great powers and possibly result in a resumption of Middle East hostilities with all the dangers which this implies.

It is difficult to understand the Egyptian and Russian reasoning which led to the placement of SAM missile sites after the cease-fire undertaking. Both countries must have known that aerial reconnaissance would not fail to reveal such a move. The supposition is strong that it was hoped to incite the Israelis to attack, thus improving the Egyptian moral position. Meanwhile, the "unofficial" fighting between Israeli troops and Arab guerrilla forces provides plenty of possibilities for a breakdown of the whole painfully built structure of negotiation.

The background pressure exerted by the two great powers to bring Arab and Jew to the negotiating table after all these years should now be renewed to restore the situation which existed at the start of the 90-day truce. But the bona fides of Egypt and Russia appear to have been sadly impaired.

Crisis in Cuba

THE HUNGRY, THE POOR AND the dedicated who followed Fidel Castro in his victorious march against the Batista forces of Cuba are, according to a recent study by The Christian Science Monitor's James Nelson Goodsell, still hungry and poor, as they were 11 years ago, but many of them are not so dedicated.

Castro, says Mr. Goodsell following a prolonged visit to the island, is facing a crisis of major proportions. Disenchantment, dissent and, in some cases, despair have claimed a substantial proportion of his once almost fanatically loyal people. Their change of heart is reflected in an economic situation which threatens the regime itself. Castro admits his problems. They include a serious labor shortage, low productivity, growing absenteeism in some factories, an unfavorable foreign trade balance, lack of machinery, and inefficient transportation services.

A significant upturn in living conditions, it is widely believed, cannot occur before 1971 and possibly not before 1973. Under these circumstances, the promises of a fuller life that glowed so brightly more than a decade ago, have lost their lustre. At home and among diplomats from other countries, the question is raised: "Has Fidel Castro tried to do more than his small island of 8 million people is capable of doing?"

There is little suggestion at this point that Castro's control of Cuba can be successfully challenged. His popularity, though diminished, is still great, but the future of his revolution becomes doubtful.

He must meet his crises in the next year or two and the method by which he seeks solutions will be of utmost importance. At this point there are indications of a tendency toward wider use of army personnel to assume control of significant areas of the economy. Though there is grumbling in the army over conditions, it is still rated one of the best, if not the best, among Latin American countries.

Efficient as it may be, however, domestic conditions must blur the image it might otherwise present to restive factions in other nations of the hemisphere. Where Cuba once exported revolution, it now stands in the difficult position of seeking an answer to those who ask what the revolution has brought Cuba itself.

Protecting Wildlife

IN AFRICA GOVERNMENTS have moved to preserve wildlife with expanded programs of conservation, including acquisition of more and bigger game preserves. In India, authorities have become so alarmed by the depletion of tigers that hunting them for trophies is permitted now in only one state. And here, in British Columbia, increasing support is being given to the suggestion that substantial licenses be charged out-of-province sports fishermen for salt-water angling.

These and similar courses in other lands reflect a growing appreciation of the desirability, if not necessity, of protecting various species from the so-called sportsman who frequently has no stake whatever in the country concerned. The human family is apparently recognizing a responsibility to other forms of life.

In several instances, commercial interests have a direct concern in protecting wildlife and fish. But beyond this the restrictions on killing for reasons other than food reflects an encouraging appreciation today for the preservation of the balance of nature.

The hunter and the angler will not have their favorite pastimes eliminated, but, as the trend is going, they will pay a higher price for the resource they are harvesting, and greater control will be exercised over their activities. It has taken centuries for many of the nations to realize that stocks are not inexhaustible. The knowledge, however is coming home as the maintenance of various species is threatened by man the killer. The conservation message is getting through.

By MAURICE WESTERN

A Bigger U.S., a Bigger Canadian Market

THE latest census estimate issued in Washington, based largely on actual return, places the U.S. population at approximately 204,800,000. This directs attention to certain aspects of the Canadian-American relationship which have been conspicuously neglected in recent discussions. To begin with a situation has obviously developed which completely confounds an important assumption of Canadian leaders in the first half of our history as a Confederated nation. This was that the future promised a substantial change in the relative power (as measured by census returns) of the two North American democracies.

Western

Old Theory

Quite obviously the United States had the advantage of an enormous headstart. As the West was opened its decennial gains were astonishing, in at least one period exceeding 30 per cent. It was more or less a Canadian article of faith, however, that as American lands were taken up, the tide would swing to Canada. Beyond the turning point, we would enter the catching-up period. While it was improbable that we would ever support a population of U.S. size, the ratios would change in our favor—from approximately one to 10 to perhaps one to four or better, depending on the faith and vision of the speaker.

For a time, especially in the first decade of the century, statistics appeared to support the theory. We were certainly growing at a faster rate than the United States though not in absolute terms. But the theory died with the agricultural revolution since land ceased to be the magnet for immigrants that it had been in earlier years.

One to Ten

The last DBS estimate of Canada's population (April, 1970) was 21,324,000. In other words the Canadian-U.S. ratio is now a little better than one to 10. Twenty years ago it was a little worse than one to 10. Evidently dramatic change is not to be expected. Nor do the projections of the Economic Council encourage any such anticipation. They assume a Canadian population increment of 10 to 15 million over the next 30 years; no great percentage increase in current rates of growth.

But there is another side to this. The enormous decennial increments to U.S. population are obviously of great significance for the economic well-being of our relatively small Canadian population. We enjoy the advantage (complicated as it may be by the problems which have lately dominated public discussion) of living next door to the fastest growing, high income population in the world.

The Washington figures show that since 1950 the United States has gained no less than 52,529,000 people. This is a staggering change. It exceeds by a million the entire population of the United Kingdom. In other words, there has come into being, within 20 years and on our doorstep, a market larger and much wealthier than the British market, which simply did not exist in 1950.

Without this increase, of which we are made aware only with decennial counts —although it affects us all the time in rising demand for Canadian products —we would obviously be a much poorer people. It is now, because of the size of the population base in the United States, almost independent of immigration so that, barring great social changes affecting family size, we can expect continuing, very large increments in the size of our most important market.

Eggs in One Basket

There are warnings, periodically, against putting all our eggs in one basket and there is no good reason why we should. But the number of baskets, at any given time, is limited by all sorts of considerations outside our control. At least the one basket that occasionally figures in public controversy is an outsize basket, with a most remarkable capacity for expansion. No other country has comparable access to it or benefits from it in comparable degree. The United States, according to some current analyses, is the source of all our troubles. Where we would be without it is a question seldom posed and possibly too appalling to contemplate.

FROM ASPEN, COLO.

By JAMES RESTON

The Doctors Disagree on Cures

IN recent days, a group of distinguished scientists, economists, historians, and philosophers meeting here have reached the melancholy conclusion that modern technology, greedy men and complacent or inefficient governments are debasing human values, ruining the quality of our environment, and threatening the future of a decent and civilized world. Some put primary blame on the machine, some on human greed, and some on the failure of government to reconcile modern machinery and political institutions with the minimum human requirements of a rapidly growing population, but all insist that the human family is approaching an historic crisis which will require fundamental revisions in the organization of society.

Reston

Here, however, agreement breaks down. On the goals of human society, as usual, there is widespread though not total agreement, but on the means of achieving even the minimum goals of a liveable diet for all men, clear air and water, and reasonable security from death by curable disease or war, there has been in this conference a babble of disagreement.

Whole New System

All these problems of technology, war and human suffering, say some of the participants, are connected; therefore, a whole new system of world controls must be devised. Even if this is so, say others, nothing will be done if we try to do everything; therefore, we must deal with the most practical and dangerous problems before us and set modest goals.

Henry Steele Commager, the Amherst historian, argues that national sovereignty must be restricted if the basic problems of war and the distribution of natural resources are to be eased. Within the United States, he questions whether civil action against industries that pollute the air and water will suffice, and suggests that only criminal penalties—sending the heads of offending industries to jail—will meet the scope of the problem.

Science and technology are needed to solve our problems, argues Dr. Jonas Salk, who developed the vaccine for the prevention of poliomyelitis, warning against those who recommend anti-science and antitechnology remedies. "It is apparent," he says, quoting Isaac Asimov, "that the physical and spiritual health of a single individual and mankind as a whole, should be the final yardstick in measuring both progress and problems . . . The future will depend on whether our ethics and values can keep pace with our scientific and technical knowledge."

"Stop talking about 'the quality of life'," says Paul Goodman, the author of "Growing Up Absurd," who describes himself as a Jeffersonian anarchist. "Leave the quality of life to poets and lovers. Keep government planning to the minimum level of the tolerable. Give the people bread and let them make their own circuses."

After Technology

Harvery Brooks, professor of Engineering and Applied Physics at Harvard, takes a different tack. "The hope provided by continuing economic growth is much greater than any expectation that could be satisfied by redistribution of existing income . . ." he says. "National policy will somehow have to find a way to contain and channel all these contradictions. It now seems possible that we have or can within a few years develop the intellectual technologies necessary to manage and improve our complex societies, but how can we create the concensus or at least the organizational structures, necessary to put them into practice? This seems to me the central problem of our time . . ."

Thus, while all see the human crisis as something very real, they all tend to differ about its severity, the time available to deal with it, and the means and even nature of the problem. Some, like Goodman, place their faith in action by the people; others in government control over the harmful uses of private property; others in education; still others in a new world order, or a new ethic or even a new religion.

"The problem of how the fruits of science are going to be used," says Dr. Salvador E. Luria, the biologist and 1969 Nobel Prize winner in medicine, "is an ethical rather than a scientific problem; a problem of values, of wisdom, of responsibility. For the first time in his history, man has learned enough about his environment, with which he is engaged in an unending game, that he may deal his own hand. But he has not learned enough about himself. Man is like a card player engaged in a game for high stakes without being sure of his own nerves and, even worse, without reliable knowledge of the rules of the game . . . We may gamble on the wrong card and face nuclear or biological disaster. Or we may stumble on the right play, and then, the only reward will be to go on playing . . ."

It is a fair conclusion from all this that the 75 distinguished players here did not stumble on any definitive answers in the two days of their discussion, but then, they have been grappling with the unanswered questions of over 2,000 years.

Liberated from What?

A great deal has been written about the so-called "Women's Liberation Movement," I would like to ask, from what do they seek to be liberated? I always thought that in North America, particularly the United States, the women ruled the roost! U.S. women, with many noble exceptions, are noted for being bossy and domineering. Mexico, however, to the best of my knowledge and belief, still remains a man's country.

If the WLM would do a real service to humanity, and to womankind in particular, they should teach women to be women—and also to dress like women! They should encourage women not to ape the male sex by wearing slacks and pantsuits, nor to ape schoolgirls by wearing minis.

We in Canada are ruled by a Queen, and both India and Ceylon have lady Prime Minsters, all of whom are doing a man's job—and doing it very well indeed—yet they remain feminine! (Incidentally, I think that the Right Honorable Shrimati Indira Gandhi, whom I had the honor and privilege of meeting earlier this year, is the most beautiful woman of modern times).—Richard D. Corrance, 1037 Craigdarroch.

Colored Pollution

In your August 22 "Weekend Magazine" editorial you draw attention to an article on pollution and how "the angels" can do something personally about pollution. Facing the editorial is a full page color advertisement telling us about the advantages of colored paper towels.

One of the things that some of us have been doing for years is cutting down on paper products, especially paper towels, and especially the colored ones. Dyes are poisonous and pollute waterways. Mercury effluent from pulp mills kills cranes, oysters and other creatures — or renders them harmful for eating.

Pulp mills are among the worst of the polluters and there are many paper products that we can do without, if we are "on the side of the angels" as you so rightly suggest.

In her article on pollution, Patricia Welbourn draws attention to the fact that the run-off from agricultural fertilizers and sewage constitutes a large amount of pollution. In this regard we have at our disposal a method of greatly decreasing pollution, while providing a healthy natural fertilizer that will build up the soil, producing food high in nutrients — vitamins and minerals.

Composting garbage and sewage for fertilizer is a two-fold boon, and there is nothing new in this policy. For many years composting for fertilizer has been operating in some of the older countries, also on this continent, and the sooner we start making good use of our wastes the better for all of us.

Feeding the soil with natural fertilizer produces healthier plants, that can withstand pests, and healthier food for us and our animals. — Mrs. Eve Smith, South Pender Island, R.R. 1, Port Washington, B.C.

Free Parking for Teacher

This letter is written to express the writer's vigorous protest against the recent decision of our School Board to extend FREE parking facilities for our teachers on school property.

In reaching this decision board members were surely aware of the fact that our provincial government, the Jubilee Hospital and many other employers require employees to pay for their parking while at work. I understand that even the students attending university here are required to pay for parking.

It is difficult to understand why our highly paid and unionized teachers should be granted special privileges in the free use of school property, especially when there is such a shortage of funds to operate our schools.

This writer and many others can only conclude that the decision of the board in the above respect is entirely wrong in principle and should be reconsidered and reversed immediately.—(Mrs.) John W. (Shirley) Rainey, 742 Oliver.

"Woodstock"

As another middle-aged couple we went with our teenagers to "Woodstock," and inescapably being familiar with the names of the groups and their songs, via our youngsters' favorite radio station, we enjoyed every minute of the movie, seeing (and hearing!!) the various groups perform. And the intriguing photography made the film very worthwhile.—(Mrs.) J. A. Hoen, 471 Boleskine.

Looking Back

From the Times of September, 8, 1910:

The people of Victoria are looking to John Helliwell to give them value for the $5,000 which Mayor Morley agreed to pay him for investigating the book-keeping methods of City Hall. Doubtless he will, but scepticism is becoming a habit with the people of this city of late. The case of the city engineer and Mayor Morley's attempts to dismiss the man is a good example.

'IN BRAZIL, YOU CAN'T IGNORE MISERY'

The Making of a Violent Young Radical

by JOSEPH NOVITSKI

RIO DE JANEIRO—Until she was 12 years old, Nancy Mangabeira Unger lived on Manhattan's fashionable East Side, played in Central Park and sometimes went to Saturday afternoon children's movies.

'Hunted Rat'

When she was 18, she enlisted in a violent faction of the underground Brazilian Communist party. Four years later, last July 17, she was arrested.

How did the girl become a violent radical? Why did she give up her Brazilian mother's comfortable way of life in Rio de Janeiro and go underground to live, in her own words, "like a hunted rat?"

"I sincerely believe," she wrote in a letter earlier this year, "that living a quiet life, ignoring the suffering, the hunger and the misery of hundreds of thousands of human beings, trying to build personal happiness in a torn, fragmented and dehumanized world, is like trying to shade the sun with a sieve or building a house on an earthquake fault."

Kidnap Plot

Miss Unger was arrested in Recife, the largest city in the Brazilian northeast, and accused of — but not formally charged with — plotting to kidnap Donor Lion, the United States Consul General there, so as to exchange him for 40 imprisoned comrades. Brazilian authorities said that she had shot at the arresting agents with a revolver but that she had not hit any of them.

"We did not choose violence to change things; it's imposed on us by a society based on violence," she wrote before her arrest. "We took up violence and we will use it as something imposed on us, transforming it from a force used to suffocate humanity into one used to free humanity."

Miss Unger, the daughter of the late Arthur J. Unger and Edyla Mangabeira, is recovering from wounds she received when a police bullet went through her liver and a lung and cut off her right thumb. A consular officer from Long's office has been visiting her twice a week, on instructions from Washington to protect her as an American citizen.

Her mother's fear is that, like some other terrorist suspects in Brazil, Miss Unger might be tortured.

The police have publicly linked her with a bank holdup in Rio de Janeiro and said that they believe she may have been involved in the attempted assassination of a Brazilian air force officer in Recife.

A former student of philosophy at a public university in Rio, Miss Unger is among the 56 per cent of the 500 terrorist suspects held by the Brazilian army who were students until recently. As a girl whose mother could afford private schools and a small car for her, she is also among the majority — identified by the army as being from the wealthy class in Brazil.

Her mother and her friends recalled that she was intense, and often disturbed by the memory of her father's death by heart failure in 1960. The shock, they remembered, had been treated in psychotherapy.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Unger returned to Brazil with her daughter and a son one year older. The son wanted to return to Brazil, where Mre. Unger is the daughter of a prominent liberal politician, now dead after a long public career. Nancy did not want to leave a life in New York she later remembered as sheltered and comfortable.

"When she arrived she was 12," Mrs. Unger said in a recent interview. "She was very shocked by the contrast between the slums right next to the luxury apartments here."

Miss Unger went to the American school here, then transferred to the Colegio Andrews, a private Brazilian school, for the three years of high school in the Brazilian curriculum.

Talk of Boys

"No one talked about politics there," said a girl who went to the school at the same time but did not recall Miss Unger. "Our conversation was mostly about discotheques and boys."

Miss Unger's life for the last seven months is not known in detail, but it must have been similar to that described recently by five young men who left the terrorists' movement after being arrested.

The underground organizations pay a small monthly stipend and exact strict discipline. They maintain apartments for members who are being sought, but sometimes the hunted terrorist must spend a month or more in one room without leaving.

Smuggle Letter

Once Miss Unger managed to smuggle a letter to her mother. In it she said:

"I'm sorry that I wasn't more human as a daughter or a sister or to the people who were around me. If I had been, I'd be a better Communist today. But for a whole series of reasons, my fault and the fault of others, it wasn't possible. Even so, this letter is more than an explanation. I hope it will help you understand and accept my choice and the suffering it could bring to you. I miss you a lot, but, that's the old ball game, as the saying goes."

During a student protest march in 1967, Miss Unger was arrested for the first time. Here mother got her out after 24 hours on the strength of her U.S. passport. Last December she was linked with a bank robbery by urban guerrillas and suddenly went underground.

Singapore's spotless promenade

By GEORGE ARMSTRONG

SINGAPORE — "Should you fail to carry out the requirements of this order," reads a notice served on me in Singapore recently, ". . . (such failure) will render you liable to prosecution under Section 21 of this act and on conviction to a fine not exceeding $1,000 (360 U.S. dollars) or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months . . . ."

A health inspector had found mosquito larvae breeding in a rain-filled paint tin at the bottom of my garden, and I was told to see that it did not happen again.

My assistant was not so lucky. The paper they pushed into his hand read: "You are required to attend personally before the court to answer a charge that you committed an offence . . . and take notice that in the event of your failing to appear a warrant may be issued for your arrest and you will be liable to a penalty not exceeding $2,000 (720 U.S. dollars) or to imprisonment, which may extend up to two months." His offence was "did throw a cigarette butt into a roadside drain."

We live in a rugged society, for Singapore, two million people in assorted colors living in fewer than 320 square miles of dry land, is simply economy-size, and its leaders therefore wage eternal war on the wasteful, the slothful, the slovenly and the uncivic.

Recently, one delinquent was sentenced to a year in jail and three strokes with the rattan (cane) for damaging a telephone booth, and another was given three months in prison and three strokes for stealing flowers from a park. A dirty exhaust can win a three-month holiday in jail for a car-owner, a $1,000 (360 U.S. dollar) find or both. The power of arrest without a warrant is incorporated into a bill prohibiting smoking in cinemas, theatres, buses and other specified places.

"In most towns cleanliness and beauty begin and end in the homes of the wealthy," Premier Lee Kuan Yew has said. "Outside the walls of the homes of the rich the world is invariably ugly and filthy. But we are making all of Singapore our garden and our home."

As for the vigilant public health system: "In many parts of south and south-east Asia actuaries put the life span at between 32 and 36 years. In Singapore, actuaries for life insurance purposes estimate our life span at 66 years."

But do they want 66 years in a keep-off-the-grass community, object the liberals? Counter-accusations shuttle back and forth between the disciplinarians in the saddle and the dissenters on the ground. Nevertheless, the great thing about "Singaporeans" is not how long they live but that they exist at all.

Lee Kuan Yew invented them in 1965 out of the miscellaneous odds and ends of humanity — Chinese, Malay, Indian, Eurasian — that made up the largely immigrant population on the ex-colonial drop in the ocean and today they are proud, even jealous of their title.

And other nations emulate Singapore. In Malaysia, for example, it is a punishable offense even to flick ash off a cigarette in the street. All round, it seems safer to give up courting cancer completely.

Silence of Pope Denounced

By GEORGE ARMSTRONG

ROME — Pope Paul's summer stillness at his villa at Castel Gandolfo has been disturbed by a letter which has accused him of failing in his duty to denounce the use of torture by the Brazilian government, which is sometimes directed against his own clergy.

The letter was written by Ivan Illich, a Yugoslav-born former monsignor, who runs a centre for intercultural documentation in Mexico.

Last January, the Pontifical Commission for Justice and Peace, through its Canadian president, Cardinal Maurice Roy, published a statement which gave evidence of the tortures in Brazil. That was something of a milestone in itself, because normally the Holy See does not criticize the policies of friendly governments.

Pope Paul, while deploring the bloodshed in Indo-China, has never condemned the United States for its role in the Vietnam war. Nor has he said anything on the well-documented subject of the policy of torture by the Brazilian government.

He did, however, immediately and publicly condemn the assassination of the United States adviser to the Uruguayan police, Daniel Mitrione, by the Tupamaros guerrilla organization.

"You denounce the crimes of a little band of rebels," the former priest has written to the Pope, "but when it comes to the crimes of the (Brazilian) government of usurping generals who treat your Nuncio with great honor, you answer only with worldly prudence and silence.

"You have unquestionable evidence that the government constantly uses torture as a means of punishment and of terror, and you have not denounced this. I censure you because you have failed in your prophetic duty. I hold this silence against you, and I tell you that God holds it against you."

Letters addressed to the Pope are carefully filtered by the staff of the Secretariat of State, which also seeks, to protect the Pope from seeing newspaper reports which might perturb him.

It is understood that the Pope has seen a news summary of Dr. Illich's letter, which inadvertently slipped past the watchful eyes of his protectors, and that he is disturbed by the similarity of the accusations in the letter and those made during the Second World War by Cardinal Eugene Tisserant (now Dean of the College of Cardinals) against Pope Pius XII for his silence during the systematic massacre of the Jews by the Nazis.

Messing Face of Hand That Feeds Him

By RUSSELL BAKER

LONDON — Down to the National Portrait Gallery to see the new painting of Princess Margaret which is causing the great controversy. Well, the press says there is a great controversy, but the British public is not stampeding the gallery this morning with portrait-slashing devices. There are exactly eight of us in the presence of the controversial canvas; and all are breathing normally.

Why are oil portraits of state celebrities invariably "controversial?" The Peter Hurd portrait of Lyndon Johnson bestriding narrow Washington like a colossus was, in the President's eyes, the ugliest thing he had ever seen in his life. A recent portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, making her look twice as regal as any post-Restoration Queen would have dared to be, has been criticized as insulting.

This ever the lot of the portrait painter. It must be a frustrating art form — the painter struggling to put life on canvas, the customer reluctant to pay for anything but flattery. Now that we are all liberated, of course, the portraitist is free to make a mess of the face of the hand that feeds him, and his patron is expected to take it in good grace.

Brianorgan, the Princess's painter, has not made a mess of her face, but he has left half of it blurred in a curious fog. The representation, however, is unmistakable. Color is sparse, the background stark and the head small in relation to the vast acreage of the canvas. Still, only the most captious Royalist could take fright.

The traditional plight of the portrait painter is better illustrated on the gallery's top floor where the Tudors, their ministers and ladies march off down the corridors under the hooded glare of Holbein's magnificent Henry VIII.

Of all this parade, only Henry is thoroughly credible. All majesty and ruthlessness and, yes, intelligence. And what a readiness to use power. You would not want to be invited over to play poker with this man, for he could beat you six ways, including — but only if he had to — royal decree that your hand was worthless, and cheating.

He had a noble temperament that understood the gravity of art; a rare trait in a politician. How do we know? If he had not, Holbien's portrait would not be around today. It says something less for his remarkable daughter, Elizabeth, that there is no comparable picture of her in this gallery. Such portraits as exist bear so little resemblance to one another that they might be of different women, and none exudes the least breath of life.

Was it painter or statesman who decreed that posterity should not see the Tudors as they were in life? Here are dozens of pictures of these 15th and early 16th century celebrities, famous for writing, fighting, conniving, exploring, and each one looks like the one before.

Wolsey, Cranmer, Thomas, Cromwell, Raleigh, Essex, Leicester. Costumes change to suit the office, hairlines vary from man to man, here and there a beard breaks the monotony, but the faces have no identity, the eyes give away no secrets, the mouths say nothing.

Someone obviously was being careful not to assert himself. In Henry's time it may have been the subjects, whose faces on canvas all have that careful look of guarded noncommitment affected by Mafiosi at the police station.

Considering Henry's tendency to put advisers aside unpleasantly when their usefulness declined, it is conceivable that his men preferred not to call attention to themselves. Hence these discreet representatives in which all appear in the same mask.

The Elizabethan peacocks must have been a different case. It was a time when men liked calling attention to themselves. Perhaps they did not want painters doing the calling for them and so, settled for a lifeless flattery which makes them all, seen through such a depth of time, look as alike as—peacocks.

Persons ordering their portraits probably believe, in most cases, that they are ordering the monuments through which posterity will see them. The lesson of the National Portrait Gallery is not very original. The one person there who seems physically present, Henry VIII, is the one who submitted to the sovereignty of a great artist.

You'll have two things going for you right away.

First, our salaried professional will take the time you need to have things clarified. Not just about the policy itself, but — and this is even more important — about how it fits into your personal plans and circumstances.

The second thing you get is probably the best 'merchandise' in the insurance market. For example —

A "Whole Life" policy taken out in 1950, with a face value of $10,000.00, now has a claim value of $16,672.00.

These $6,672.00 are Bonuses which we have added annually. In many cases, these Bonus additions will be greater than the premiums paid, depending on the age of the policy holder.

Naturally, this is an example of past performance; we cannot guarantee its continuance in the future. But our track record is pretty good — as your Standard Life man will explain to you in full detail.

Which brings us back to our main point: if you want to understand your life insurance, talk to one of our men.

He won't make a fast sale. He'll take the time to help you buy what's right. For you.

Red Commandoes Blast S. Viet Ranger Camp

SAIGON (AP) — More than 200 North Vietnamese commandos blasted their way into a South Vietnamese military district headquarters and a ranger camp south of Da Nang today and rampaged through the two installations, killing at least 34 government soldiers and wounding 42.

Twenty-six North Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed in the three-hour battle.

It was the worst setback for government forces in a single action since last June, when 46 South Vietnamese troops were killed by North Vietnamese who overran a government artillery base northeast of the A Shau valley.

Striking a few hours before dawn under the cover of darkness and a heavy mortar barrage that pinned government defenders down, the North Vietnamese simultaneously attacked the Tra Bong district headquarters and a ranger frontier defence camp 3½ miles away.

North Vietnamese sappers broke into both the district headquarters and the camp and ran through them, hurling dynamite bombs and firing rifles and rocket-propelled grenades.

Reports from Cambodia said government troops had seized the initiative for the first time in the Cambodian war, starting their biggest operation to date to relieve Communist pressure on their nation's heartland.

The offensive comes at a time when North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activity in Cambodia is comparatively light. Military sources said the government had caught the Communist troops apparently resting and regrouping between drives of their own.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Phnom Penh that Cambodian troops by this morning had met only light resistance while moving six miles north of Skoun, 40 miles north of Phnom Penh.

CLASH ON HIGHWAY

More than 500 South Vietnamese rangers keeping the main Phnom Penh-to-Saigon highway open clashed with North Vietnamese troops Monday 65 miles southeast of Phnom Penh just across the border. South Vietnamese losses were three dead, spokesmen said, while 21 Communist troops died.

The aim of the Cambodian offensive, as outlined by military sources in Phnom Penh, is to clear Highway 6 from Skoun to Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Kompong Thom has been surrounded for three months by troops of the North Vietnamese 20th Division, which also controls Highway 6, the only accessible land route to the city. Two Cambodian brigades are trapped there.

Wheeler reported that almost a division of Cambodian infantry was involved in the operation, perhaps 8,000 troops including support elements.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains A Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles." It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions.

All this was accomplished by a healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

THE HARMAC STRIKE CAN BE SETTLED NOW!

Alberni and Powell River pulp unions have agreed on new contract terms. A similar offer has been made to Harmac.

On September 1, terms of a three-year contract were settled with the pulp and paper unions at our Alberni and Powell River mills, and are being recommended to members for approval. A similar proposal has been offered to the union representing Harmac employees. Some of the substantial benefits included are:

WEEKLY SICK PAY	$90 per week. (Maximum benefit period increased from 39 to 52 weeks.)	$95 per week.	$110 per week.

PENSION PAYMENTS Effective July 1/70: Supplementary payments by the Company to give maximum Canada Pension Plan benefits to Company pension plan members retiring at age 65 in the next five years.

16⅔% increase in pension benefits for service after Jan. 1/71.

An additional 16⅔% increase in pension benefits for service after Jan. 1/73.

The agreement also calls for a number of other improvements, including increases in night shift differential and in supplementary floating holidays for long service employees.

Because we must treat all our pulp and paper employees equally, this must be our final offer to Harmac employees.

The proposal is a generous one, it would provide the highest wages paid to pulp and paper workers anywhere in the world.

It is to be hoped that Harmac employees will have an opportunity to vote their approval immediately so there may be an early return to work without further loss of income.

A MAJOR ATTRACTION at the fair were the flower exhibits which this year excelled in quality. Potted flowering plant held by Cathy Dye, 16, of 5160 Patricia Bay Highway, is an example of the entries in this class.

NOT A TEAR was shed by Grant Sandeman-Allen, 13, of the 4-H Garden Club, Saanich Penninsula branch, as he sniffed these onions in a showmanship competition. He won first prize.

Rain, Crowds Pour Into Fair

By HUMPHRY DAVY

In rain and shine, Victorians turned out en masse over the Labor Day weekend to make the annual Saanichton fair a success.

On opening day, Saturday, when it started to drizzle, attendance was about half what it usually is.

More Pictures, Story On Page 19

But in Sunday when the rain came down in sheets, much to the surprise of fair officials, people arrived at the fairgrounds in droves.

In the pouring rain, people sat on bleachers and watched the Chinese Oriental show at the bandshell and the horse show.

The climax came on Monday when the sky began to clear. People swarmed over the grounds, establishing an attendance record for Labor Day.

More than 15,000 poured through the gates. Cars were jammed on the grounds and on all adjoining roads.

Bud Michell, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society estimates the attendance for the three days to be between 20,000 and 23,000. That is as good as last year's.

That is a good as last year's.

Clad in everything from tweeds to dungarees, thousands of people tramped from exhibits and show rings to the midway and refreshment stands, Monday.

People were cheerful and gay and got into the spirit of things.

The fair was well-organized and the way the exhibits were neatly displayed pleased one of its regular visitors and staunchest supporters — former lieutenant-governor George Pearkes.

He opened the fair and was named, at the same time, the first freeman of Central Saanich.

A total of 308 4-H Club members ran through a full program of events and in some sections, such as cattle and honey, competed successfully against their seniors.

Henry Robinson, fair manager, who has watched the 4-H movement grow over the years, said competition between clubs and members, had never been keener.

One of the biggest attractions was the poultry and game bird exhibition which won the inter-section competition.

People were fascinated by the fancy birds (dream birds as one child called them) and the giant-size chickens.

A big improvement this year was the art show — the best ever, according to judges.

The show was arranged by Mrs. M. Clayards, Mrs. M. Budd, Mrs. C. Brownlee and Arris Smith. They managed to assemble 300 exhibits — paintings, wood sculptures and potter.

Last year there were about 30 exhibits in the show.

The rabbit show, with 330 entries, was the largest in history.

As usual, the Saanich Historical Artifacts Association with its old-time threshers and steam engines, the horse show and the sheep judging, drew large crowds.

Attendance Up as PNE Ends Stand

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific National Exhibition closed out a 17-day stand Monday night with a total attendance of 1,167,030, an increase of 18,170 over 1969.

Final-day attendance was 109,050, up 13,694 from Labor Day last year.

GM Founder 99 Today

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Col. R. S. (Sam) McLaughlin, the "grand old man" of General Motors, celebrated his 99th birthday today.

The event was to be marked by a family gathering at his estate here, to be attended by his three daughters and close family friends.

He founded the McLaughlin Carriage Works which later became General Motors of Canada Ltd. and served as president and chairman of the board of GM. Until his recent illness he had spent at least an hour a day in his office.

Pension Premiums To Climb to $172.80

OTTAWA (CP) — The maximum yearly premium for Canada Pension Plan coverage will escalate automatically to $172,80 in 1971 from $169.20 this year, the department of internal revenue announced today.

The increase is based on the maximum annual allowance of two per cent for the rise in the cost of living. The same escalation factor will raise the ceiling on maximum pensionable earnings to $5,400 from $5,300 in 1970.

The 1971 calculations will raise the maximum contribution of an employed person to $86.40 from $84.60. Self-employed contributors earning at least $5,400 must pay the full premium on their own.

Annual contributions have increased by a similar proportion each year since the plan's inception in 1966 when the full premium was $158.40.

REPORT URGES LEGALIZATION OF MARIJUANA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A staff report to the United States national commission on the causes and prevention of violence released Monday night recommended the legalization of marijuana. The report also said the violent crime rate by urban blacks is markedly higher than whites and suggested improved ghettos conditions as a means to solve the problem.

The report called for legalization of marijuana to persons over 18 years old.

"There is no reliable scientific evidence of harmful effect, nor is there evidence of marijuana's being a stepping-stone to hard narcotics," the report said.

Pound Under Pressure

LONDON (AP) —The pound slipped to its lowest level in almost a year today as foreign exchange markets opened in quiet conditions. It was quoted at $2.38125.

The fall raised some talk of devaluation, but financial experts discounted any immediate government move.

The slump came amidst labor strikes and deteriorating trade figures. Commentators said sentiment worsened with the latest International Monetary Fund warning of inflation and an American economic report advising subscribers to stay clear of sterling.

The $2.38125 level was half a point below Monday night's close. It was not immediately clear whether the Bank of England moved in today with support, but the slack conditions appeared not to warrant it.

The decline brought sterling down to levels reached during last fall's international monetary crisis.

Britain Profited In Money Dealings

LONDON (AP) — Britain profited in its money dealings with the rest of the world by £53 million ($132.5 million in the April-June period, the government has announced.

The balance-of-payments surplus was less than half the surplus in the previous three months, when Britain was in the black by £119 million.

The quarterly balance of payments figures, showing the difference between what a country is earning and spending abroad, is a key indicator of national economic health.

6% Prediction Immature Claim Canada Bankers

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian banking officials see little prospect of a six per cent prime interest rate, as predicted by Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans of the United States.

Stans said in an interview that he sees six per cent interest rates again "and perhaps not too far off."

A Canadian banking source said Stans is "kind of optimistic."

It's a bit too strong to mention six per cent when there are still so many unknowns at the moment."

If rates were lowered in the U.S., however, Canada would be forced to follow suit to protect its foreign reserve treasury, already filled to record levels.

If Canadian interest rates remain high while U.S. rates drop, money from the U.S. flows into Canada to take advantage of the favorable rates. Such a flow would put added pressure on the Canadian dollar.

"There is going to be a tremendous money shortage during the 1970s," the banking spokesman said, "not only in North America but throughout the world."

"This will tend to keep interest rates up so six per cent rates appear premature."

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Stages Recovery

After being off seven points at one stage the New York stock staged a sharp recovery with the Industrial index finishing the session ahead 1.99 points.

Weakest sectors were banks, industrial mining, pipelines and utilities.

AT TORONTO in industrials, Home A was down ¾ to 20¼, Inco ⅝ to $40⅝, Imperial Oil ⅜ to 18⅝ and Bell Canada ⅛ to 42⅞.

Occidental Pete rose 3 to $23, Metropolitan Stores 1½ to $22, Nabors Drilling 1⅜ to $14¾, Dome Pete 1¼ to $64 and Gulf Canada 1⅛ to $16⅜.

Endako rose ⅝ to $13⅛, Placer ⅜ to $32⅝, Opemiska ¼ to $12¼, Campbell Chibougamau 25 cents to $7.75 and Lake Dufault ¼ to $16⅛. Denison lost ⅜ to $23¼, Rio Algom ⅜ to $18¾, Hudson Bay Mining ⅝ to $20⅜ and Northgate ¼ to $10⅝.

Canadian Superior Oil was down ⅝ to $34⅛. Asamera climbed 1⅜ to $18, Canadian Homestead 55 cents to $9.45, Chieftain 40 cents to $8.55 and Siebens 30 cents to $8.65.

AT NEW YORK, prices near the close included Occidental Petroleum, up 2 to 22⅝; University Computing, up 3½ to 25¾; Anaconda, off 1¼ to 20¾; Memorex, up 4 to 77, and Pan American, off ⅞ to 11⅛.

AT MONTREAL, selling pressure eased slightly but prices were lower across a broad front in heavy trading on the stock market today.

Highlighting losses among banks in afternoon trading were Royal Bank, off ⅜ to $22¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ¼ to $19⅛, Bank of Montreal ¼ to $15½ and Bank of Commerce ⅛ to $20¼.

In senior oils, Pacific Petroleum slipped ½ to $27¾, Aquitaine ½ to $23⅝, Husky Oil ¼ to $13 and Imperial Oil ¼ to $18⅝. Gulf Oil was ahead ⅜ to $16¼.

Rio Algom was off ¾ to $18⅜, Great Lakes Paper ½ to $17½ and Inco ½ to $40½.

Highlighting gains were Readers' Digest, up 1⅝ to $6⅛, Ivaco ⅜ to $8¼ and Algoma Steel ⅛ to $13¾.

AT LONDON, The stock market moved lower in quiet trading today.

A warning by the International Monetary Fund on inflation dangers and the absence of a Wall Street lead contributed to the decline. Small selling and an almost complete lack of buyers also combined to depress prices.

British funds drifted on lack of support in advance of the United Kingdom balance-of-payments quarterly figures. Losses ranged to 1-16 point in the longer dates.

Dollar stocks were idle.

AT VANCOUVER, trading was moderate and prices were up as the stock exchange reported a volume of 1,659,817 to 11:15 a.m. today.

In the industrials, Tokar was up .05 at $2.90 on a volume of 14,400 shares. Block Bros. was down .05 at $4.05, and Driver Development was down .02 at .52.

Ponderay led the oils, and was up .07 at $1.62 after trading 36,000 shares. Canarctic was down .01 at .64, and Manhattan was up .03 at .55.

In the mines, Mount Washington was unchanged at .12 on a volume of 309,500 shares. Lake Beaverhouse was trading at .22 and Rolling Hills was down.01 at .72.

Publicity Stunt, Says Oil Chief

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of Petrofina Canada Ltd. said Monday that the plan of several oil companies to put on the market gasoline without lead in order to reduce air pollution is just a "publicity stunt."

Alfredo F. Campbell said in a statement that oil companies planning to introduce gasoline without lead or a small amount of it "are just trying to take advantage of the public's fear of pollution."

He said their decision will only mean a useless increase in cost which will hurt the consumer and will not reduce pollution.

Campo said the lead content in gasoline is an insignificant factor of pollution which is being caused by the hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxide contained in the exhaust fumes.

He said nothing justified this "eagerness to introduce such a gasoline," and although Petrofina could produce gasoline without lead it had no intention of doing so at the moment.

U.S. Urged to 'Rectify' Payments Deficit

WASHINGTON (WP) — The annual report of the International Monetary Fund Monday called on the United States to "rectify" its heavy and growing balance of payments deficit.

According to the document, submitted by the executive directors, this is "the most urgent remaining task in the field of international payments."

The report also used strong language to register its disappointment in the progress of arresting the inflationary spiral within the United States, and suggested that industrial countries generally needed new anti-inflation weapons, including "incomes policies," or direct attacks on wage and price movements.

There was no comment on one key issue expected to be widely debated during the annual meeting that begins in Copenhagen on Sept. 21: The possibility of modernizing the system of currency exchange.

But a separate report on this issue, carefully discussing alternate ways of introducing a measure of flexibility into exchange rates, will be published next Monday.

This will serve to dissociate the comments, however tentative, from the fund itself, until the powers-that-be in the organization—who now are split on the issue—make a policy decision.

In brief, the U.S. would like to create a modest degree of additional flexibility to avoid the traumatic flare-ups that typically surround changes in parities—as was the case last year, for example, in the up-valuation of the German mark and the devaluation of the French franc. But many of the European countries resist any tampering with the current system.

Despite the annual report's concern with inflation and balance of payments deficit (in the U.S. and elsewhere), it registered satisfaction with "a calming of financial markets last year," which it attributed to three actions that supplemented the realignment of European currencies:

- The establishment of $3.4 billion in special drawing rights (often called "paper gold").
- Provision for a $7.6 billion increase in IMF quotas, increasing the potential size of the fund to $28.9 billion.
- An agreement on South African gold sales to the fund (some $307 million was sold during the first six months of 1970).

RESERVES RISING

The creation of SDRS, hailed by the report as "a historic move," means that international reserves are once again rising; and there will be an additional $6 billion created in 1971 and 1972. The agreement with South Africa also adds a small amount of reserves, but more importantly removes what had been a contentious issue by effectively assuring a $35 floor price for gold.

The report took note of "the remarkable improvement" in the U.K.'s external accounts, but observed also that Britain had lately experienced sharply rising internal costs and prices.

In commenting on the growing Japanese trade and balance of payments surpluses, the report observed that one way Japan could reduce them would be tariff cuts and abolition of import quotas. Japan's imports, in relation to GNP, the report suggested, are "far below the average for all industrial countries."

Gaining in shares of the world export markets over the last decade are Japan, Italy, Germany, Norway and Belgium, the report showed. Exports by France, Sweden, Switzerland and The Netherlands were at about the same percentage as before. The losers were the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Denmark and Austria.

Deadly Ore Will Be Shipped

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 220 tons of deadly cobalt-nickel ore will be exported to France next month by Jason Explorers Ltd., a Vancouver-based mining exploration firm.

The ore, which is 40 per cent arsenic, comes from property on Blanchet Islandin the east arm of Great Slave Lake in The Northwest Territories. It cannot be treated economically in Canada because of the lethal wastes it produces.

Tax Ease Studied For Stockholders

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance department officials are studying another possible change in Finance Minister Edgar Benson's white paper on tax law revision by which shareholders will not be penalized while the stock market is recovering from its dramatic spring slump. Benson has said only that some such formula might be considered in fairness to shareholders, treating them more in the same fashion as bondholders under his white paper proposals.

When the white paper was released last November, the government taxes on the capital gains that a taxpayer might make on bond investments, if he bought government or corporation bonds at prices below par and held them to maturity.

Critics of the white paper were quick to point out that even then many investors bought bonds at par only to have their market value go down. They should not be taxed, they said, on any subsequent gain in value until the bonds moved above par.

Benson agreed, and on Nov. 28 announced that only the profits would be taxed that were in excess of either the bond holder's initial cost, or the market value on valuation day — whenever the date is set for putting the capital gains tax system into effect.

SOME SUFFER

But the change was no help to investors in a similar position with common stocks.

When the white paper was released last Nov. 7, stock markets were generally strong, with the Dow-Jones industrials average riding around 855 in New York, and the Toronto Stock Exchange industrials index above 180.

Stock prices slid this spring, knocking perhaps one-third off the value of investments, and only recently have started to climb.

An investor who paid $1.80 a share for stock last November before the white paper came out might have stock now worth only $1.60, using the Toronto exchange index as representative of stock values.

Governing Party Supports Chilean Election Winner

SANTIAGO (Reuters) — The governing Christian Democrat party Monday night gave presidential election winner Salvador Allende its implied support, which almost guarantees his confirmation as president when Congress meets for the final vote Oct. 24.

Outgoing President Eduardo Frei's party criticized calls to congressmen by backers of Jorge Alessandri, right-wing presidential candidate who finished second in the election Friday, to support his candidacy and keep Allende out.

"These declarations seek to alter in an illegitimate way the logical conclusion of the electorate," the statement said in the first clear indication that the Christian Democrat majority in Congress will back Allende.

Frei also implied support for the Marxist candidate when he agreed in an 80-minute meeting with Allende Monday to take all measures to stop violence and attempts to damage the economy.

Allende, 62, is believed most worried about a flow of capital from the country because of his electoral promises to nationalize all basic industries and turn the country into a Marxist state.

BLAMES RIGHTESTS

Allende, who gained a narrow victory in Chile's presidential elections, said ealier that right-wing elements were responsible for a rush of withdrawals from private banks Monday.

The run on the banks started early Monday but the banks met all withdrawals and the run failed to develop, resulting in almost normal business by the time the banks closed.

Santiago's stock exchange suspended dealings Monday because of a wave of nervous business following the election Friday.

Eugenio Blanco, stock exchange board president, said the exchange needed time to sort out "an extraordinary volume of transactions" from Thursday, when many people anticipated a win by Alessandri.

Cardinal Cushing Resigns, Replaced by Texas Bishop

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul has accepted the resignation "for reasons of age and health" of Richard James Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, the Vatican announced today.

Most Rev. Humberto S. Medeiros, 54, bishop of Brownsville, Tex., since April, 1966, was appointed to replace Cardinal Cushing as the Boston archbishop.

Two years ago Cardinal Cushing said he wanted to retire when he reached 75. He celebrated his 75th birthday Aug. 25.

He had said many times that when he retired he wanted to go to South America and work as a missionary.

"Oh, I can't go now," he said in Boston today. "I'm too sick."

The cardinal has had several bouts with illness for several years. He has suffered from asthma, bronchial ailments, and emphysema.

FRIEND OF THE KENNEDYS

The cardinal performed the marriage ceremony for the late John F. Kennedy and his wife Jacqueline in 1953, delivered the invocation at Kennedy's inauguration as president in 1961 and officiated at the assassinated president's funeral in November, 1963.

Five years later, when Jacqueline Kennedy married divorced Greek shipowner Aristotle Onassis he spoke strongly in her defence.

In a radio interview in October, 1968, he said he would offer his resignation earlier to the Pope because of the adverse publicity and "hate mail" which he received because of his attitude to the Onassis wedding.

Although as a Roman Catholic marrying a divorced man, Mrs. Kennedy technically put herself outside the church, Cardinal Cushing at the time defended her action.

"Why can't she marry whomever she wants to marry, and why should I be condemned and why should she be condemned?" he asked in a speech.

He said suggestions that she be excommunicated by the Catholic church or labelled "a public sinner" were ridiculous.

A native of Boston, Cardinal Cushing was ordained a priest in 1921. Pope Pius XII consecrated him a bishop in 1939 and made him archbishop of Boston in 1944. He was created a cardinal by Pope John in December, 1958.

Scoochy, Bang-Hand?

DURHAM, England (AP) — Are you squiffy, quippy and gibble-fisted?

Or merely watted, keggy and cow-pawed?

Or possibly scoochy, skiffy and bang-hand?

Whichever it is, they all mean the same thing. They are, says Prof. Harold Orton, among 88 English ways of saying left-handed.

Orton, emeritus professor of English language at Leeds University, found the 88 variants during 25 years of research into English rural dialects.

He told the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science that he had made his researches just in time. Television and radio are helping standardize spoken English and the old words are being fast forgotten, he said.

FILM STAR TURNS INTO HAIRDRESSER

FRIMLEY, England (UPI) — Fairgoers whistled and applauded at shapely American film "star" Lorraine Lorrimer as she opened the Firmley Fair — but then they came in for a shock.

After judging the fair queen competition, Lorraine took off her blonde wig and dark glasses to reveal local hairdresser Trixie Hall. She agreed to the hoax when fair organizers failed to get a real star.

Martin Trying to Heal Soured Relations

By HARRY MAYERS

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — Canada's desire to stay on good terms with the Caribbean countries is being demonstrated by the arrival here today of Senator Paul Martin to start a goodwill tour through the region.

The visit of the former external affairs minister, who now is government leader in the Senate, is generally considered as reconciliatory since it comes after Canada-West Indies relations soured over the termination of a tariff rebate for West Indian sugar.

But more important, analysts see the visit as an attempt by Canada to restore its image as the good-natured big brother to this increasingly sophisticated area.

In the eyes of Caribbean politicians, this image has been going through a metamorphosis, with Canada taking on the mantle of an imperialist power.

Only last April, Prime Minister Forbes Burnham of Guyana said that Canada could be as imperialistic as any other country.

CANADA CONDEMNED

At the time, Burnham joined other Caribbean leaders at a summit conference in Jamaica in condemning Canada's unilateral action discontinuing the tariff rebate and replacing it with an agricultural development fund.

Prime Minister Erroll Barrow of Barbados branded Canada's offer as contemptuous while another government minister attending the conference said that Canada could "stuff it (the fund) in the St. Lawrence River."

Canada since has decided to extend the rebate system for about one year. Officially, one of the main purposes of Martin's visit is to explain the details of the proposed $5 million agricultural development fund.

The tariff rebates for West Indian sugar to Canada bring in only $1 million, but the Caribbean leaders were peeved because Canada took the decision unilatrally.

OTHER ISSUES IRRITATE

The summit conference even considered a ban on Canadian imports and finally passed a resolution to examine trade and other economic relations between Canada and the Caribbean "so that urgent action might be taken by the Commonwealth Caribbean governments acting in concert to redress any imbalance which may exist therein."

In addition to the sugar issue, however, Caribbean governments also were disappointed by an earlier Canadian decision to scrap plans to set up a regional radio network.

Another matter which has done no good for Canada-West Indies relations has been the upsurge of Black Power in the Caribbean.

During the Black Power demonstrations in Trinidad and Tobago last April, Canadian banks and properties were the targets for demonstrators.

At one stage militants said they would take reprisals on Canadians if West Indians who were on trial in connection with the Sir George Williams University in Montreal riots were found guilty.

Now, in addition to assuaging Caribbean leaders with assurances of Canada's sugar import policy, Martin is to assess the general political and diplomatic climate in the area.

Smith Seeks First Mandate

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier G. I. Smith Saturday announced a general election in Nova Scotia Oct. 13.

He will be seeking his first mandate as premier since taking over the leadership of the Conservative party in the fall of 1967.

Nova Scotia's last election was held May 30, 1967, when the PCs won 40 of the 46 seats in the legislature.

Present standings in the house are Conservatives 41, Liberals 5.

The premier said the Conservative party plans to put forth a program "geared to the needs of the '70s."

The program will emphasize the creation of jobs for Nova Scotians "to put more pay cheques into the hands of more people and provide more opportunity and challenge for our young people."

Stable labor-management relations will also be an important part of the program.

HUNTING BAN CALLED RASH

NORTH COWICHAN — The Cowichan Fish and Game Association has protested a council resolution banning hunters from Somenos and Quamichan Lakes and 50 feet from the shorelines.

President Walter Latter said council made a "rash decision." He doubted if it had jurisdiction.

But North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith said the resolution is a stopgap, pending preparation of a new municipal firearms bylaw.

"We made the resolution to protect the swans, mainly young birds which were hatched this year," he said. "A few years ago vandals shot swans in that area and left them to die, and we wanted to prevent recurrence of such damnable acts."

China Story 'Speculative' Says Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — An external affairs department spokesman today described as "purely speculative" a Tokyo report that Canada may establish diplomatic relations with mainland China around the middle of October.

Talks between Canadian and Chinese diplomats, aimed at laying the basis for an exchange of diplomatic recognition, have been going on in Stockholm for more than 18 months.

They have been stalled over Peking's insistence that Canada recognize its claim to Formosa. Canada has rejected this demand, though it is prepared to sever its official ties with the Nationalist government based on Formosa if agreement with Peking is achieved.

It was understood that Canada's vote this year on seating the Chinese Communists at the United Nations will depend on progress during the next several weeks at the Stockholm talks.

Last year, Canada continued its policy of abstaining when the perennial Albanian resolution calling for Peking's admission and Nationalist China's expulsion came to a vote at the fall General Assembly session in New York. The resolution was defeated.

Transplant Fails

EDMONTON (CP) — A 23-year-old Alberta woman died Saturday night, four days after receiving her second bone-marrow transplant.

Mary Sims of Stettler received the second transplant Tuesday at the University of Alberta Hospital, after doctors said she would not live without the operation.

Dr. P. R. Band today said that Mrs. Sims died of "a fungus infection in the blood."

He said this was one of the "major causes of death in transplants and will not halt any future tryouts."

Police Court

A 38-year-old man, who refused to acknowledge ownership or the whereabouts of a car involved in an accident until police found the damaged vehicle in the bushes near his home, was fined $300 in court Saturday when he pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident.

"You made every effort to frustrate police investigation," Judge William Ostler told Bert Pederson, 1524 Charlton.

Five days later, police went to Pederson's residence but the accused refused any implication in the incident and the investigating officers left.

The officers found the damaged car in bushes nearby with parts of the vehicle removed and returned to Pederson's home where he admitted being the owner and driver at the time of the accident.

Ostler also suspended Pederson's licence.

Wendy Carrier, 19, of 4131 Rosedale, was fined $250 when she pleaded guilty to shoplifting.

She was observed in The Bay Sept. 4 by a security officer who saw her put on a pair of shoes, worth $10.97, and walk out of the store.

B.C. Halibut Boat Seized

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The United States Coast Guard said the cutter Confidence seized a Canadian halibut schooner Monday about 55 miles southwest of Ketchikan, Alaska.

A coast guard spokesman said the schooner, the Clipper II, was fishing in United States waters near Cape Muzon on the southern end of Dall Island. He said the ship had about 12 tons of halibut in its holds.

The coast guard said the ship, skippered by Dennis Smith of Prince Rupert, B.C., was being escorted to Ketchikan.

The Coast Guard said the ship was believed to have been fishing within two miles of the U.S. shore.

Royals' Sponsor Gets His Reward

Victoria Blanks Spartans 6-0

By DAN STINSON

When Jim Irvine of Ladysmith decided to sponsor a Victoria entry in the Western Canada Soccer League earlier this year, he was, by his own admission, taking a gamble of sorts.

The game is traditionally played in the winter months. How well would it be accepted in the summer?

And although the nucleus of the proposed summer squad was to be from Victoria O'Keefes of the Pacific Coast League, Irvine still needed additional personnel—and a coach.

Much work was required, and much was done.

IT WAS 6-0

Attributed with a fearless attitude and unfailing generosity, Irvine had received his just reward.

But the robust Irishman refused to rest on newly-found laurels. Already he was looking to the future.

"We'll be back next year and we'll have another win er," he said confidently in the jubilant Royal dressing room after the game.

BEATEN SUNDAY

For the record it should be noted that Royals went into Monday's contest one goal in arrears to Spartans in the two-game, total-goal series.

The Vancouver side adapted to miserable rainy conditions at Burnaby's Swangard Stadium Sunday and hustled to a 2-1 victory on goals by John Conners and playing-coach John Milner. Peter Wilson replied for Victoria.

But it was veteran Jim Menzies who sparked Victoria to its overwhelming triumph in the Monday game.

After Ash Valdal had put Victoria ahead, 1-0, near the end of an often-rugged and chippy first half, it was decided that Menzies should drop back to fill the space between mid-field and the forward line in the second.

The move proved to be amazingly productive.

Royals took complete charge of a previously well-balanced contest, scoring a total of five goals, three within five minutes.

With his back to the goal, Menzies took a pass from Hughes at six minutes and lobbed the ball over the head of on-rushing Spartan goalkeeper Al McLeod from six yards.

BOLITHO GETS TWO

Outstanding both ways, Howie Anderson then set up Bob Bolitho for the first of his two tallies at nine minutes. Attempting a pass to Wilson, Bolitho sent the ball off Spartan defender Barry Keating and it dribbled in past the helpless McLeod.

Brian Robinson was credited with his first goal two minutes later after Wilson's corner kick was turned aside by McLeod. Robinson picked up the rebound and boomed a 20-yard drive off Vancouver's Gino Vazzoler.

Royal netminder Barry Sadler earned his shutout by stopping Conners on a well-aimed drive at 18 minutes, but was not kept overly busy in the Victoria net—much unlike the Sunday fiasco.

Chalk up another goal by Robinson at 39 minutes and a great individual effort by Bolitho for his second marker 60 seconds later, and you'll find Royals ahead 6-0 in the game, and 7-2 in the series.

Scoring over.

PLAYOFF IN AIR

Menzies was doing much to rub more satt into the already considerable Spartan wounds, however, and his fine passing and playmaking efforts did not go unnoticed by the appreciative home-town throng.

Official word has yet to be received by Royals from league officials as to whether there will be a Coastal-Prairie division playoff for the over-all WCSL championship.

Regina Concordia took the Prairie final Sunday.

Among many post-game comments heard in the Royal dressing room Monday was the suggestion that if there was a final league championship game, it will be played next Saturday in Victoria, with the winner taking all.

PENALTY KICKS DECIDE PRAIRIES' CHAMPIONS

REGINA (CP) — Regina Concordia won the Western Canada Soccer League Prairie division championship Sunday, defeating Winnipeg Blues in a two-game, total-goals final that was decided on an exchange of penalty kicks.

Regina eventually emerged with a 7-5 series margin, earning the right to meet the division champion in a sudden-death league final next Saturday.

Concordia opened the eastern division playoff Saturday with a 2-1 victory. The Blues bounced back with a 1-0 triumph Sunday, forcing the teams into two 15-minute periods of overtime.

After 30 minutes of extra time the Blues were still ahead 2-1 and the series was tied 3-3 in goals.

To break the stalemate, officials decided to allow each team five penalty kicks. Concordia scored with their first four, Winnipeg missed two and Regina emerged the series victor.

John Schepers, who scored once Saturday, paced Regina Sunday with two goals. Adolph Traweger, Andy Sharpe and George Ferguson scored the other Concordia goals. Traweger also scored Saturday.

Jim McLeish scored for Winnipeg Saturday and collected another Sunday, when the Blues also got goals from Jim Curry, Ken Taylor and Wolfgang Trauer.

Denford Victim Of Perfect Game

KELOWNA (CP) — Port Moody allowed just one run on six hits in four games during the weekend to take their first British Columbia senior "B" softball championship.

Port Moody capped the masterpiece weekend by bombong runner-up Kelowna 10-1 in the final game Monday behind the one-hit pitching of Dave Noyes and on the strength of six hits, including a three-run homer by Butch Kinley.

Port Moody won its opening game 6-0 Saturday against the same Kelowna squad. They then shut out Vancouver 4-0 and Kamloops 9-0 Sunday to advance to the final.

PERFECT GAME

Kelowna, after dropping its opener to Port Moody, fought back to win three crucial games to reach the final. In the first game Sunday, Kelowna's Rick Kraushaar, voted the best pitcher in the tourney, threw a perfect game to lead his team to a 2-0 win over Victoria Denfords and knock the island team from the double-knockout playoffs.

Vancouver upset Denfords 6-3 on Saturday.

In a 12-inning cliffhanger, Kelowna took their next game by edging Nanaimo 1-0, which eliminated the losers from competition. The host team then breezed by Kamloops 8-3 to move into the final.

Seattle Pros Sweep Honors

Dave Springer of the American city emerged champion after a closely-fought 18-hole playoff round with another Seattleite, Al Wimbly, who finished in the runner-up spot.

Springer's par on the 18th brought his score down to 20-under, while Wimbly took a double bogey on the last hole.

Kern Kenrud of Seattle was named the Northwest's "putter-of-the-year" with his third-place finish. Al Gill, Bob Perciso and Doug Davenport, all of Seattle, finished close behind.

Bodnar Selected Salt Lake Coach

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gus Bodnar, an executive in the Toronto Maple Leags organization, has been named the new coach and general manager of Salt Lake Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League.

O.C. CRICKET

LONDON (AP) — Scores of Old Country cricket matches Monday:

At Scarborough: Rest of World XI 253 and 2 for 4; T. N. Pearce's XI 253

At Dublin: Ireland 228 and 304 for 8 declared; MCC 328 for 5 declared and 207 for 5. MCC beat Ireland by 5 wickets.

Ed's 'Touch Wood' Job Key to Argos' Victory

By The Canadian Press

A forearm smash to the back of Ottawa quarterback Gary Wood's head on the first play from scrimmage on Monday night knocked him senseless and sent the Rough Riders reeling to a 37-21 defeat in Eastern Football Conference action at Ottawa.

The act cost Toronto Argonauts the services of defensive end Ed Harrington for the rest of the game but set the pattern of play for the night as Toronto's Bill Symons scored four touchdowns.

The Argo victory, their third in six starts, sent them to the top of the league wih six points, the same number amassed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes in five games.

The three-way tie for first came about from an earlier Labor Day game at Hamilton where the Ticats edged Montreal 17-12 on the strength of a last-quarter touchdown and field goal.

JONAS DIRECTING

Toronto quarterback Don Jonas contributed two scoring tosses, one to Symons and another to flanker Jim Thorpe, and kicked five converts. Dave Mann kicked two singles to complete the Argo scoring.

Wood recovered to throw touchdown passes to speedster Hugh Oldham and flanker Billy Cooper and ran 16 yards for another Rough Rider touchdown. Ivan MacMillan converted all three Ottawa touchdowns to raise his league-leading points total to 39.

The Hamilton-Montreal game, played before 28,702 fans, developed into a series of misplays until the Alouettes broke the touchdown drought midway into the fourth quarter when Dennis Duncan left a dumbfounded Ted Page in the lurch before taking a Passander pass to paydirt.

Up until that time all the scoring had come from placekicking. Hamilton's Tommy Joe Coffey had kicked two of his three field goals and added a single and George Springate kicked two field-goal efforts.

Montreal carried a 12-7 lead on Duncan's touchdown but the Ti-Cats replied smartly five plays later with Garney Henley sweeping over from three yards out.

'Bellies in Command After Third Straight

NEW WESTMINSTER, (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies came from behind to crush Coquitlam Adanacs 9-4 Monday night and take a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Western Lacrosse Association championship.

Westminster tripped Coquitlam 13-9 Saturday.

Fourth game will be played Wednesday in Coquitlam.

The WLA champion meets Peterborough starting Sept. 15 in a best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup. All games will be played in New Westminster or Coquitlam.

Coquitlam got away to an impressive start Monday night and carried a 4-2 lead into the second quarter. But New Westminster goalie Joe Comeau blocked every shot after that as the 'Bellies moved ahead 5-4 after two and blanked Adanacs 4-0 in the final period.

Art Talson, Kevin Parsons, Dick Crompton and Mike Gates scored for the losers.

Lewthwaite scored four goals for the 'Bellies on Saturday while Wayne and Ed Goss, Bennie and Tracy Wright all scored twice. Giles added the other goal.

Comox Golfer Ties for Third

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — Cpl. Reg Heenan of Ottawa won the Canadian Armed Forces national golf championship Saturday in a sudden-death playoff with Maj. Don Cordukes of Ottawa.

Both were tied at 154 after 36 holes on the par-72 course.

Tied for third place at 157 were Capt. Doug McArthur of CFB Comox and Capt. Ed Legace, CFB Val Cartier, Que.

Passes Work For Riders But Not Esks

The pass meant victory for Saskatchewan Roughriders but spelled defeat for Edmonton Eskimos in separate Western Football Conference games Monday.

The Roughriders, with flanker Gordie Barwell as the prime receiver, collected 310 yards through the air to post a 30-11 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers before 15,433 fans in Regina.

In Calgary, before 23,310 fans, the Stampeders intercepted four Edmonton passes—all in the second quarter—and went on to defeat the Eskimos 28-13. The interceptions, three by defensive halfback Gig Perez, accounted for 24 points.

Saskatchewan's victory, under the direction of quarterback Ron Lancaster who rested an injured arm in the first half, gave the Roughriders 14 points, four more than the Stampeders.

The Roughies, who also used Don Weiss at quarterback, trailed 10-7 at the half but outscored the Bombers 6-1 in the third quarter and 17-0 in the final 15 minutes for their seventh win in eight starts.

Barwell, from Saskatoon, scored two touchdowns on long passes from Lancaster, and made seven receptions for 202 yards.

In his seventh season with the Roughriders, Barwell also set up a third touchdown when he took a 50-yard pass from Lancaster to the Winnipeg one, enabling fullback George Reed to score his third six-pointer of the season.

Halfback Silas McKinnie got the other Saskatchewan touchdown on a 13-yard pass from Weiss. Jack Abendschan, second in the WFC's scoring race with 54 points, booted a field goal and three converts.

For the Bombers, losing their sixth game in seven starts, Ed Breding scored the one touchdown on a two-yard pass from backup quarterback Ron Johnson, Gene Lakusiak added a field goal, convert and single.

Returning Thomas Fails to Help

Meanwhile, the Eskimos surprised Calgary fans by starting Jim Thomas at split end in place of Tom Nettles, cut Sunday afternoon and waived through the Canadian Football League.

However, even with the speedy Thomas in the lineup the Eskimos had trouble penetrating Calgary's defensive line.

With Calgary leading 3-0, defensive halfback Ron Stewart intercented a pass thrown by quarterback Don Trull early in the second quarter. On the next play, quarterback Jerry Keeling hit Herman Harrison with a seven-yard touchdown pass.

Perez followed with three interceptions, all against Rusty Clark, to set up two touchdowns by Dave Cranmer—both on passes from Keeling—and a 38-yard field goal by Larry Robinson.

Robinson also added a 24-yard field goal, three converts, and a single.

Halfback Alan Pitcaithley scored the first Edmonton touchdown, with the Eskimos trailing 27-0, on a six-yard run, Mike Eben got the other on a nine-yard pass from Trull. Dave Cutler converted Eben's touchdown.

The Real Cleon Jones Steps Forward

By the Associated Press

Cleon Jones disclaims any knowledge of the imposter that played left field earlier in the season for the New York Mets.

"This is the real Cleon Jones coming out," he said after he clouted a two-run homer in the opener and a key single in the nightcap as the New Yorkers swept a Labor Day doubleheader from the Montreal Expos, 5-4 and 5-1.

"I don't know who that other fellow was," said Jones, who was only hitting .237 Aug. 6.

"I didn't know what I was doing wrong then and now I don't know what I'm doing right," said Jones, after hitting in his 14th consecutive game and lifting his average to .273.

The pair of victories enabled the Mets to edge into second place in the torrid National League East battle, 1½ games behind Pittsburgh Pirates and one-half game ahead of Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates and Cubs split their doubleheader, Pittsburgh winning the opener 8-3 before dropping the nightcap 9-2 as Canada's Ferguson Jenkins won his 19th game for Chicago, also clouted a homer.

In other NL action — all doubleheaders — San Francisco Giants beat Cincinnati Reds 6-3, 4-3; Houston Astros trimmed San Diego Padres 10-5, 9-4; Philadelphia Phillies stopped St. Louis Cardinals 5-1, 3-2 in 13 innings and Los Angeles Dodgers swept Atlanta Braves, 4-3, 6-2.

Brant Alyea and good old number seven helped keep the Minnesota Twins six games out in front of the Oakland Athletics in the American League's west division standings.

Alyea struck Milwaukee Brewers pitchers for seven runs batted in Monday, Sept. 7, repeating a feat he staged exactly five months earlier, April 7, when he made his debut in a Twins uniform.

The Twins edged the Brewers 7-6 in the first game of a doubleheader — the one in which Alyea pulled his number act. He added two more runs driven in in the Twins 8-3 victory in the nightcap.

The Athletics kept pace, sweeping the Chicago White Sox 7-4 and 7-5. California Angels, who had been tied with the A's, lost 4-1 to Kansas City and dropped 7½ games back.

Elsewhere, Detroit Tigers downed Baltimore Orioles 5-2, the New York Yankees nipped Washington Senators 4-3 and Cleveland Indians trounced Boston Red Sox 8-2 after losing 4-3.

Hornets' Sting In Baker's Boot

Norm Baker's accurate kicking provided the winning difference Sunday as Chew Excavating Hornets grabbed an early lead in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League by edging Cowichan Timbermen 14-12 at Centennial Stadium.

In the other league game, Oak Bay Farmer Construction defeated James Bay Athletic Association Mustangs, 17-7.

Baker collected his second field goal of the day with three minutes remaining in the game to overcome a 12-11 deficit. Two other Baker field goal attempts went wide for single points earlier in the game.

Steve Parker provided the balance of Hornet points with a 44-yard run for a touchdown early in the second quarter.

Dunc Cavers, on a 73-yard dash, and Dan Kinney, with a two-yard plunge, scored unconverted touchdowns for Timbermen.

Peter Cruise and Paul Short each scored a TD for Oak Bay while Jim Tarbuck provided the balance of points with his boot.

Tarbuck converted Cruise's first-quarter major, added a single point in the second frame on a wide field goal attempt, and then connected on a 20-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Hooey Tops Esquimalt Fish Derby

Hooey netted the largest fish, an 18-pound spring.

Second-largest fish was caught by Dave McPherson, who hauled in a 14 lb., 12 oz. coho. Bill Zaalberg was right behind, netting another coho weighing 14 lbs., 11 oz. W. Scharf's coho catch (14 lb., 10 oz.) and Ed Tutte's salmon (13 lb., 11 oz.) were next in line.

Mrs. Olly Reid latched on to the largest salmon by a lady, reeling in a 13 lb., 4 oz. coho.

A total of 75 coho and 50 chinook were weighed in during the three-day event.

Jim Worswick, A. G. LeBlond, W. Sharf, Frank Barnes, R. Leachman, Stan Thame, A. Wilson, Bruce McLeod and Ken Buchanan.

Bown Pads Margin With Speedway Win

By STEWART LANG

Dick Bown of Portland, Ore., made winning look easy Monday as he gunned his 1970 Plymouth Super-Bird to victory before approximately 3,600 car-racing fans at Western Speedway.

Bown, a 41-year-old used auto parts dealer when he's not behind the wheel of a high-powered racing machine, padded his recently-acquired lead in the Western Grand National points race with the cool and collective win.

He started in front of the other 19 cars in the 100-lap main event and had lapped almost the entire field before receiving the checkered flag.

The two-time ELSCAN champion, who is determined to win the title in this division of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, had taken over the front position in standings with two main-event triumphs last weekend.

KERSHAW THIRD

Gary Kershaw of Victoria, who recorded fast time of the night, finished third in the main contest behind John Soares of Hayward, Calif., after starting in 10th position.

Another Victoria pilot, Dave Cooper, was running second after passing Kershaw midway through the race and Soares on the 73rd lap.

Cooper, however, had the misfortune to spin out on the 88th lap and lost sufficient ground to wind up in fourth place.

Cooper found a bit of solace with a victory in the 12-lap fast heat. He went on to victory from a fifth-place start after passing Ed Brown of Meridian, Calif., won the four-lap trophy four-tenths of a mile Langford oval.

WASHOUT FEARED

Perhaps the biggest disappointment for the fans was the appearance of only nine American cars, although those that did show up were the cream of the crop.

It seems that after the WGN appearance in Evergreen Speedway at Monroe, Wash., was rained out on Sunday, most of the drivers returned to the south rather than risk the possibility of another washout in Victoria.

Western Speedway officials were thus forced to augment the event with a program of late-model stock car races.

In fact, nine of the cars which started the 100-lap main were late-models, competing for their own trophy while filling out the field for the WGN drivers.

Cooper and Kershaw finally learned late Saturday from NASCAR headquarters that they could compete against the WGN pilots.

Rick O'Dell won the late-model portion of the main event after finishing third in both the trophy dash and second heat.

The late-model Island driving championship, rained out at Western on Saturday night, has been re-scheduled to be held in conjunction with the stocker championship on Sept. 19.

Death of Rindt Mars Grand Prix

By United Press International

It was a weekend that showed both sides of auto racing from the extravagant opening of the new $25-million Ontario, Calif., track with the California 500 to the death of the world's leading driver, Jo Rindt.

Jim McElreath took the lead in the closing laps Sunday to win the $150,000 first prize in the California 500. Runner-up Art Pollard lodged a protest that he was the winner by a lap but withdrew it after studying the tapes of the race and settled for second place.

McElreath, Pollard, Dick Simon, Gordon Johncock and Peter Revson, who was named the outstanding driver, took down the first five places after such well-known drivers as Mario Andretti, A. J. Foyt, Lee Roy Yarbrough and Al Unser dropped out.

BAKER SCORES

In Monday's big races, Buddy Baker wore down Donnie Allison and Cale Yarborough to win NASCAR's Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C.; England's David Hobbs gained his second consecutive victory in the SCCA's continental championship series ty taking the Inver House Grand Prix at Lime Rock, Conn.; and Al Unser took the USAC 100-lap Ted Horn Memorial at the Du Quioin, Ill., Fairgrounds.

Rindt, who led the point standings and is almost certain to become the first posthumous World driving champion, was killed Saturday in time trials for the Monza Grand Prix in Italy. Rindt's car hit a guard rail on Monza's parabolic curve and broke aprt. The Austrian continues to lead the driver's standings with 45 points compared to 25 for both Jackie Stewart and Jack Brabham with three races left.

Rindt's Lotus teammates, Emerson Fittipaldi and John Miles, pulled out of the race the next day along with Graham Hill, but Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, saying he refused to be frightened, charged through the parabolic curve to set a record time of 1.39:06.88 and give Ferrari its second victory of the season. Stewart was second in a March Ford, and Jean Pierre Beltoise of France third in a Matra.

Another death occurred Monday when a spectator was run down by a stock car at the State Fair Track in Syracuse, N.Y. Raymond Dean of Sidney Center, N.Y., was killed and six others, including his wife, Gertrude, were injured when Lee Millington's car leaped the seven-foot fence on the track's third turn.

Defending champion Don Prudhomme of Granada Hills, Calif., won the AA fuel class in the National Hot Rod Association nationals at Indianapolis, Ind. when Jim Nicoll's dragster split in two. Prudhomme was clocked in 6.456 seconds for an average of 230.76 mph. Jack Jones of San Diego won the top gas eliminator title and Don Schumacher of Park Ridge, Ill. the funny car category.

WIETZES WINS

Eppie Wietzes of Thornhill, Ont., driving a McLaren M10B, clinched his second straight Canadian road racing championship for Formula A and B cars Sunday by winning the Grand Prix de Trois-Rivieres in Quebec.

It was his fifth win in the first six events on the seven-race Canadian championship racing series.

Bill Brack of Toronto, in a GTX 70, stayed in second throughout the race, while another Toronto driver, Horst Kroll in a Lola T142, finished third.

CLANSMEN CLICK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Quarterback Dave Syme passed for two touchdowns Sunday as Simon Fraser University Clansmen defeated Seattle Cavaliers 24-14 in an exhibition football game before 300 fans.

JOHN LOTZ SUSPENDED FOR SWINGING AT FAN

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — John Lotz, 29, a golf tour regular from Hayward, Calif., was suspended and fined Saturday by the tournament players division of the Professional Golfers Association after becoming involved in an altercation at the Greater Hartford golf open.

Lotz will not be able to play in the Robinson Open, the next tour stop, which is two weeks away.

The action was taken when Lotz swung a club at a man in a practice area. He did not make contact.

Lotz, older brother of Dick Lotz, winner of two tournaments and over $100,000 this season, has been on the tour for about four years. John Lotz is a non-winner.

He shot a 70 Saturday for a 141 and made the cut for the first time in several weeks, but will not be allowed to compete in the final two rounds.

Wadkins Reigns After Kite Soars

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Lanny Wadkins, a sandy-haired Virginian, sank a 20-foot putt to wrap up a final round par 70 Saturday and win the 70th U.S. Amateur golf championship after third-round leader Tom Kite Jr. of Austin, Tex., took two double bogeys on closing holes.

Wadkins had a one-under-par 279 for the tournament.

Kite matched Wadkins' birdie four on the 18th hole by making a 10-foot putt and finished one stroke behind, with a closing 73 and a 72-hole score of 280 on the par-70, 6496-yard Waverly County Club course.

The two collegians, playing together, were tied for the lead several times during the day and were well ahead of their nearest competitors. Wadkins, 20, a Wake Forest star from Richmond, Va., grabbed the lead from Kite when he parred the 15th hole and Kite took a double-bogey six.

Wadkins' 279 was a record low for the amateur and gave him, besides his first U.S. Amateur title, a third important victory this summer. He earlier won the Southern and Western tournaments.

COWAN SHARES THIRD

Three players, including 1966 champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., finished tied for third with 284. Cowan shot a 72 Saturday while Jim Gabrialsen of Atlanta had a 73 and Jim Simons of Butler, Pa., had a 74.

Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va., had a 71 and 285 for the tournament. He was the runner-up in the past three amateurs.

Cricket Squad Draw In Windup Matches

Both final matches in the Victoria and District Cricket Association were abandoned due to rain Sunday and were recorded as draws.

Oak Bay batted first at Beacon Hill Park and scored 80 runs, all out. League-champion Albions reached 18 runs for two wickets before rain ended play. Mike Sheikh scored 40 runs while batting for Bays and Mal Shanks, bowling for Albions, took six wickets for 14 runs.

At University School, Incogs had scored 51 for three against Cowichan before the downpour started.

In a Saturday match at Beacon Hill, second-place Castaways and cellar-dwelling Alcos played to another draw on a soggy pitch.

Bryan Rudgard, with 95 runs, led Castaways to a score of 197 runs for five wickets declared. Terry Bateman of Alcos toppled three wickets for 30 runs.

Alcos had 153 runs and one wicket standing when time ran out. Jimmy Davison scored 32 runs for Alcos while Allan Reese knocked over six Alco wickets for 30 runs.

Cowichan and Alcos wind up the season next Sunday in Beacon Hill Park when they meet in a 2 p.m. tussle for the Knockout Cup.

Tom Morris of the Victoria Wheelers club won the 70-mile B.C. championship bicycle race Sunday and captured two other events in the three-day mini-tour sponsored by the Victoria Wheelers.

Morris finished the gruelling 70-mile race in two hours, 59 minutes and 45 seconds, and was followed by Vancouver's Roger Sumner and Joe Haily.

Morris also won the closed-circuit event Saturday and finished first in a 25-mile time trial Monday.

Paul Kitching of Vancouver won the 30-mile junior stage event Monday, while Victoria's Don Fawthorpe was first in the veterans' division, and John Biln, alsofrom Victoria, crossed the line first in the novice run.

Westminster 'C' Champs

PORT ALBERNI — New Westminster Kennedy Carlings captured the B.C. senior "C" men's softball championship here Monday, deafeating Port Alberni Beaufort Hotel, 2-1, in the final game.

Rain forced cancellation of all but two games on Sunday as Beaufort defeated Vancouver Sky Liners and Port Alberni Old Stylers dropped a 3-1 decision to Carlings to reach the final round.

In opening-day action Saturday, Beaufort edged Langley, 1-0, port Alberni Old Stylers trounced Golden, 8-1, Sky Liners took a 3-2 decision from Victoria's Langford Drywall, and New Westminster blanked Prince George, 2-0.

O'Connor Takes Rich Golf Test

HOLLINWELL, England (AP) —Christy O'Connor, 45-year-old Irish golf star, won the John Player Classic tournament by one stroke over Tony Jacklin of England Sunday and collected $60,000, the richest-ever first prize in an English golf competition.

O'Connor shot 70-71-73-72 for a four-round total of 286. No North Americans were in the field of 77.

Murphy Wins Hartford Open

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "It's been a funny kind of year," Bob Murphy mused after taking down the $20,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford open golf tournament.

"I've been in position to win six times this year, finished second once, third twice and just kicked the rest away.

"I guess I've finally adjusted to my new clubs."

It's been a long fight for the 27-year-old Murphy, whose clubs were stolen from his car in Philadelphia a year ago. He offered a reward of "$100 a stick" to get them back, but they were gone for good.

And Murphy, who scored consecutive victories in the Philadelphia and Thunderbird Classics of 1968—his rookie season on the tour—hadn't won since.

FINALLY READY

"I guess I was finally ready," he said Monday after shooting a final 69 for 267 and scoring by four strokes over Paul Harney, a 41-year-old club pro from Sutton, Mass.

Harney had a 67, four-under-par on the 6,568-yard Wehtersfield Country Club course, for a 271.

Tom Weiskopf, with a 67, was alone in third at 272, followed by Jim Grant and Steve Opperman at 273.

Canadians Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and George Knudson of Toronto were well off the pace. Vollmer finished with a 70 Monday for a 284 total while Knudson had a 75 and 290 total. Each won $174.

Late Charge Gives Soviets Games' Title

TURIN, Italy (AP) — The Soviet Union grabbed three more gold medals on the last day of competition Sunday and became the over-all unofficial winner of the sixth World University Games, topping the United States 26 gold medals to 22.

Russian athletes dominated the last day of the two-week event, which drew 2,370 athletes from 64 countries.

The United States, Britain, Poland and East Germany each picked up two gold medals in Sunday's closing track and field events, while Hungary took one.

It was a stinging reversal for the Americans, who had won 43 gold medals in the 1967 Universiade in Tokyo.

Only two Canadians reached Sunday's final events. Abbie Hoffman of Toronto finished eighth in the women's 880 with a 2:12.9 clocking while Carol Martin, also of Toronto, was 11th with a 44.48 toss in the javelin.

Canada, which sent 72 athletes to the games, picked up one medal, a bronze, in the women's 400-metre freestyle swimming in which Sandra Smith of Edmonton finished behind two U.S. girls.

SENIOR CHAMPION

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bill Picken of Vancouver won the senior veterans' singles crown Monday in the British Columbia senior tennis championships, downing George Darrow of Everett, Wash., 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

AIR CARE*

It's not what you take out of the gasoline,
it's what you put into the air.

Gulf's Air Care gasolines vs. low or no-lead gasolines.

To help fight pollution, cars of the future will probably be fitted with catalytic converters and/or exhaust recirculation systems—neither of which will function efficiently on leaded gasolines. So some oil companies are bringing out low-lead or no-lead gasolines.

But new cars with these emission control devices won't be on the market for a year or so yet, and taking the lead out now will reduce exhaust emissions by only a modest amount. Gulf gasolines with Air Care on the other hand can help all cars reduce harmful exhaust emissions, as well as meet the requirements of '71 models which have lower compression engines. And when automobiles do need low-lead gasolines, Gulf Canada will put theirs on the market.

Same octane ratings for Gulf's Air Care gasolines.

Taking the lead out of gasolines lowers the octane rating (and the performance for most cars except '71 models).

At Gulf, we haven't taken anything out of our gasolines. Therefore, our octane ratings stay the same, with Air Care additives in.

Gulf's Air Care gasolines mean cleaner air.

Now, both Gulf premium No-nox and Good Gulf regular gasolines contain special clean air additives that help cut harmful exhaust emissions from your car (especially carbon monoxide and unburned hydrocarbons).

Air Care additives in Gulf gasolines not only minimize exhaust emissions in new cars, they also help clean up harmful exhaust emissions from older cars by actually helping clean up dirty engines.

Better performance, mileage and longer engine life.

Air Care additives are designed to do a number of specific jobs. Like keeping carburetors and intake valves clean. And preventing corrosion and icing.

So not only do Gulf's Air Care gasolines help reduce harmful exhaust emissions, they also give longer engine life, better performance through better combustion, and improved mileage, since clean engines consume less fuel.

Low-ash Multi-G Motor Oil—the extra step.

Gulf have also brought out a new motor oil to help clear the air: new Gulfpride Multi-G. Multi-G has a special low-ash formula that gives it the lowest ash content of any premium quality motor oil on the market, as well as additives that also help reduce harmful exhaust emissions by keeping clean engines clean, and helping clean up dirty engines.

Service runs in our family.

CANADIAN OARSMEN FARE POORLY

East Germans Reign

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Eleven out of 12 boats bettered the previous-best time for the eight-oared shells Sunday, but it was East Germany which came up with the gold medal to cap their domination of the third world rowing championships.

The East German contingent, which entered all of the seven races on the Sunday program, took three gold medals. Nobody else won more than one.

They also won four silver medals. No other country won more than one.

Canada, as host country, also entered every event and — with two exceptions — came last in every one.

East Germany won the coxless fours and coxless pairs to go with their gold-medal victory in the eights. They were second in the coxed fours, singles, coxed pairs, and double sculls.

West Germany won the coxed four and had a second in the coxless fours and a bronze in coxless pairs.

Russia picked off a silver in the eights and a bronze in the coxed pairs.

Bronze medals went to Norway in the coxed fours, Czechoslovakia in the singles, the United States in the double sculls and New Zealand in the eights.

The English-born gardener grows flowers at Butchart's Gardens and at home he grows vegetables, flowers and fruits for exhibition in garden shows.

This is his last year as an exhibitor at garden shows, howerer. He's quitting to take up judging.

LAST OF THREE

He is the last of three outstanding horticultural competitors who for years have been major winners at garden shows in Greater Victoria.

The two others were Ken Hincks, who stopped competing in shows two years ago, and Y. R. Rhodes who died a few years ago.

Parker was present to receive his cup, as well as five other awards at the fair Monday.

His other awards were: Green Cross Challenge trophy for highest aggregate of points in fruit, vegetables and flowers; Brown's Nursery grand aggregate challenge trophy for most points in vegetable section; Scott cup for collection of vegetables; Shelbourne Greenhouses trophy for highest aggregate of points in Dahlia division.

MOST POINTS

Another outstanding winner in the horticultural section was Fred Handy, 6645 Central Saanich Rd. He won the Butler Brothers aggregate trophy for most points in the flower section.

Julie Crowther, 4718 West Saanich Rd. was awarded the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce silver trophy for the youngster obtaining the most points in the junior section of the Agricultural Hall.

Other awards went to Mrs. T. Dahl, Vancouver Milling and Grain. Co. challenge cup for most points in grains, grasses, seeds and field roots for stock and potatoes; Goef Holyhead, J. S. Carlow trophy for highest aggregate in 'mum' division; Saanich Orchards, Holloway cup for highest aggregate in fruit section; W. Leake, CJVI trophy for highest aggregate in the gladiola division; Mrs. Mabel Michell, Merilees trophy for outstanding single crown African violet plant; Mrs. A. Steers, Buckerfield's trophy for most points in plant division; Mrs. Vant Haaff, Mrs. W. D. Michell trophy for highest aggregate in preserved foods section and Simpson-Sears special prize for highest points in preserves and household arts; Mrs. W. Rickson, special trophy to exhibitor residing in the Saanich Peninsula for most points in ladies' work section. The prize is in memory of Mrs. Alex M. Scott, a long-time resident of the peninsula.

A. Miller, Hirst and Flintoff trophy for best set of four colored transparencies (photography); Mrs. S. Hutt, Creed's Roses challenge trophy for the best rose in the show.

Pumpkins Everywhere

There were enough pumpkins entered in a Saanichton fair contest Monday to make pumpkin pies for hundreds of visitors.

Other winners were: Mrs. Marie Mutrie, hidden weight; David Whitehead, children's heaviest; Lee Anne and Robin Michell, 2nd prize children's heaviest; Mrs. M. Clayards and Mrs. E. Macaulay, booby prizes; David Whitehead, best costume.

Production Cut

TOKYO (AP) — Major Japanese paper manufacturers began voluntary 20-per-cent cuts in production today to reduce pollution in Sagami Bay, south of Tokyo. An association of 86 manufacturers in the cities of Fuji and Fujimiya, both in the shadow of Mount Fuji, yielded to pressure from thousands of fishermen who demonstrated in fleets of boats and ashore protesting conditions they said threaten fish.

Crash Kills 18

NEW DELHI (AP) — Eighteen persons were killed and more than 100 were injured when a bus crashed into a ditch in southern Kerala state, the United News of India reported.

Her cone is for ice cream

B.C. Tel has some 1,400 vehicles on the road to help bring telephone services to the people of British Columbia.

These vehicles come in a variety of sizes and shapes — and they often attract interest, especially among curious youngsters like Diana, the five-year-old ice-cream eater pictured above.

We are keenly interested in her safety and that of all youngsters, just as we are in the safety of all British Columbians.

That's why we take special care to train our vehicle operators in safe driving and to provide practices designed to prevent accidents. One of our safety practices is called the "cone method of circle check." It requires that our customer service vehicles carry cones of bright color and that each driver place one cone in front of his vehicle and another behind it when he parks.

Before he moves his truck, he'll walk to the front and from there to the back to pick up the cones. As he circles the vehicle, he'll become aware of objects around it — including any youngsters who may be nearby.

In this way, he prevents accidents in which it is so easy to harm such things as bicycles, tricycles, children's toys — and ice-cream-cone-eating youngsters with incurable curiosity.

B.C. Tel's nearly 9,000 employees strive to provide good telephone service — and to do so in safety for all concerned. Our objective is service with safety and the cone method of circle check is just one more way in which we meet it.

Another accident the next day three miles south of Prince George claimed the lives of Dennis Yargeau, 19, and Charles Crosine, 18, both of Prince George. Their car went over a 600-foot bank.

John Colin Lennie, 65, and his wife Edna, 58, of Deroche in the Fraser Valley, were killed Saturday in a two-car collision near Haney, also in the Fraser Valley.

John Chung Lee, 29, of Vancouver, died Sunday when his car turned over on the Trans-Canada Highway near Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley.

Alexandrina Moir, 84, of Nelson died in hospital Monday from injuries she suffered Sunday in a two-car accident 16 miles west of Nelson.

Donors Found

LANGLEY (CP) — Officials of the Vancouver Game Farm said Monday they have located a family who donated a coyote to the farm last Friday.

Fears were expressed that the family might have been exposed to rabies because the coyote died shortly after arriving at the farm.

Meanwhile, Dr. H. E. Knapg district veterinarian, said rabies investigations are carried out in all cases of mysterious animal deaths. He added that, but aside from bats, there hasn't been a case of rabies reported in B.C. in the past year.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack MacKenzie, first regional vice-president of the International Woodworkers of America, said Monday he'll challenge incumbent Jack Moore for the regional presidency. Death Investigated

HOUSTON, B.C. (CP) — Police are investigating the shooting death of a young man whose body was found Sunday.

Officers have been unable to identify the victim, who was shot a number of times in the neck and face. He is described as being between 18 and 22 years of age and was six feet in height.

IWA Sets Friday Deadline

KELOWNA (CP) — The southern interior British Columbia negotiating committee of the International Woodworkers of America has set a strike deadline for Friday following a breakdown in talks with employers.

Wyman Trineer, spokesman for the committee, said Sunday that negotiations between the union, representing about 5,000 workers in the interior, and the Interior Southern Labor Relations Association had reached a stalemate.

NO MEETINGS

No further meetings were scheduled.

Trineer said the union, after serious consideration, set a strike deadline for 8 a.m. Friday.

He said the union explored every avenue in attempts to solve the dispute and was "deeply disturbed by the attitudes and position taken by the ISLRA in their failure to give recognition to recent established contract settlement patterns."

The employees currently earn a base rate of $2.98 hourly and are demanding a $1.14 an hour increase. About 40 forestry firms are involved.

Negotiators for the IWA and 116 coastal forest companies reached settlement Friday on contract proposals covering 28,000 coastal employees.

Workers had remained on the job during lengthy negotiations.

YELLOW DOTS on local post boxes tell the number of mail pick-ups, pointing the way to faster service. Wendy Mudrak has picked a mail box cleared three times a day. Other changes under study may tell letter writers when their mail will be delivered.

IT'S AN EFFICIENCY DRIVE

Spots Break Out on Mail Boxes

The yellow dots which have blossomed on some local post boxes indicate the number of times daily the box is being cleared of mail.

It's a visual way of telling people who want to speed a letter on its way which collection boxes are getting the most service, local post office information officer Ken Stofer said today.

And it's part of an efficiency drive by the post office aimed at a better service while making it pay its own way.

There could be other changes affecting collection boxes if a pilot project under way in Toronto proves a new service worthwhile.

Meanwhile, about 50 local collection boxes have been removed because a survey early this year showed they weren't being used enough.

That left 386 post boxes in the Greater Victoria area and of these 96 now have from two to four yellow dots on them. The ones without dots are cleared once daily.

All boxes continue to show what times they are cleared but this may change. At some time in the future the box may show what time you have to get your letter into it to be assured of next-day delivery at major centres across the country.

A notice on collection boxes within the Toronto experimental area reads something like this: "If you mail your letters before 2 p.m., they will be delivered the next day in Montreal, Halifax, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. Letters mailed after 2 p.m. will receive following day delivery."

Some letter boxes in Greater Victoria are now cleared as early as 7 a.m. and as late at 7:40 p.m. The boxes where there is just one collection a day, mostly located in residential areas, are cleared mid-afternoon.

A fleet of 17 trucks clears these boxes, about 200 of them, within half an hour.

Nineteen boxes on major routes are cleared in the 7 a.m. to 8:05 a.m. pickup and about 80 boxes are emptied between 6:15 p.m and 7:40 p.m.

Damage of $15,200 In 51 Car Accidents

By STEVE HUME

The Labor Day weekend was a black one for drivers in Greater Victoria.

Area drivers were involved in 51 traffic accidents, 11 resulting in injuries, that did an estimated $15,200 damage to vehicles between Friday night and this morning, a Times survey showed today.

And those figures are conservative.

Not included in the totals are accidents that caused less than $200 damage and did not involve injuries.

The area surveyed included Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Sidney, and the area which falls under the jurisdiction of Colwood's RCMP detachment.

As heavy rains made pavements treacherous, Victoria and Saanich suffered most heavily over the long weekend. The two biggest municipalities accounted for a total of 34 accidents and an estimated total of $14,200 damage.

Victoria led in accidents with 21 to the 13 reported in Saanich, but it was the reverse in terms of damage estimates as Saanich police reported a total of $8,900 to $5,300 damage in Victoria.

Saanich police said there were increases in all areas compared to similar figures for the same period in 1969.

Accidents increased from 10 to 13, incidence of injury jumped from three to five, and damage estimates more than doubled from $4,000 to $8,900.

Of the other areas surveyed, Colwood RCMP reported seven accidents, two involving injuries, while Oak Bay reported three accidents with no injuries.

Esquimalt had five accidents with no injuries and Sidney RCMP reported two accidents, one involving an injury.

Two Women Hit by Car

Two women were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday night after being struck by a car driven by Leslie Webb, of 3329 Keats, Saanich, on the Trans-Canada highway at Harriet, Saanich police said.

Henry Charles Gaddes, 18, of 1344 Victoria Ave., was reported in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was taken after an accident Saturday noon in Victoria.

Gaddes suffered a fractured skull when his motorcycle went out of control in the 1100 block of Langley, jumped a curb on the wrong side of the road and slammed into a cement wall at 12:45 a.m.

Also in Victoria, John Garrison, 23, was reported in good condition at the Jubilee with chest and back injuries suffered in a two-car collision at Blanshard and Hillside about 10:30 p.m. Friday.

Felicie Upton, 49, of 4372 Parkside Crescent, driver of one of the cars, was treated for a cut leg and released.

Injured in an accident at Colwood Sunday were Mrs. Joan Thomas and her son Peter, both of 512 Linden.

Two people were injured in an accident at Burnside and Finlayson at 4:43 a.m. Saturday.

Maurice Earl Wutzke, 19, of 10109 Pleasant St., was taken to St. Joseph's for treatment of head cuts after the car he was driving collided with another car driven by Robert L. Dyke, 32, of 2426 Bevan Ave., in Sidney.

What may have been the most spectacular accident of the weekend, however, did not result in any injuries.

Appeal Seeks 3,000 Helpers

The 1970 United Appeal swings into action today by launching a one-week drive for residential canvassers.

More than 3,000 men and women are needed to canvass homes and apartments throughout Greater Victoria.

This year, campaign planners have divided the region into several districts and will arrange canvass routes so that no one will have to call on more than 20 homes.

The appeal hopes to reach its residential goal of $111,200 in one night. The idea is to blitz every district on Monday, Oct. 19.

This way no canvasser will have to work every week during the campaign.

"The only way to prevent a long drawn-out drive is to get the canvassers we need," says campaign director Judy Nyquist. "If the public doesn't help, it just won't get done."

Drive to Feature Sales Persuasion

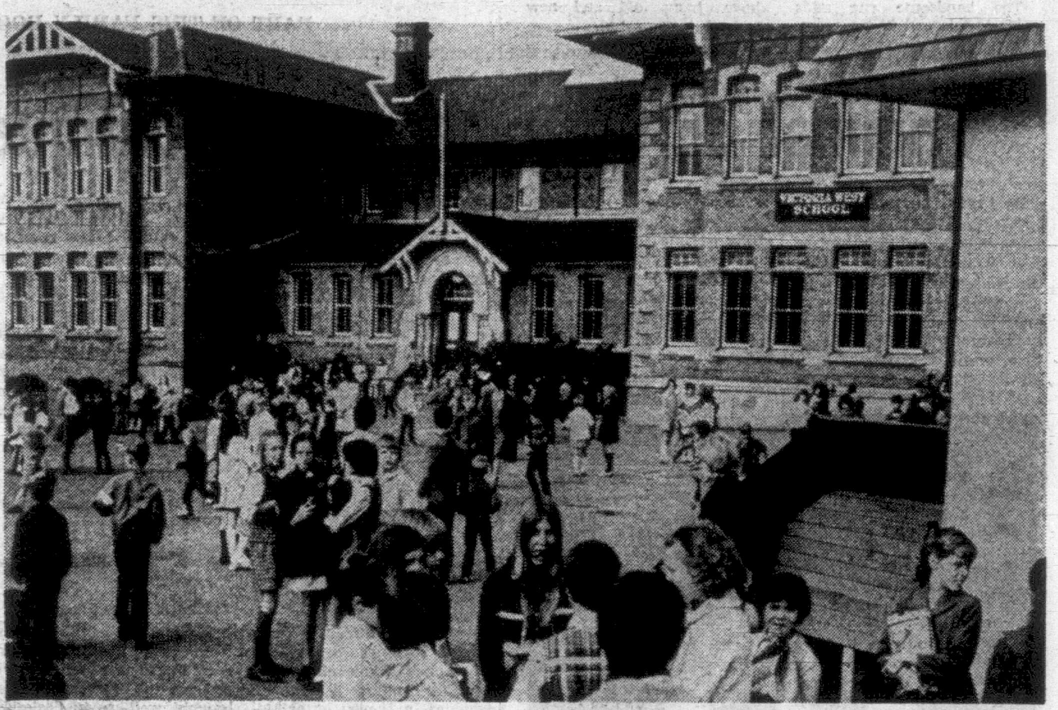
Sales techniques will be injected into the federal government employees' United Appeal campaign this year.

Federal services division — first to start the 1970 campaign — last year raised 15 per cent more than its Appeal goal.

At the kickoff meeting today in the Newcombe Auditorium about 105 federal government canvassers watched a demonstration of how to persuade employees to contribute to the United Appeal.

Pointers were given by Fred Tanner, chairman of the board of directors for the G. R. Pearkes Clinic.

Federal division's goal this year is $52,300, down slightly from last year because of a reduction of Canadian Forces personnel.



READY TO WORK but no place to sit is the predicament of about 125 Victoria West Elementary students today as they wait for five portable classrooms to replace the 62-year-old building behind them. Government approval late last week means the portables will arrive — the first possibly today — but until then five classes will have assignments to complete at home for a few days.

Rescue Centre Sends Out SOS

By PAT DUFOUR

British Columbia's booming development and its image as a playground area is giving the Canadian Armed Forces one of its biggest headaches.

Rear-Admiral Richard Leir says the Rescue Co-Ordination Centre, recently moved from Vancouver to HMC Dockyard, feels it worst and says it's high time there was greater participation by other people in its financing.

"We picked up this service after the Second World War because we had the capability. But we're not getting reimbursed by provincial and other departments.

"Yet the work load has tripled in five years. By this weekend, as an example, there have been 1,197 operations this year. This is already more than last year's total."

Leir says the time has come when the ordinary citizen who buys himself a plane "or plays around with a boat" should participate in some measure.

He also says the provincial government should take some sort of responsibility for the rescue or search of people drawn here through their heavy concentration on the tourist industry.

There must also, he says, be some sort of arrangement to cover costs of mercy flights.

Although the RCC's work load has escalated its resources have geen drained through economic cutbacks.

"Our five Albatross and four Dakotas have been replaced with three Buffalo and three Labrador aircraft. This has to help us cover an area that includes all of the mainland and the B.C. islands, extending 600 miles out at sea.

"With all our vertical real estate we have the roughest country in Canada and a 13,500-mile coastline to watch that's more than that of the continental United States."

The phenomenal upsurge in pleasure boating is responsible for the spectacular rise in marine incidents but Leir says the biggest culprit in draining finances and time is aircraft.

"Every day there's another aircraft being bought and licensed. Some times it takes as much as five weeks before a search is over.

"I would like to see the department of transport make it mandatory that every plane be equipped with a homing device so that we can cut down the flying time needed to find a wreck.

"I'd also like to see the devices aboard yachts."

The RCC's commanding officer, Maj. Gordon Bissell, reports that the Victoria centre is the smallest of four across the country but has the largest number of incidents.

French-Canadians Pull Down Red Ensign

Two French-Canadians who pulled down the Red Ensign and damaged the flagpole in Centennial Square Saturday were told in court today that their actions were not helping national unity.

Lionel Desbiens, 21, of Lauzon, and Robert Lajoie, Cap de la Madeleine, Que., pleaded guilty before Judge William Ostler to causing wilful damage under $50 and were sentenced to one day.

They twisted the pole's steel halyard and broke it and were bringing the flag down when they were arrested.

Prosecutor Cory Stolte estimated the damage at about $40, but the city public works department said it would cost nearly $100 to repair the pole.

"You were treated decently here—why did you do that?" asked the judge.

Desbiens and Lajoie said they were sorry. They didn't know why they did it.

"We had a few drinks," said Desbiens.

They said they had hitchhiked across Canada and only had about $4 between them.

As the two young men had spent the weekend in jail, the judge decided to sentence them to one day which meant they were free to leave the city.

'Large, Faceless' Business Is Taking Over Downtown

Keep It Human Urges Shop Designer

By PETER McNELLY

Development in downtown Victoria should accommodate human values before big-money interests, a city designer and developer says.

And the public should have a chance to express itself before city council makes any final decision on the future of Wharf Street urban renewal.

He said the recent debate on Inner Harbor renewal moved him to give his support to Ald. Peter Pollen's call for a public meeting on Wharf Street renewal.

Bawlf made it clear he does not want to become embroiled in the current controversy over the proposed Reid centre. But he thinks council should listen to the public before making up its mind.

"There hasn't really been a dialogue between the politicians and the civil servants on the one hand and the people on the other. People aren't really aware of what the alternatives are and Pollen is trying to point them out."

Bawlf, who says he's never met Pollen, thinks downtown development should include residential buildings but not high-rises on the waterfront.

Waterfront high-rises in Victoria would be another step toward the imitation of Vancouver's west end, he says.

"What have high-rise developers done for Vancouver? The west end has got more problems today than it had 15 years ago when there were no high-rises."

Bawlf, who did graduate work in urban affairs at UBC before moving to Victoria, says downtown development ordinarily results in a replacement of community shops by "large institutional investors" like banks and trust companies.

This kind of change is already happening on Douglas Street, he says, and could happen to Wharf Street.

"When you get involved with large developers, the type that are running most cities today, you get involved with large institutional investors like insurance companies, and in order to secure their mortgages they have to lease their ground-floor space to prime national tenants like banks, very large faceless entities.

"Robson Street has been wiped out practically in the last 10 years. It was once the most exciting place to go in downtown Vancouver."

Bawlf said once the large developers moved in, the boutiques and small restaurants moved out.

He said his concept of Bastion Square works to retain small, community-oriented specialty shops. He admits this kind of development is attractive to the tourist, but says the year-round success of Bastion Square proves its worth for Victorians.

"We want people to realize that Bastion Square is for Victoria first, and we feel the waterfront should be the same way."

He said it is a mistake to think Victoria can continue to absorb both more tourists and more residents indefinitely.

Instead of gearing the city for outside consumption, Victoria should think of ways to export its character.

Bawlf said he'd also like to see some evidence that local governments are encouraging young people to establish their own businesses.

Bawlf's own Bastion Square project hasn't been as financially successful as a group of banks, law offices and trust and insurance companies would have been.

Craft Centre In the Home

By PAULINE GRAVES

Hail to the Renaissance, the revival of handcrafts that enhance the home.

Although needlepoint and rug making have been available, they seemed to attract relatively few devotees. But today, because of new, imaginative designs and color combinations, more women than ever before find these skills rewarding.

As with all special interest, crafts are easier to do, and consequently more enjoyable, if you have a centre for such activities.

A wide ledge at the bottom of a wall system solves the problem. The twenty-four inch depth holds the rug comfortably, while the homemaker is seated in front of it, and the seven-foot length keeps the tall spools of yarn and equipment storage boxes right at hand.

The handsome rug adds color to this end of the room, even while being worked on, therefore, the homemaker leaves it on the ledge at all times, rather than hiding it away between work periods.

Because this bottom ledge is deeper than most wall system shelves, sturdy four-by-four inch posts support the front edge and continue up to the ceiling beam, creating almost the effect of a canopy overhead. Shelves above are conventionally mounted with adjustable hardware.

PART OF THIS FAMILY ROOM SERVES AS A CRAFT CENTRE

Sourdough Solution Sought by Experts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. agriculture department has decided to spend $49,190 to see if researchers can find a way to bake San Francisco Sourdough French bread anywhere on the continent.

The popular bread has been baked in the Bay area for more than a century, and some San Franciscans claim it can't be baked anywhere else because the climate makes it what it is.

Others, largely tourists, say it's where the bread is eaten, not what it is, that makes the difference.

Whatever the reason, countless attempts to bake it elsewhere have failed because the starter bacteria, for some unknown cause, will not behave the same as it does in San Francisco.

Agriculture spokesmen said they awarded a 2½-year, $49,190 contract to Oregon State University to study bacterial species isolated by department scientists from sourdough bread fermentation.

The new studies, officials said, might make it possible eventually to produce starter cultures which can be packaged and distributed like frozen concentrated dairy starters or bakers' yeast.

"This would simplify processing and also make it possible to produce sourdough French bread on a much wider geographic scale," officials said.

MONTREAL (CP) — Helga Abraham, a CBC employee in London, says that when she vacationed in Montreal "all I got were leering stares, crafty propositions and not a single real compliment." But she adds: "Canadian men in England are superbly handsome, polite and interesting. They're more gentlemenly than Americans and more adventurous than Englishmen."

Criminal or Customer, U.S. Boutique Owners Wonder

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

The days are gone when anyone with an idea and a few bucks opened a boutique. According to Alice Schweitzer, who successfully runs not one but two boutiques on Manhattan's fashionable East Side, one has to be not only clever but even courageous.

The courage is needed in New York because of the rising crime rate against small shops. Smash-and-grab raids, broad daylight holdups ever when customers fill the shops, and just plain old shoplifting have become so prevalent that boutiques along Madison Avenue are now more often locked than not. Owners scrutinize those seeking admittance to be sure they are really customers before opening the door.

"We've organized the Madison Avenue General Ideas Committee, MAGIC for short," said Mrs. Schweitzer over lunch recently. "We've engaged private guards to patrol the area, mostly as a deterrent so our customers will feel safer when shopping. But we also have other protection plans."

HELPS OTHERS

If a present-day boutique owner has to worry about facing crime, business problems are no less difficult, even if less dangerous. In fact, they're difficult enough to have led Mrs. Schweitzer to establish a consulting service for other boutiques, including a news letter to keep them up to the minute on trends.

"Most boutiques were founded on a slender idea basis. When the particular fad they pushed goes out, the boutique goes out with it, especially as many of them have an equally slender financial basis."

One thing Mrs. Schweitzer realized early was that a boutique can't blur its image. This is why she runs two shops on Madison Avenue, one called La Boutique Alice Schweitzer, the other called Gavroche.

"I began early with the boutique idea. In fact, I opened La Boutique in 1955. It was for women who wanted the French look with only a fitting or two. In 1964 I opened a youth boutique, Gavroche."

FRENCH DESIGNERS

To give her boutique a firm foundation, Paris-born Alice Schweitzer, who had a background in French fashion, brought well-known designers to the U.S. and her boutique thrived.

"When I opened Gavroche I went to other designers such as St. Clair, Cacharel, Valerie Nadaud, Jeannette. They were doing things like hand-painted ponchose, pantsuits and dresses, or all kinds of reversible clothes, such as capes in plaids and solids."

QUALITY CLOTHES

Besides seeking out designers whom no one else had, Mrs. Schweitzer knew her area. Her clothes might be offbeat, even hippie, but they were done with quality. Madison Avenue isn't Greenwich Village, and cheap workmanship doesn't go over.

"The boutique also must have an intimate relation to its customers," said Mrs. Schweitzer. "The boutique is a kind of substitute for couture, in that you are working with the customer as an individual."

When mini-skirts first came in, for example, her customers greatly disliked them. So Mrs. Schweitzer shortened skirts only moderately, persuaded her customers largely by wearing herself the total look of shorter skirts and fancy hosiery.

"The midi has been much easier for my area to accept," Mrs. Schweitzer said with a smile. "But I'm giving women a choice of lengths from the knee to the ankle." Some of her styles are from France, while other specially embroidered midis are made by Andre Kim, who is from Korea.

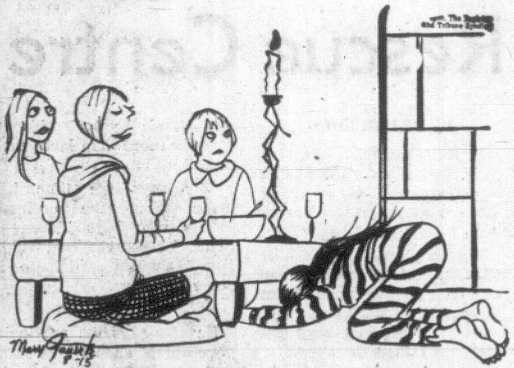
GREAT VARIETY

"A boutique also must take account of what other shops aroun dit are carrying," said Mrs. Schweitzer. "Because there is great variety on Madison Avenue, I don't carry a large assortment of accessories. Women enjoy going from shop to shop for specialties.

(A Fashion League Feature)

New York boutique owner Alice Schweitzer wears a crocheted suit with satin blouse from France. Big city boutiques have to contend with so many smash-and-grab raids and hold-ups that they often keep their doors locked.

THE ALUMNAE



"The next time Magda invites us to lunch, let's one of US offer to say grace."

fashion flashes

The popularity of spotted fur looks is increasing, now that the real thing is being banned, in fake furs, as silk print dresses, in wools and chiffons.

The fake leathers will predominate, as people turn against wearing the real, in reptile prints especially, from garments of fake python to boots.

Art deco and art nouveau prints will remain but in their original "sad" colors rather than the recent modern brilliants.

There will be surface interest through contrasts of materials, such as the softest antelope suede and velour hats topping thick tweeds, hard worsteds.

Von Hoffman: Sensible Look at Women's Lib

By

NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON — Only some of us men are misogynists like Dr. Edgar F. Berman, Hubert Humphrey's internist, who has been driven from the higher councils of the Democratic party because he insults women and thinks they should thank him for it. Only some of us think that a woman who wants fully fair treatment is a lesbian. Many of us are beyond such brutalities, but we're still mistaken in thinking we've worked out the problem.

We can accept sexual equality as an abstract principle, or espouse its application in law, yet we violate it all the time by kicking women around without realizing it. Look at the conspicuous example of our president, who makes the customary insincere speeches about what he and his party do for women and then continually cuts them out by transacting much of his business at stag or stud affairs, or whatever it is they call those gruesome all-male functions he attends.

The man's no worse than many of his sex who belong to all-male clubs and go to men-only bars. Even those of us who don't do that habitually refer to women in derogating and insulting terms: we call them Babe, Toots, Honey, chicks and broads, demeaning words which women find offensive and which poison our own minds. How can a man have any respect for someone he thinks of as a broad?

The obnoxious Dr. Berman isn't the only man to use menopause as a sign that God approves of abusing women. A lot of men say it. After they've been rude and thoughtless to an older woman and she snaps at them, they tell themselves it's menopause that makes her act that way.

We have another trick when we gather around the water cooler to gossip about some poor woman whose disposition has probably been ruined by the men in her life. We explain to each other that she behaves as she does because she needs servicing, to use another flattering masculinism. If some of the women reading this find these expressions tasteless, that's how men, most men, probably their own husbands, sons, fathers and lovers, talk about women.

There is a subcutaneous layer of brutality in the way most of us men think about women. In our own lives we know that if we're worried or tired or unhappy, having sex isn't going to cure us, but we'll tell each other the indicated therapy for some girl is a rude bout in bed with a careless, hyperlibidinated male.

We don't mean to be this way. It's the way we're brought up and to expunge it from ourselves requires incessant work which few of us are willing to do. Like many women who shy away from the movement, we imagine that feminine liberation will do away not only with the injustices and unfairnesses but the pleasant things in the relations between the sexes.

We foresee a drab, unisexual world where everyone dresses for comfort, not for looks; we think we'll have to foresake the nice things men do for women, opening doors, standing up when they come in the room, taking them out to dinner, or telling them that they are beautiful when we love them.

But equal treatment doesn't mean the same treatment; to accord a woman her due as a person doesn't require making her into one of the boys. If the woman's movement catches on and proves to be more than a mass media sensation that's destroyed by its own fashionable notoriety, the definition of what's truly feminine will change over the years.

The affectations of flighty helplessness will probably drop away but they need not be replaced by a cigar-chomping, back-slapping, raucous, vulgarian female, a diminished parody of the least pleasing of the traits we now define as masculine.

The new woman, and with her the new man, will evolve, and they'll be better, more beautiful people. Men shouldn't frighten themselves with the thought that the gooey girl in the underarm deodorant commercial, the one "who has more emotions than a man," will be replaced with someone worse.

Instead of thinking up rationalizations to ignore the problem, we men would do better to raise the level of our sexual consciousness so that we understand it's not a law of nature which has the woman always getting the coffee any more than women should always type the letters.

Men must begin to count the unfairnesses, make note of the fact, for instance, that in most offices a woman in a professional position must be on time, while her male counterpart can saunter in late and take two and a half hours for lunch. Men always have important things to do; women never.

We have to become aware of these patterns; then we have to force ourselves to help, especially with the endless, serving chores which we regard as women's work. When Bob does something in the kitchen, he's said to be helping Alice, never the reverse except when it's gourmet cooking, a culinary activity that's regarded as a male role. If we apply ourselves, we may come to believe that when the man goes off to work and the woman works at home, it's a convenient division of labor which could and sometimes ought to be reversed.

We baffle them because they never know when we're going to declare they're asking something from us that injures our masculine "amour propre". We've terrorized women into thinking anything they do may injure our masculinity, the loss of which will dispatch us.

We master women by eruding a male unknowableness. Men yuk about women being mysterious, but it's usually the other way around.

Women lay themselves open to men who stay silent; many, many women build their lives around their men, derive their identity from them. They often sacrifice their friendship with other women in doing so, while the men hide large patches of their lives and living processes. Such an imbalance gives men great power over women, and we use it.

Each sex knows how to hurt the other. A woman can make a man feel sexually impotent, can put him down as an inadequate breadwinner, but a man has the power to inflict a more generalized feeling of inadequacy on a woman, a conviction of total, all-around failure that's more defeating because it's so broadly nebulous. That's heavy leverage.

We men are going to have to exert ourselves to break out of this way of thinking, but, being the beneficiaries of the sexual status quo we lack the motivation, although maybe the women'll supply it for us.

Everywhere a man turns, he gets reassurance that he's right. So accepted is man's mistreatment of women that one cigarette company can sell its product on television by depicting a sadistic, pimp-type male in sunglasses abusing a series of women, shoving them out of cars, abandoning them, insulting them in public as a voice-over announcer says a good cigarette is like a desirable woman — rich and thin.

If the victim in those commercials was a black man, the Federal Communications Commission wouldn't let it on the air.

Tomatoes Needn't Always Go in Sandwiches

Tomatoes, now abundant in gardens and at produce counters, are at the peak of their flavor. For homemakers looking for new ways of serving tomatoes at their best, the home economists of Canada Department of Agriculture offer these suggestions.

There is only a limited amount that you can enjoy in salads and sandwiches. However, for variety you can serve them hot with different seasonings and herbs. Basil, thyme or oregano are delicious with tomatoes.

When using tomatoes as a dinner vegetable allow one or more per serving in the following recipes. To broil or saute the tomatoes they are cut but in the following Herbed Tomatoes are cooked whole.

BOILED TOMATOES — Cut tomatoes in half and sprinkle them with salt and pepper. Dot each half with one-half teaspoon butter then broil four inches from heating unit until just tender (5 to 8 minutes). Tomatoes may be topped before broiling with a dash of herbs, grated cheese or buttered crumbs.

SAUTEED TOMATOES—Cut tomatoes in one-half-inch slices and sprinkle both sides with salt. Dip in flour then saute both sides in melted butter until just browned. If desired dry crumbs or cornmeal may be used instead of flour.

STEWED TOMATOES—For six servings peel and quarter six tomatoes and combine with three-quarter teaspoon salt, dash pepper, one-half teaspoon sugar and one-quarter teaspoon of thyme, oregano or basil in saucepan. Cover and cook gently until tomatoes are tender but not broken. If desired saute one-quarter cup each of onion, celery and green pepper and add to tomatoes before cooking.

Fresh whole tomatoes, cooked with butter and seasonings, should be of uniform size, and fried just until tender.

HERBED TOMATOES

6 medium tomatoes
¼ cup butter
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon brown sugar
½ cup diced celery
3 tablespoons finely chopped chives or green onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
¼ to ½ teaspoon crushed oregano.

Remove core from tomatoes. Melt butter in a frypan, add salt, pepper and brown sugar. Place tomatoes in pan, cored side down. Cover and simmer five minutes. Turn tomatoes and spoon butter mixture over them. Add remaining ingredients, cover and continue simmering until tomatoes are tender (eight to 12 minutes). Carefully lift tomatoes into serving dish and spoon remaining mixture over them. Six servings.

SUMMER TOMATOES

6 slices bacon
½ cup chopped onion
2 cups sliced mushrooms (about ½ pound)
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
6 medium peeled tomatoes, seeded and coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Cook bacon until crisp. Crumble. Add onion and saute until transparent. Add mushrooms and seasonings and cook three to four minutes. Stir in tomatoes and simmer until tender (about seven minutes). Stir in parsley. Six servings.

To use a quantity of ripe tomatoes now but to enjoy them later, the home economists suggest Uncooked Tomato Relish. This recipe is short on preparation time, but long on crispness.

UNCOOKED TOMATO RELISH

9 cups peeled tomatoes, finely chopped
3 cups finely chopped celery
2 cups finely chopped onion
¾ cup finely chopped green pepper
½ cup finely chopped sweet red pepper
½ cup salt for pickling
2 cups cider vinegar
5 cups sugar
1 teaspoon mustard seed
⅛ teaspoon cayenne

Mix vegetables, sprinkle with salt and let stand 2 hours. Drain mixture thoroughly and discard liquid. Add vinegar, sugar, mustard seed and cayenne. Stir until sugar dissolves. Pour mixture into sterilized sealers and seal. Makes about 4 pints. Store in a cool, dark place.

Green Tomatoes Used In Sweet Pickle Recipe

Garden tomatoes are ripening quickly on the vine and home canners are busily stewing the juicy red fruit. But there's a limit to how much chili sauce and canned tomatoes the family can eat.

Here is a sweet green tomato pickle recipe which does two things at once. You can thin your tomatoes early to encourage better growth with the remaining ripening fruit; and you can make a tasty condiment for any meal.

This particular relish, made of the Saltspring Sunrise variety of tomato and Island onions, has been served with hamburgers, chicken and steak with great success.

SWEET GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

Eight lbs. (about 32) green tomatoes.
6 large onions
3 cups vinegar.
3-cups brown sugar, firmly packed.
1 tbsp. pickling salt.
1 tsp. cloves.
1 tsp. cinnamon.
1 tsp. mace.

Chop or grind tomatoes and onions, and bring to boil in their own juices. Turn heat low, and simmer 30 minutes.

Add remaining ingredients, and simmer, uncovered, until thick, stirring occasionally.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Bed Bugged

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are in our fifties and our children are married, so there are just the two of us home.

A few weeks ago, while I was on a short business trip, my wife exchanged our large double bed for twin beds. I didn't raise any objections at the time, but now I wish I had.

After having slept like two spoons for more than 30 years, I didn't realize it would make such a big difference in our lives. There is something about sleeping together that seems to generate a feeling of security and reassurance, and makes life's daily problems easier to cope with. It made going to bed something to look forward to. All of that is gone now and I feel that we have lost a certain closeness.

What infuriates me is that my wife seems pleased with the new arrangement. I often go to bed so angry I have trouble falling asleep. She drops right off and sleeps like a log.

I haven't made a big deal out of it, but I have complained mildly a couple of times. I'm sure if I insisted on going back to the double bed she'd agree, but what would I gain if she did it against her wishes? Maybe you can suggest something. — Cheated.

DEAR CHEATED: Make a "big deal" out of it, because as far as you're concerned, it is a big deal. If you don't tell her how you feel, she won't know. (She may be flattered.) On the other hand, you may snore, hog the bed, yank the bed clothes. Talk it out and settle it. Don't just lie there, full of resentment and feeling cheated.

DEAR ABBY: I recently had a party at my home. My parents fully approved of it, is fact it was my mother's idea. As I had hoped, many of my friends showed up. But so did a lot of kids who were not my friends, and also a lot of kids I didn't even know. It was this uninvited group that brought beer, obstructed traffic in front of our house, littered the neighbor's yard with beer cans, and finally caused the police to come to quiet the disturbance.

Now my parents blame me for the trouble caused by that rowdy gang, and I am now grounded at night. But worst of all I have lost my parents' trust and respect. What can I do? — Grounded In Wheaton, Md.

DEAR GROUNDED: If your parents are holding you responsible for the misconduct of uninvited hoodlums who forced their way into your home, then they are being unreasonable. But, if you made the rowdy gang welcome when they showed up uninvited, you deserve to be grounded. It's too late now, but the police should have been called as soon as those crashers showed up and refused to leave.

DEAR ABBY: I have a thoughtful mother in law who is also very generous, but listen to this: Whenever she sends me a gift for any occasion (even Christmas) she sends the gift, with the sales slip enclosed the price tags right on the gift, saying if I want to take it back and exchange it, it will be easier.

This doesn't seem like a gift. It's more like a donation. Don't you think part of the thrill of getting a gift is having it come all nicely gift-wrapped? — Disappointed.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: This is one for the "you can't win" department. Your mother in law is thoughtful, generous and practical. And you are lucky! (What do you want? Egg in your beer?)

sew simple

By EUNICE FARMER

Dear Eunice,

The new pattern books all have a new, special section for pattern suggestions especially for knits. Why should these patterns be any different than the patterns for other fabrics?—Mrs. J.E.K.

Dear Mrs. J.E.K.:

You will notice that many times these patterns resemble close-fitting sweaters or body-hugging tops that are being used so much today by the younger girls. Because of the give of the knits, many fitting darts are eliminated and the close fit hugs the contour of your body.

Unless your body is perfect, I wouldn't suggest this kind of pattern but would rely on patterns with dart shaping. To answer your question more specifically, if you used one of these patterns without the darts on a firm fabric, you would find that because there was no "give" to the fabric, the pattern wouldn't fit you properly. It would be shapeless, too tight, and would not conform to the design for which it was intended.

Bound buttonholes are one of the focal points of a garment. Make sure the bound buttonholes you put in deserve that attention. Send for Eunice Farmer's free leaflet, Bound Buttonholes. To obtain your leaflet send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Sew Simple in care of the Times.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

I hate to remind you of the weather that's ahead, but if I don't, the breezes that bring in the snorts and sniffles, sneezes, runny eyes and stuffed-up sinuses are likely to sneak up on you unheralded.

This is the beginning of that awful time of the year when some of us wish we lived out in the middle of the ocean—any ocean. It is hay fever time.

If you are a hay-fever sufferer, you may know why you suffer, that you are probably allergic to the pollens the weeds and plants around you liberate into the air during their time of seed formation. Plants generally polinate in the spring when they prepare for summer growth, and in the fall when they produce seeds.

19 Lose Permits

EDMONTON (CP) — The highways department reports that 19 drivers have lost their licences since Alberta's driver demerit system was introduced last April 1, including nine in August.

Under the system, demerit points are compiled for various traffic offences with 15 resulting in licence suspension.

Since April, the department has mailed out caution notices to 942 drivers who had accumulated eight demerit points. In August, 363 notices were sent out.

Closing Protested

REGINA (CP) — About 35 young people camped out on the legislature grounds Sunday in a continuing protest against closing of a downtown youth hostel.

An observer said the campers, who first appeared on the grounds Friday, were quiet and the demonstration appeared to have taken the form of a sleep-in.

The hostel, called the House of Zodiac, was opened in May.

Operator Gary Stewart said he has been unable to talk with Premier Ross Thatcher about the closure. He said he needs money to open another hostel.

Students Get Maps

EDMONTON (CP) The University of Alberta this year will provide maps of the campus designed to allow students to avoid construction obstacles.

The construction program at the university, expected to attract more than 19,500 students this year, is expected to continue for the next six months and many streets in the campus area are or will be closed during the period.

The maps will be prepared each month and color-coded signs on the campus will advise the 5,000 new students where they are and how to get where they are going, officials said.

University officials are trying to encourage students — and the public — to use city transportation facilities in the area instead of private vehicles.

Decision Attacked

EDMONTON (CP) — Leader Grant Motley said today the Alberta New Democratic Party is ready to join with any group in an effort to change a provincial government decision that eliminates incidental welfare expenses for unemployed employables.

Notley said in a prepared statement that the August decision by Social Development Minister Ray Speaker "is just another example of how the poor bear the brunt of distorted priorities by both the provincial and federal levels of government."

Explosion Kills 2

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two men were killed at Winnipeg International airport Saturday in the explosion of a tire on a Transair Ltd. YS-11 turboprop aircraft which they were servicing.

Killed were Thomas Andrew Bailey, 27, and Gerald Thomas King, 43, both of suburban Charleswood. A third man injured in the accident, Turniaf Tollifesen, was reported in good condition in hospital.

Phil Reimer, Transair marketing and sales director, said the men, all company maintenance employees, were replacing a main gear wheel tire on the aircraft about 2 p.m. after it had completed a flight from Thunder Bay. The new tire being installed burst, he said.

This is our old Corona, probably one of the best known import sedans in North America. It had contemporary North American styling, a big gutsy 90 hp. engine that gave you an effortless 80 mph. cruising, durability which has become legendary, plus all the luxury and safety features. For one low inclusive price. But, after six years we improved the Corona. Not just changed it, really improved it.

The new Toyota Corona.

What's new about it? Everything. It's longer, wider inside and out, stronger and faster.

Take the engine. It's now an overhead cam four. It develops 108 hp., has a top speed of 105 mph, cruises at 85 and gives up to 32 miles per gallon.

We've replaced the drum brakes with power assisted disc brakes up front. Visibility is improved, vent windows are gone and there is tinted safety glass all round. Side windows are curved to improve shoulder room. The new Corona comes equipped with fully reclining bucket seats or a bench seat in the automatic version. That's not all. The new Toyota Corona has an electric rear window defogger, steering lock ignition switch, an electric clock, "Fresh-flow" ventilation which works with all the windows closed, plus improved and expanded safety equipment. And so it goes. One improvement leads to another until only the name is the same. The only extra. A radio. Everything else is included in the one low price.

That's something we will never change.

NEW TOYOTA CORONA. $2470.

Polar 'Commuter' Dies; Made 30 Trips to Arctic

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (CP-AP) — Rear-Admiral Donald B. MacMillan, 95, veteran of 30 trips to the Arctic and known for his expoits in his schooner the Bowdoin, died Monday night.

Well known to many Canadians, MacMillan was the last surviving member of the 1909 Peary expedition which discovered the North Pole. But MacMillan never set foot on the pole—he flew over it in 1957.

The doughty old salt shuttled back and forth between Maine and the Arctic so often that he was virtually a polar commuter. In 1954, at 79, he finished his 30th northern seas expedition, an 8,000-mile trip in the Bowdoin.

A family spokesman said funeral services would be held at Provincetown.

MacMillan was a school teacher at Worcester, Mass., when he joined Admiral Robert E. Peary, U.S. Navy civil engineer, who made unsuccessful tries for the pole in 1898 and 1905.

SUPPLIED BY SLEDS

MacMillan's feet were frozen in 50-below-zero weather and he turned back leaving Peary 200 miles from the pole.

He later recounted how "Peary held my freezing feet against his warm body to save them."

In 1910, all alone in a 16-foot canoe, he almost reached Hudson Strait under sail and paddle.

LIVED WITH INDIANS

Two years later, he and Jot Small, a boyhood playmate, reached northern Labrador in a 21-foot power boat. "We were the first to cross Labrador and live with the Indians," he reported.

In 1913, MacMillan started out on what was to be a two-year expedition to the frozen north.

With seven men and supplies, he landed on the beach at Etah, an Eskimo settlement in northwest Greenland. Because of ice conditions no vessel was able to reach him for four years. Coincidentally, Bob Bartlett, who also had been on the Peary expedition, was the one who took MacMillan off the ice.

During the four years MacMillan studied the customs, language and habits of the Eskimos and travelled 8,000 miles by dog team along the Greenland coast, Ellsmere Land, Axel Heidberg Land into unexplored areas of the Polar Sea.

When MacMillan returned home in 1917, he found the world at war. Then 43, the navy thought him a little old but finally made him an officer in its infant air arm.

But when the Second World War came along a quarter of a century later, there was no official hesitancy. The explorer, a reserve commander, was given his own ship and four planes and promptly ordered back to the north.

His mission made 10,000 aerial photographs of the Labrador, Greenland and Baffin Land coasts. He worked with the war department on Arctic fighting plans.

MacMillan drew upon his vast knowledge of ice conditions in having his 88-foot schooner, Bowdoin, built at Boothbay Harbor, Me., in 1921. The vessel was so strong that she rammed her way through countless floes, without harm and was so designed that when squeezed by solid ice, the pressure lifted her bodily from its grasp without being crushed.

All but one of his later voyages were made in the Bowdoin.

On June 27, 1959, the Bowdoin, veteran of 300,000 miles of cruising among icebergs, sailed into Mystic, Conn., for a permanent berth at the Mystic Seaport, a marine museum.

Windows Smashed

PARIS (AP) — Four youths smashed the windows of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, with rocks and left behind a poster in Hebrew and French saying: "Let my people go. International Students Day, in solidarity with Judiasm in the Soviet Union."

PATROLMAN NICKS MATES

DENVER (UPI) — When patrolman Donald Hathaway answered a call, he found an irate motorist waving a parking ticket in his hand.

"Fair is fair," the motorist said as he pointed out seven other cars in the block also parked at expired meters.

Young Driver Killed In Head-On Collision

CHEMAINUS — A head-on crash in heavy holiday traffic on the Trans-Canada Highway near Chemainus left an 18-year-old youth dead and four other people injured Friday night.

RCMP said Kevin William Espey, of Chemainus, was killed when the small foreign model car in which he was riding smashed head-on into another car towing a large trailer.

Victoria residents Charles A. Miller, 58, his wife Elizabeth, and their 13-year-old son Peter Charles, all of 3870 Epsom Drive, were treated and released at Chemainus General Hospital.

The crash, which occurred in heavy traffic on a narrow stretch of road, backed up oncoming vehicles for half a mile in each direction.

Coroner Thomas Lines of Duncan has ordered an inquest which was to open today with the viewing of the body.

These are the type of results you can obtain

Looks 15 Years Younger

My husband and I joined the Health Spa on March 17, 1967. Before that time I always had either a cold or the flue (or both) every winter. Since that time I've not had a sign of either.
Six months ago, driving back from Texas, I discovered I was a horrible 157 lbs. (I'm 5'4"). I resolved to start on a diet the day after I arrived home and I did. This, together with the exercises at the Spa has taken off pounds and inches and today I weigh 128 lbs. Six months ago I bought dresses in size 16. Yesterday I bought a pant suit in size 12 which fit me perfectly. Do you wonder that I'm tickled pink? I feel better, look better (I think) and have far more energy.
While I had to coax my husband to join, he now says and has said many times, that the money we spent on joining the Health Spa is one of the best investments we ever made.

Edie Thorton lost an Amazing 121 lbs.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Palm Springs Spa Health Resort for the changed person that I am today.

A few years before joining this Club I weighed 248 pounds and today I now weigh 127 pounds. I have everything and everyone at this Club to thank for these results. The machines I have used to break down and reduce this fat — the exercising to tone up and the greatly appreciated helpful hints about dieting from the Instructors and Instructresses at this Spa. I have achieved great weight loss and a reasonably nice figure from the Spa and all the help I have received. I will be forever grateful.

Ann Cannon Lost 40 lbs in 6 Months

I lost 40 lbs. in 6 months at the Spa. Before joining the Spa, I weighed 200 lbs. I wore size 44 and didn't have the pep I should have had.

Now I feel swell, have lots of energy, wear size 40 and I'm going to change to size 38. All my friends have noticed the difference. I like to go out a lot and enjoy dancing. The Spa has been wonderful for me. I enjoy all the facilities, particularly the Grecian swimming pool.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BROOKS—In treasured memory of our deeply loved son, Neil Lamont, who died at Westwood, Coquitlam, B.C., on Sept. 8, 1968.
—Remembered, Harold and Dorothy Brooks.

WOODS — In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away Sept. 8, 1967.

I hide my tears when I speak your name,
But the pain in my heart remains the same.
I loved you Stewart, but we had to part,
No goodbyes but a broken heart.
Sometimes in the busy hours,
Or in a crowded place,
There comes a floating vision,
Of a dear remembered face.
A passing word may strike a chord,
On memory's golden strings,
And wake the echoing music,
Of unforgotten things.
So many things can break your heart,
So cruel life can be:
You lose all hope, all joy is gone,
The way you cannot see.
But if you grope through tragic night,
There breaks, at last, the morning light!—

Tonight's Top Television Shows

EDDIE'S FATHER. 7 p.m., Channel 8. A government order his dictated the deportation of Mrs. Livingston and Tom promises Eddie he'll take care of it. To fail would be serious. In addition to losing a food friend, Tom would lose his son's esteem. Meg Wyllie appears in the guest cast, as Miss Ritter.

SPECIAL. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. "Civilization: A Preview." Here's an hour to enrich your memory of the great achievements of our own western civilization, an hour to make us proud of the genius it has fostered, and an hour to give us pause about the current state of our affairs. It is an enchanting introduction to a 13-week series on Western civilization, produced by the BBC, which will be shown on educational TV stations around the country by NET. Tune in tonight for eloquent segments of the whole series, offered to you here to whet your appetite and alert your watchful eye, by a very thoughtful NBC.

RED SKELTON. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Red begins his 20th television season, in abbreviated form . . . the show is cut to 30 minutes from an hour. U.S. Vice-President Spiro Agnew is scheduled to introduce the half hour. Jerry Lewis and singer Robin Wilson are Red's guests.

McQUEEN. 8:30 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Veteran actress Cathleen Nesbitt stars as a little old lady who upsets her family by disappearing regularly. All she wants is a home of her own, and when McQueen can't help her, she is obviously annoyed.

JULIA. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. "Bunny Hug." (Repeat.) Fans wil get a kick out of this tale. Hannah Yarby (Lurene Tuttle) finds love again with a charming gentleman, played by none other than Cesar Romero. It's all predictable nonsense but Miss Tuttle is worth watching as she flutters and fluctuates between yes and no in anticipation of a marriage proposal.

MOVIE OF THE WEEK. 2:30, Channel 4. "Along Came a Spider" (1970). (Repeat). For about two-thirds of the way, this made-for-TV film starring Suzanne Pleshette and Ed Nelson is intriguing, after which it turns into routine melodrama. Miss Pleshette plays a young widow who goes to incredible lengths to prove that Professor Ed Nelson was responsible for her scientist-husband's death. Her ingenious scheme of revenge is almost foolproof and you'll be curious to see her carry it off, even if the film goes downhill from there. The two attractive stars are very good in their roles.

TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES. 9 p.m., Channel 5. "McCloud: Who Killed Miss U.S.A.?" (1970). (Repeat). This made-for TV feature film, a pilot for the upcoming series called "McCloud" which premieres Wednesday, September 16, will appeal to whodunit fans. Dennis Weaver stars in the title role of McCloud, and his characterization of a New Mexico deputy marshal who finds himself in New York City on a murder case, may sustain your interest.

SPECIAL. 9:15 p.m., Channels 7 and 12. "A Day in the Life of the United States." Stay with this film portrait of America on July 20, 1969, the day the astronauts took their first steps on the moon. Though it's full of momentary glimpses of people involved with their own lives all the way from Hawaii and the west coast to the east coast of Maine, what fragments will remain in your memory will probably depend on your sympathies and emotions. Nevertheless, there are some sequences which are unforgettable. Perhaps the most searing is the scene at a San Francisco airport where wounded, some limbless, soldiers back from Vietnam, all lying on their cots awaiting transfer to a hospital, are told about their tax exempt rights and their convalescent leaves by a soldier speaking by rote. Another is a positive example of medical help at its best as a group of doctors and nurses save the life of a little girls in convulsions. Tune in and choose your own scene, whether it is a musical festival in Newport, strip mining in Kentucky, a potter at work on clay, a ballet dancer, or pictures of the aged. They're all here, all part of America, on that day we sent two men to the moon.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

It may interest some people, as it has interested me, to know that in an Egyptian papyrus of 1850 BC, there is a description of a paste-like mixture that they thought could be placed in the vagina to kill spermatozoa. Egyptian ladies also used a combination of a honey and sodium corbonate, which they thought was contraceptive, and Aristotle recommended that oil of cedar or ointment of lead, be combined with olive oil and applied directly to the womb.

There is a reference in Hebaic literature to the use of a moistened sponge as a method of prevening sperm from entering a woman's uterus. This was the forerunner of the diaphragm. Over the years, women have used wool soaked with various substances such as sour oil, cedar gum, and even as recently as 1943, rancid butter as a vaginal plug.

In the 18th century, Casanova wrote of a woman's using half a lemon squeezed of its contents, capping the cervix. The citric acid in the lemon had a mild tendency to kill sperm.

A more modern type of protective diaphragm was invented in 1800 by a German doctor named Wilde. Another was devised in 1887 by a Dutch physician named Mensinga. Both of these devices were made of rubber, and the Mensinga "cap" was thin and more flexible than earlier ones.

The modern diaphragm is used by approximately one million, women in the U.S. The initial cost of the physician's examination and fitting of the diaphragm itself is about $25, and unless pregnancy occurs, she does not need to be fitted for a new diaphragm for two or three years although she should have yearly checkups. The device has virtually no side effects and is highly effective if used correctly. It can be worn for perhaps 12 hours at a time and is generally used with a contraceptive cream or jelly.

Some women, approximately two million of them in the U.S., are using a spermicide, that is, a chemical compound containing powerful sperm-killing agents, placed in the vagina shortly before intercourse. They come in a variety of forms such as cream, jelly, foam, tablet and suppository forms. If properly used, they are also highly effective and are free of danger to the woman's health.

Hippocrates, writing 400 years before Christ, told of a contraceptive method in which material made of small stones was injected into a woman's womb. Similarly, the Arabian camel drivers who didn't want their animals pregnant on a long trip, used to insert pebbles in the womb. In the 9th century, Persian women used to put pieces of paper in their wombs, and in the 16th century, the great French surgeon Ambroise Pare described various intrauterine so-called pessaries made of gold and silver. Other early reports told of devices made of cork, walnut shells, wood, ivory, glass, pewter, and even diamond-studded platinum.

Broodmare Bank Planned

DUNCAN — A Cowichan Station man has imported two Standardbred broodmares from New York state, both in foal to well-known stallions.

Lindsay Beaman has brought the horses here intending to start what is thought to be the first Standardbred stud on Vancouver Island. He hopes to have a broodmare bank of up to six mares and possibly one stallion by the end of 1971.

The stable will carry the same name, Ulda, as Beaman's kennel. He breeds German Shorthaired Pointers.

One of the new mares is in foal to The Interloper, son of a horse which won the Hambletonian Trotting Classic. The other is in foal to Comanche Creed, son of the first horse to pace a two-minute mile as a two-year-old.

Chaplain Gets New Appointment

Col. J. N. Bracher, director of Protestant religious administration at Ottawa headquarters, is the other new canon.

The Church of St. John the Evangelist in Kitchener has been assigned as Mortimer's Pro-Cathedral.

Service of institution will be held in the Kingston Church Sunday at 8 p.m. with Canon Mortimer as the preacher.

The two new canons hold their titles for life or until they leave the chaplain service to take an appointment in one of the dioceses. Both were appointed canons of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, last year by Bishop John Anderson, who died before they could be installed in office.

They will be part of a bishop's committee which the Bishop Ordinary will consult in respect to matters concerning the Anglican members of the chaplain service of the armed forces.

A native of Montreal, Mortimer served in several churches both there and in Buckingham, Que., before entering the Royal Canadian Navy at Ottawa in 1952.

Since that time he has served as chaplain aboard ships and in naval establishments on both the east and west coasts.

Port Chiefs To Meet In City

About 25 Pacific Coast and Hawaiian port authorities will be represented here Sept. 21 to 23 at the 57th annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities.

A highlight of the convention, whose host port is Port Alberni, will be an address by Ian McTaggart-Cowan who heads the federal task force in charge of cleaning up oil spilled off the Nova Scotia coast by the tanker Arrow.

Port Alberni harbor commissioner Bryce Blake, president of the association, said the convention at the Empress will be attended also by representatives of waterfront businesses.

Public Works Minister Arthur Laing will speak at the final luncheon of the convention on Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock and Port Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop will speak at the opening ceremonies at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Sept. 21.

A talk will be given by a representative of the U.S. federal maritime commission and panel discussion topics will include west coast towboat service and "intermodal" transportation.

A film presented by the Fraser River Harbor Commission at the Wednesday morning session will depict harbor development possibilities for British Columbia.

Social events will include a tea at Government House, a short tour of Victoria's waterfront, a salmon barbecue and logging sports display at Sooke.

Sod Turned For Low-Rent Development

The first sod was turned this morning for an 80-unit senior citizens low-rent housing development in Saanich.

Rt. Rev. F. R. Gartrell, Anglican bishop of the diocese of British Columbia, handled the groundbreaking ceremony at the site on Arrow Road.

The apartment building will consist of 72 bachelor suites and eight one-bedroom suites. Each unit will have an electric stove, refrigerator and bathroom drapes. The apartment will provide a central laundry.

The project is sponsored by the Anglican Synod of B.C. and is the third to be developed with the Synod's co-operation.

Farmer Construction Ltd. won the contract with a low bid of $552,000. Total cost will run to $750,000.

Suites will be available to people of any religious denomination but applicants will be accepted from people in low to moderate income ranges. Bachelor suite rents will not exceed $79 a month and rent for one-bedroom suites will be $99.

Pupils Test Dads' Project

The 100 students at Durrance Elementary today got their first assignment for the school year — test the outdoor "activity" room built by their parents during the summer.

Mrs. Dennis Shaw, 140 Durrance Road, said with the provincial government freeze on activity room construction parents decided to build one for the youngsters.

Parents, she said, donated time and equipment in constructing cargo nets for climbing, leap frog and wooden climbing structures on the school grounds.

The Saanich Peninsula school board assisted the project with slides of similar projects in the province.

Ptui . . . A Champion

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP) — With a mighty "Ptui," Armand Perrault of Saskatoon spat his chokecherry stone 35 feet, 2½ inches Monday.

The spit won him the overall championship in the first international chokecherry stone-spitting contest in competition with 60 other competitors, one from Vancouver.

Winners of three other categories in men's and women's junior and senior divisions were from the North Bettleford area.

Spokesman for the sponsor, a local radio station, said plans will be made to hold the contest again next year.

HOME GARDEN

Heavy Show Schedule for Growers

By HILDA BEASTALL

Here is a schedule of the five flower and vegetable shows to be held by various groups in the Greater Victoria area during September. Cut it out now for reference later.

If you have a garden you will want to exhibit some of your produce in competition with other gardeners; if you live in an apartment but have house plants, you can exhibit in the pot plant sections; if you're a newcomer or a visitor, you will see the best of what can be grown here.

Hilda

First, on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 11 and 12, the annual show by Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society at Centennial Church hall off David Street (near Humber Green). Hours Friday 2 to 10, Saturday 10 to 9—admission 50 cents.

On the same Saturday, Sept. 12, Gordon Head Garden Club holds its annual fall show in the Community Hall, Tyndall Avenue. Admission 50 cents, and doors are open from 2 until 9.

The Silver Threads Garden Club members will show flowers and vegetables from their gardens on Tuesday, Sept. 15. Location will be at the Silver Threads Activity Centre in Centennial Square, with doors open from 1:30 until 3:30.

The following Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 19 and 20, Victoria Horticultural Society will be presenting its annual fall show in Victoria Curling Rink on Quadra Street. This show includes commercial horticultural exhibits as well as competitive classes. Open on the Saturday from 2 until 10, and Sunday from 10 until 8, with admission 50 cents.

Rounding out the month will be the annual fall show presented by Esquimalt Garden Club on Saturday, Sept. 26. This will be staged in Jubilee Hall on Fraser St., Esquimalt, and open from 2 to 8.

Each of these shows will present something a little different, in make-up, variety of flowers and vegetables displayed and in local surroundings.

If you have a feeling that nobody goes in for growing flowers, fruits and vegetables any more for themselves, take in all the shows just to prove you were wrong.

It might even get you started on growing something yourself. September is the time to make a beginning with gardening.

Don't wait till spring.

By FRED L. KARPIN

In her heyday, the late Helen Sobel was accepted by her peers as being one of the finest players the world has ever known. It should be pointed out that their reference was not simply to the "best woman player" but to one of the best players, including men as well as women.

Here is an example of her skill. She was the South declarer in a high-stake rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

◇ A J 5

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇ (!)	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠ (!)	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♡	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ◇	Pass	7 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

North's bidding defies explanation. His opening one-diamond bid was marginal, at best; and his jump to four spades was a horrendous overbid.

Mrs. Sobel's bid of seven spades was based on the belief that North had an opening bid, either in high cards or in distribution (if North had the club queen, for example, 13 tricks rated to be there for the taking; or if North had, say, four diamonds and four spades, South would have no losers in hearts and clubs, since she knew that North-South possessed the A-K-Q of hearts and A-K of clubs.

West's queen of clubs lead was captured by South's king, after which the ace and queen of trumps were cashed, gathering in the outstanding pieces. A diamond was then led to dummy's ace, and this was followed by another diamond, South ruffing.

Next came a club to the board's ace, and dummy's last diamond was now ruffed. The ace of hearts was then cashed, after which South's remaining club was trumped in dummy.

The four of hearts was now led from dummy, and when East "covered" with the five, Mrs. Sobel inserted her six-spot. When the six won the tricks, she claimed her grand slam.

How come Mrs. Sobel "finessed" her six of hearts? It was a simple matter for her: West was known to be the possessor of seven clubs (East had failed to follow suit to the second club lead), three diamonds, two spades and one heart. Hence East had to have started with the J-10-5-3 of hearts.

World Fair Closes Gates

MONTREAL (CP) — Man and His World has closed its gates for the 1970 season with a final tally of 6,267,733 visitors for its three-month run.

Attendance was down from last year's 6,575,000 but fair officials had set six million as their criterion for a successful exhibition season.

A city hall spokesman said the fair would be held again next year. "We have said repeatedly that this fair is permanent, and it will continue next year," he said.

The fair, which ran a $7,796,810 deficit in the 1969 summer, is expected to be in the red again this year.

"Loan me a dollar, Dad," said Peter. "I'll pay it back Friday."

Tom checked. "I don't have that much on me," he replied. "But I'll give you what I have if you figure out how much it is. Take three times the sum of its digits from the amount, and you get the product of its digits."

You try.

Friday's answer: Boy 7 years, girl 8.

Toronto Bookkeeper Crowned Miss Nude World; Turnout Poor

By SANDY McFARLANE

FREELTON, Ont. (CP) — Despite a disappointing turnout at the Miss Nude World contest during the weekend, its promoters plan to make it an annual event.

The contest ended Sunday with the crowning of Rhonda Lee Stallan, 21, a Toronto bookkeeper. Annette Greef, 23, of Burlington, Ont., and Barbara Uuldricks, 27, of Campbellville, Ont., were runners-up.

Hans and Lisa Stein, promoters of the contest and owners of Four Seasons Nature Park near this village 15 miles north of Hamilton, had predicted that 3,000 persons from Canada and the United States would attend. They also had expected 38 contestants.

However, only 12 contestants entered and the crowd never numbered more than 300. Only about a dozen cars were from outside Ontario.

But Mrs. Stein said in an interview they will hold the contest in Europe in 1972. The Steins have the Canadian copyright on the name Miss Nude World.

THREE JUDGE GIRLS

The contestants were judged in the nude by a panel, including broadcaster Gordon Sinclair and Angelo Mosca, Hamilton Tiger-Cats football player.

Only members of nudists camps could enter and observe the contest.

All except Miss Stallan and two other contestants were married and most said it was their husbands who were the most enthusiastic about nudism and had urged them to enter the contest.

"The only thing I was worried about in the contest," Miss Stallan said, "was certain pictures being published."

Other contestants were Lucy Letawsky, 24, of Toronto, formerly of Edmonton; Evelyn Kane, 29, of Rochester, N.Y.; and from Hamilton, Lucia Jones, 28, Siggi Grotjahn, 26, Judy Muir, 22, and Nachita Jamison, formerly of Churchill, Man.

TACKLING A TOUGH JOB is Hamilton Tiger Cat lineman Angelo Mosca who finds judging at the Miss Nude World pageant near Hamilton much more pleasing than judging the play on the football field. Winner was No. 5, Rhonda Stallan of Toronto. (CP Wirephoto.)

All Universities Face Money Lack

MONTREAL (CP) — Universities around the world are suffering from a common dilemma — the lack of adequate financial resources — says a report submitted Saturday to the final session of the 1970 conference of the International Association of Universities.

The needs of universities and society are unlimited but available resources are not, says the report, prepared by Dr. J. F. Leddy, president of the University of Windsor, Ont.

The needs of society can change so quickly and abruptly that they are not always easily ascertained or specified with much assurance, the report said.

"New and intense pressures are building up . . . which in the last 10 years have been shattering the traditional pattern. We now are confronted with a radical alteration of the university which we had assumed would remain relatively unchanged in our lifetime.

"We have suddenly been confronted by a flood of students. The costs of all this has been crushing.

"This leads to further grievous troubles, since by the time enrolment has doubled, expenses have more than doubled.

"Yet while this is happening, the public authority is coping with rising expectations for increased welfare, medical services and provision for the aged.

"It now is clear that in many countries university expenses have outpaced the increase in national resources.

"Therefore these expenses can only be met if other needs are denied or postpond."

EVIDENT NEEDS

The report stressed that university developments must be planned in close reference to the evident needs of socity.

Three representative systems were analyzed which included:

- ● Universities of the Soviet Union, as an example of central planning in close cooperation with the authorities of the state;
- ● Universities of England, involving a mixture of central planning and independent decisions;
- ● Universities of the United States, which still operate largely in a decentralized and relatively uncoordinated network, with the decision-making process widely diffused at a variety of public and academic levels.

Discussion points which did not arouse much interest were adult education, technical and junior colleges, participation of students in university administration, and the role of research in the university.

Gun Pulled On Sinatra

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra, who stormed out of a card game in which authorities say a gun was pulled, will have to get an entertainer's work permit and answer a few questions before he sings in this gambling spa again, Sheriff Ralph Lamb says.

Sinatra cut off a singing engagement at the Caesars Palace Casino Sunday after casino vice-president Sandford Waterman, 66, refused the singer credit to play for $16,000 stakes in a baccarat game and drew a .38-calibre pistol to end an argument that followed, Lamb said.

Waterman was booked Monday for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon and released without bail. He declined comment on the incident.

"If Sinatra comes back to town," Lamb said, "He's coming downtown to get a work card."

And, said the sheriff, "If he gives me any trouble, he's going to jail."

NORMALLY WAIVED

The law requires that performers be fingerprinted and photographed for work cards, but Sinatra has been excused the formality until now, as have most other star performers.

"I'm tired of him intimidating waiters, waitresses, starting fires and throwing pies," Lamb told reporters. "He gets away with too much. He's through picking on little people in this town.

"Why the owners of the hotels put up with this is what I plan to find out."

District Attorney George Franklin said he also wants to talk to Sinatra.

"One remark he supposedly made to Waterman as he was going out the doors was, 'The mob will take care of you'," Franklin said.

"Now I'd like to have a little talk with Mr. Sinatra. I'd like to get together with him on the subject of his friendships with members of the underworld."

Sinatra's agent in Los Angeles said the singer was resting at his Palm Springs, Calif., home.

400 Charges Laid At Ontario Festival

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP) — An estimated 15,000 rock music fans attended a rock festival near here Saturday and Sunday and provincial police laid about 400 charges involving liquor and drug offences.

The crowd at the 200-acre park, 50 miles northwest of Toronto, generally remained in good spirits although there were some incidents of harassment involving fans and policemen.

Provincial police, smarting under criticism which followed their decision to stay off the site on a rock festival attended by about 55,000 people at Mosport Park last month, took a sterner line here.

A 250-man police force, both uniformed and in plainclothes, was on duty in the area. They searched fans at the gates and on the site, and also searched tents and cars for drugs and liquor.

BEER
MOLSON'S CAPILANO BREWERY LTD. VANCOUVER, CANADA

What famous beer label has 3 crows a rabbit
a dog a train
a biplane six Indians
and 29 trees?

Why the sudden excitement over "pop art"? For years, we've been providing a beautiful mural, suitable for refrigerating, with every bottle of beer. (Why, even our cap goes "pop".) But we'll be honest about it. The label's just a front. The real masterpiece is inside the bottle. And it's traditional. Beer brewed slowly and naturally in the good old-fashioned way. We don't know much about art, but we know what you like.

Talks Stalled In Auto Pact

DETROIT (AP) — With less than a week to go before contracts expire, bargaining between the United Auto Workers and the Big Three auto-makers appears stalled today while the union awaits a second offer from its twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp.

With pacts at GM, Chrysler and Ford Motor Co. ending at midnight next Monday night, negotiations continued through the Labor Day weekend, but little progress was reported.

The companies' initial offer, which the firms said included a wage increase of 7.5 per cent in the first year but which the UAW said amounted to no more than 1.1 per cent, was quickly rejected by the union last week.

Details of the UAW wage demands were not made public. The current average hourly wage for UAW-represented U.S. auto workers is $4.02, with fringe benefits averaging an additional $1.75 hourly, the company estimates.

NO OFFER SEEN

Irving Bluestone, co-director of the union's GM department, said Monday there had been no indication whether or when GM might make a revised offer.

GM's chief negotiator, Earl Bramblett, indicated when the original offer was made that a second offer might be forthcoming later.

Bluestone said: "If we are going to have a bargaining posture in which we can negotiate to a settlement rather than a strike, we would anticipate another offer."

In addition to reaching agreement on a national contract, negotiators for the union and the companies must also settle thousands of local plant issues.

Bluestone said that at GM the progress of local bargaining was "extremely slow," adding: "But it's no different than it was at this stage of negotiations in previous years."

France Upset Over Wasp 'Mystery'

PARIS (AP) — France is upset about wasps.

A 46-year-old farmer in central France was stung on the head and died Monday night, the fifth person to be killed by wasp stings in 10 days. A waitress was taken to hospital because of a sting, and a schoolteacher stung on the arm lay in a coma.

The country's largest morning newspaper, Le Parisien Libere, gave the story front-page treatment, calling the wasp attacks "a stupifying mystery for our scientists."

The Communist party organ L'Humanite, also published the story on page one, but under a headline that read: "Two mortal wasp sting cases don't make an epidemic."

Le Monde had a long story on the wasps that was signed by a physician. The article reported that wasp and bee stings killed almost three times as many Frenchmen as snake bites did in the last seven years.

The reason there have been more wasp stings lately, the articles agreed, is that there have been more wasps.

Escapee Hunted

MATSQUI (CP) — Police today were searching for Terry Allen Melnick, 28, who escaped during the night from the federal prison in this Fraser Valley community.

Melnick was serving a four-year term for breaking and entering.

Escape Foiled

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Three prisoners held for federal authorities in city jail failed in an escape attempt Sunday night when an officer sprayed them with mace.

Authorities said jailer Danny Gates was delivering medicine to one of the three, who were in the same cell. They grabbed him and threw him to the floor, but he shouted a warning to a fellow officer, James Kelley.

Kelley sprayed the three men, driving them toward a wall, and Gates was able to make his way to safety.

Gates said that at one point "they held something at my throat and threatened to kill me if I hollered. One shoved his hand in my mouth to prevent me from calling for help."

The three, placed in solitary confinement, are Robert H. Brown, 27; Wilbert Sewell Jr., 23, and Ronald R. Fairbanks, 35. Home towns were not immediately available.

SUSPECTED MASS KILLER Dale Nelson, second from right, is led to RCMP squad car by arresting officers directly in front of his West Creston cabin. Nelson, object of a two-day manhunt, had been flushed from woods behind cabin and was subdued without a struggle. The body of an eight-year-old girl believed taken hostage by the gunman was later found nearby. See stories on Page 3.

Police Find 8th Victim; Man Charged

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

CRESTON—Dale Merle Nelson has been charged with non-capital murder in the slayings of eight persons near this southeast B.C. city.

I witnessed the capture of the accused mass slayer by RCMP in a wooded area near his cabin Sunday afternoon.

I was inspecting the scenes of the seven shootings early Saturday in the West Creston area, about 18 miles west of here, when I learned from police that a man had been spotted in the woods behind a cabin a mile away.

I rushed to the spot and watched as Nelson was flushed from the bush. A police dog rushed him and pinned him to the ground until police could handcuff him.

An eight-year-old girl believed held captive by the gunman was not with Nelson when he was captured. She was later found dead.

Nelson faces a charge of non-capital murder in connection with the slayings of the eight people.

The final act of the manhunt began about 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

While on holidays in Nelson, I heard of the shootings and drove to Creston Sunday to visit three places in the shooting area. The first place was the Alex Wasyk residence where Shirley Wasyk and her daughter Tracy had been shot to death and from which Tracy's body was subsequently taken.

A deep crimson blood-stain was visible in the back bedroom of the run-down shack, where Tracy had apparently been slain.

After several minutes I left the Wasyk residence and made my way to the next stop, which was the house of Raymond Phipps, about two miles along the road.

I asked if I could take a look at the scene and was told that as long as I didn't go into the house I could look all I wished.

RCMP Guards Front Door

The scene was gruesome. Deep pools of blood stained the living room floor where the body of Ray Phipps had fallen after he was blasted by a high-powered rifle, apparently while answering a knock at the front door.

Another large patch of dried blood marked the spot where Phipps' common-law wife, Isabel St. Almond, had been shot and her body mutilated with a knife.

In the corner of one of the small shack's side windows was a bullet hole the size of a silver dollar.

The bodies of three of Phipps' children were found by police in the two bedrooms of the house, each shot several times and also mutilated.

After I had finished looking at the Phipps residence, I noticed four RCMP officers emerging from wooded hillside directly behind the Phipps' property.

The officers conducted a brief confidential conference. I gathered from their activity that something had been spotted in the woods above the house. However they refused to comment.

BLOOD STAINS

The time by now was about 3:30 p.m. I made my way from the Phipps property noticing on the way out a blood-stained knife in the back of one of the RCMP identification mobile units.

The house where Dale Nelson lived was situated between the Wasyk and Phipps houses, about one mile from each. This is where I went next.

Four RCMP officers were on guard at the Nelson house. Earlier in the day a slashed plastic window pane had been noticed by an officer, and there was evidence in the cabin that someone had been in during the night and had taken out some food and water.

WINDOW BROKEN

Police later admitted that they believed Nelson himself had made his way back to his cabin and had been able to break in a back window.

Poison Kills Fish In Mainland River

SURREY (CP) — The entire fish population in the lower reaches of the Campbell River, about 15 miles south of Vancouver, was killed during the weekend by an undetermined poison.

Don Udy, fish and wildlife conservation officer, said the kill included at least 1,000 bullheads, many flounders and cutthroat trout and a few spawning coho salmon. He said dead fish were found from the mouth of the river to a point about three miles upstream.

He said a number of fish, including about 50 coho, were also found dead in the Serpentine River, about five miles north of the Campbell.

Mr. Udy said heavy weekend rain could have caused a run-off of pesticides or herbicides from farms in the area, but other possible causes were also being investigated.

Both the Campbell and Serpentine are small streams that run into Boundary Bay near the Canada-U.S. border. They are favorite haunts of sports fishermen at this time of year with the coho run just starting, and Mr. Udy warned anglers to stay clear of the affected areas.

180 Hostages Held in Amman

10-Mile Oil Slick Off P.E.I.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island today called on federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson for all possible "expertise and equipment" to deal with a huge oil slick moving through the Gulf of St. Lawrence following the sinking Monday of an oil-laden barge.

Campbell said the slick was 10 miles long and five miles wide and was moving one-third of a mile an hour toward the northeast coast of New Brunswick.

Present wind conditions were taking the oil away from Prince Edward Island, but this could change at any time.

The premier said all coastal areas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence were threatened by the oil.

There was no immediate indication how much of the barge Irving Whale's 850,000 gallons of bunker C oil had escaped. The barge sank Monday morning while under tow.

New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Newfoundland all have coastal areas bordering on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

EXPRESS OPTIMISM

Transport department officials earlier expressed optimism that oil would not escape from the Whale because it was only four years old and was structurally sound.

Campbell, who met transport department and armed forces officials here today, said the oil moving through the gulf was bunker C "from all appearances." This is a heavy grade of fuel oil, similar to the oil which polluted Nova Scotia's shoreline following the sinking of the tanker Arrow last winter.

The slick was not a solid mass of oil but covered a five-by-10-mile area halfway between the coast of Caraquet, N.B., and Cape North, P.E.I.

Its present course would carry it away from P.E.I.'s famous sand beaches on the north shore of the province, including the P.E.I. National Park.

The premier said top priority will be given to stopping the seepage from the 2,300-ton unmanned barge which sank in rough seas 60 miles north of P.E.I. early Monday while being towed by the tug Irving Maple to Bathurst, N.B.

RELEASE of Leila Khaled, 25, held by British authorities and identified as the female accomplice in attempted hijacking of an Israeli El Al airliner Sunday, is major demand of Palestinian guerrillas holding other plane passengers hostage in Palestine. (AP Wirephoto.)

Swiss Agree To Exchange

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced tonight it will release the hijacked Swiss airliner and about 22 Swiss passengers as soon as the three Popular Front guerrillas held in Zurich are delivered here, an official communique said.

Times News Services

A team of negotiators from the International Red Cross flew today to Amman, Jordan, in hopes of saving the lives of 180 persons being held hostage by Palestinian guerrillas aboard two hijacked airplanes.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine has threatened to blow up the planes and their passengers unless Arab guerrillas held in Western countries are released by 7 p.m. PDT Wednesday.

Another 120 hostages were removed from the Trans World Airlines and Swissair planes now being held in this sunbaked desert city in Jordan.

The Red Cross said in Geneva today the guerrillas had increased their ransom demands to include the release of 3,000 Arab prisoners held by Israel.

A first ultimatum demanded the release of seven Arabs held by West Germany, Switzerland and Britain.

"The Front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warnings," a guerrilla spokesman said in Amman.

Britain Agrees to Talk Details

Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand. Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath, after an emergency cabinet meeting agreed to co-ordinate with the other governments in working out a package deal to win the release of the hijack victims.

A third plane was also involved Sunday in the drama. A Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes.

A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crew aboard.

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were in hospital for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

A fourth hijack attempt was thwarted by Israeli security officials when Palestinian Leila Khaled was seized and a male companion fatally shot when they attempted to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC-8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York.

She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded also are in jail on charges involving airline hijackings.

SEND NEGOTIATORS

In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Red Cross mediators earlier convinced the Palestinians to release 120 hostages, mostly women and children, who were taken to a hotel in Amman.

The 180 remaining included all Israeli nationals aboard, plus men from the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland.

The hotel where the 120 were staying was hit by mortar fire during the night, but there were no injuries.

The attack appeared to be part of the skirmishing in the city between Palestinian Arab guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

The Popular Front demanded that:

- Switzerland free the three Arab commandos being held in that country for an attack in February, 1969, on an Israeli El Al Boeing at Zurich Airport.
- Britain free Miss Khaled and return her safely to Jordan.

SCHOOL OPENS —EXCEPT IN TRAIL

VANCOUVER (CP)—James Campbell, president of the British Columbia School Trustees Association, said he has asked Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to intervene in a strike that kept 5,700 students at Trail home today while 500,000 students in the rest of the province returned to school.

Lightning Hits Football Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A bolt of lightning which flashed out of the darkening sky over a practice high school football game killed two players and injured 20 other youngsters, two critically.

The bolt Monday centred on a huddle of the Gibbs high school offensive team, working on plays to be used in the season opener Sept. 18.

Killed were tackle Robert Newton, 17, and quarterback Vincent Williams, 16.

Four players remained in hospital, two of them — Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16 — listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Halfback Michael Washington, 16, said he was standing beside Chapman in the huddle when the lightning hit.

"A big flash came in the middle, and the shoulder pads looked like they were flowing," Williams said.

REFUSES TO LEAVE VICTORIA OFFICE

By PETER McNELLY

Reg Clarkson, supervisor of the Vancouver Island region of the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia, today demanded an investigation into the reasons for his transfer out of Victoria to the foundation's Vancouver office.

Clarkson was notified of his transfer on Aug. 17 in a letter from the Foundation's executive director in Vancouver, E. D. McRae. He was to have reported today to the Vancouver to take a post as counsellor.

'LOSS OF CONFIDENCE'

But Clarkson said he is staying in Victoria because he cannot abandon his patients on short notice. At a morning press conference, Clarkson said McRae's letter said he was being transferred due to a "loss of confidence at the government level in my work with the alcoholism foundation on Vancouver Island."

He said he has repeatedly tried, without success, to get the foundation's executive to explain what they mean by a loss of confidence.

"I have been repeatedly refused a written interpretation of what is meant by this. One person (whom Clarkson would not identify) told me the reason is because the RCMP have spotted Communist unemployed agitators coming to my office."

CLARKSON . . . why the transfer?

He said he has been refused an appeal before the foundation's board of directors, but has talked to his lawyer and will press for either an investigation or an appeal.

The real reason behind the transfer, Clarkson said, "is to silence my complaints against the operation of the Alcoholism Foundation. For two years I have been complaining about the waste of money on counselling and the neglect of preventative education and community organization to fight alcoholism."

Asked if he believed the provincial government no longer had confidence in his work, Clarkson produced written testimonials support-

PLANE CRASHES

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A DC-8 airliner belonging to Trans - International Airlines crashed on takeoff at Kennedy International Airport this afternoon, the control tower reported.

First reports said the airliner was ablaze at the end of the runway.

First reports were sketchy but the plane was believed to have been carrying only a seven-man crew and no passengers. The jet was believed to have been owned by Trans International Airways, a charter airline.

SPARSELY POPULATED

By BRIAN BUTTERS

CRESTON — West Creston, about 18 miles across the Kootenay River from the main community of Creston in southeastern B.C., is a sparsely populated area sprinkled with run-down farmhouses.

This is the area where a gunman roamed early Saturday morning and shot to death and mutilated the bodies of seven members of two families.

Another body was found Sunday after the suspected killer had been captured near his own house in West Creston, raising te death toll to eight.

The suspect, Dale Nelson of West Creston, a resident logger of the area for 15 years, gave himself up after being surrounded by RCMP and police dogs on a wooded hillside about 75 yards behind his small cabin.

Nearby was a loaded rifle and a dozen rounds of ammunition.

A look at the countryside and the dense woods surrounding the scene of the killings reveals why it was possible for the gunman to evade capture by police for almost two days after the slayings.

TERRAIN ROUGH

Thick woods reach down from a nearby mountain. The terrain is rough with abundant hiding places, and when darkness falls the area is pitch-black.

The gunman apparently used these factors to full advantage during his spree. After killing two people at the Wasyk house, police said he moved about two miles down the road to the house of Raymond Phipps where five residents were shot and mutilated, and another family member taken captive.

The gunman then slipped back to the Wasyk house, removed the body of one of the victims and drove off down the road again, finally abandoning his car in the Corn Creek area of West Creston, about three miles from the scene of the last shootings.

MOVED TO SHACK

Twenty-four hours later, early Sunday morning, the gunman moved from where he was hiding to a small shack identified as Nelson's residence.

A back window covered with plastic was slashed open with a knife and the gunman entered the house and removed food and water. An RCMP lookout was posted a short distance from the house but did not see or hear the man enter the house.

It is likely the gunman did not stray from the immediate area because it was a point behind Nelson's shack where a man was spotted hiding in the bush only minutes before Nelson was captured.

Suspect Captured In Creston Manhunt

Times Staff

CRESTON — An extensive manhunt for the suspected killer of eight Creston area residents came to a dramatic end here late Sunday afternoon with the capture by RCMP of Dale Merle Nelson of West Creston.

An hour and a quarter after the capture, RCMP searchers, apparently aided by information supplied by Nelson, found the body of an eight-year-old girl believed abducted by the gunman at the time of the killings. Police said she had died of knife wounds.

Nelson, 31, was apprehended only 75 yards from the back of his cabin residence, about two miles from the scenes of the slayings early Saturday of seven members of two farm families.

Killed were: Mrs. Shirley Wasyk, 30, her daughter Tracy, 7, Raymond Phipps, 42, his common-law wife Isabel St. Almond, 26, and Phipps' children Paul, 10, Brian, 7, and Kenneth, 18 months.

FOUND NEAR CAR

Police identified the eighth victim as Cathy St. Almond, 8. Her body was discovered in the area where Nelson's abandoned car was found early Saturday.

About 50 RCMP officers had been engaged in the manhunt for Nelson since early Saturday when the Creston detachment received a report of a possible shooting at the Alex Wasyk residence in West Creston.

Upon arriving at the scene, officers discovered the bodies of Mrs. Wasyk and Tracy. Police said they had both been shot several times.

Mr. Wasyk was working at a logging camp and was not home. One of the Wasyk children was found hiding in nearby bushes and another, a girl, Debbie, had run to the house of neighbors to tell of the shootings.

While police were still investigating this matter, they received a report that a man was proceeding to a nearby residence "to commit assaults" upon the family there.

FAMILY EVACUATED

Police moved on to this residence and evacuated the family.

In checking out other residences in the area they came upon the bodies of the five victims at the Phipps residence.

The position of Phipps' body indicated that he had been shot at close range, probably while answering the front door. Mrs. St. Almond's body lay near the kitchen stove.

The three children's bodies were found in the small shack's two bedrooms. All the bodies had been shot several times and had been mutilated with a knife.

During the time police were at the Phipps residence, the gunman apparently slipped back to the Wasyk house and removed the body of Tracy Wasyk.

Her mutilated and decapitated body was later found with Nelson's abandoned car, about three miles from the Wasyk house, on Corn Creek Road.

No further trace was seen of the suspected killer until late Sunday afternoon, when RCMP officers reported they had spotted a man in the woods behind Nelson's house, which lay between the Phipps and Wasyk houses.

Ten police units converged on the area and police and tracking dogs spread out on the hillside behind the small shack. A loudspeaker message urged whoever was in the woods to give himself up by walking towards the cabin with hands in the air.

After the message was repeated several times, a man later identified as Nelson appeared from among some tall grass on the hillside and was subdued by officers, after being knocked to the ground and pinned by a police dog.

He was taken into custody and transported to the Creston detachment of the RCMP where he was charged with the non-capital murder of Mrs. Shirley Wasyk.

He was to appear before provincial court judge Harold Langston this morning.

Pound Under Pressure

LONDON (AP) —The pound slipped to its lowest level in almost a year today as foreign exchange markets opened in quiet conditions. It was quoted at $2.38125.

The fall raised some talk of devaluation, but financial experts discounted any immediate government move.

The slump came amidst labor strikes and deteriorating trade figures. Commentators said sentiment worsened with the latest International Monetary Fund warning of inflation and an American economic report advising subscribers to stay clear of sterling.

The $2.38125 level was half a point below Monday night's close. It was not immediately clear whether the Bank of England moved in today with support, but the slack conditions appeared not to warrant it.

Britain Profited In Money Dealings

LONDON (AP) — Britain profited in its money dealings with the rest of the world by £53 million ($132.5 million in the April-June period, the government has announced.

The balance-of-payments surplus was less than half the surplus in the previous three months, when Britain was in the black by £119 million.

6% Prediction Immature Claim Canada Bankers

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian banking officials see little prospect of a six per cent prime interest rate, as predicted by Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans of the United States.

Stans said in an interview that he sees six per cent interest rates again "and perhaps not too far off."

A Canadian banking source said Stans is "kind of optimistic."

It's a bit too strong to mention six per cent when there are still so many unknowns at the moment."

If rates were lowered in the U.S., however, Canada would be forced to follow suit to protect its foreign reserve treasury, already filled to record levels.

If Canadian interest rates remain high while U.S. rates drop, money from the U.S. flows into Canada to take advantage of the favorable rates. Such a flow would put added pressure on the Canadian dollar.

"There is going to be a tremendous money shortage during the 1970s," the banking spokesman said, "not only in North America but throughout the world."

"This will tend to keep interest rates up so six per cent rates appear premature."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Publicity Stunt, Says Oil Chief

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of Petrofina Canada Ltd. said Monday that the plan of several oil companies to put on the market gasoline without lead in order to reduce air pollution is just a "publicity stunt."

Alfredo F. Campbell said in a statement that oil companies planning to introduce gasoline without lead or a small amount of it "are just trying to take advantage of the public's fear of pollution."

He said their decision will only mean a useless increase in cost which will hurt the consumer and will not reduce pollution.

Campo said the lead content in gasoline is an insignificant factor of pollution which is being caused by the hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxide contained in the exhaust fumes.

He said nothing justified this "eagerness to introduce such a gasoline," and although Petrofina could produce gasoline without lead it had no intention of doing so at the moment.

A MAJOR ATTRACTION at the fair were the flower exhibits which this year excelled in quality. Potted flowering plant held by Cathy Dye, 16, of 5160 Patricia Bay Highway, is an example of the entries in this class.

NOT A TEAR was shed by Grant Sandeman-Allen, 13, of the 4-H Garden Club, Saanich Penninsula branch, as he sniffed these onions in a showmanship competition. He won first prize.

Rain, Crowds Pour Into Fair

By HUMPHRY DAVY

In rain and shine, Victorians turned out en masse over the Labor Day weekend to make the annual Saanichton fair a success.

On opening day, Saturday, when it started to drizzle, attendance was about half what it usually is.

But in Sunday when the rain came down in sheets, much to the surprise of fair officials, people arrived at the fairgrounds in droves.

In the pouring rain, people sat on bleachers and watched the Chinese Oriental show at the bandshell and the horse show.

The climax came on Monday when the sky began to clear. People swarmed over the grounds, establishing an attendance record for Labor Day.

More than 15,000 poured through the gates. Cars were jammed on the grounds and on all adjoining roads.

Bud Michell, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society estimates the attendance for the three days to be between 20,000 and 23,000. That is as good as last year's.

That is a good as last year's.

Clad in everything from tweeds to dungarees, thousands of people tramped from exhibits and show rings to the midway and refreshment stands, Monday.

People were cheerful and gay and got into the spirit of things.

The fair was well-organized and the way the exhibits were neatly displayed pleased one of its regular visitors and staunchest supporters — former lieutenant-governor George Pearkes.

He opened the fair and was named, at the same time, the first freeman of Central Saanich.

A total of 308 4-H Club members ran through a full program of events and in some sections, such as cattle and honey, competed successfully against their seniors.

Henry Robinson, fair manager, who has watched the 4-H movement grow over the years, said competition between clubs and members, had never been keener.

One of the biggest attractions was the poultry and game bird exhibition which won the inter-section competition.

People were fascinated by the fancy birds (dream birds as one child called them) and the giant-size chickens.

A big improvement this year was the art show — the best ever, according to judges.

The show was arranged by Mrs. M. Clayards, Mrs. M. Budd, Mrs. C. Brownlee and Arris Smith. They managed to assemble 300 exhibits — paintings, wood sculptures and potter.

Last year there were about 30 exhibits in the show.

The rabbit show, with 330 entries, was the largest in history.

As usual, the Saanich Historical Artifacts Association with its old-time threshers and steam engines, the horse show and the sheep judging, drew large crowds.

Attendance Up as PNE Ends Stand

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific National Exhibition closed out a 17-day stand Monday night with a total attendance of 1,167,030, an increase of 18,170 over 1969.

GM Founder 99 Today

The event was to be marked by a family gathering at his estate here, to be attended by his three daughters and close family friends.

He founded the McLaughlin Carriage Works which later became General Motors of Canada Ltd. and served as president and chairman of the board of GM. Until his recent illness he had spent at least an hour a day in his office.

Pension Premiums To Climb to $172.80

OTTAWA (CP) — The maximum yearly premium for Canada Pension Plan coverage will escalate automatically to $172.80 in 1971 from $169.20 this year, the department of internal revenue announced today.

The increase is based on the maximum annual allowance of two per cent for the rise in the cost of living. The same escalation factor will raise the ceiling on maximum pensionable earnings to $5,400 from $5,300 in 1970.

The 1971 calculations will raise the maximum contribution of an employed person to $86.40 from $84.60. Self-employed contributors earning at least $5,400 must pay the full premium on their own.

Annual contributions have increased by a similar proportion each year since the plan's inception in 1966 when the full premium was $158.40.

REPORT URGES LEGALIZATION OF MARIJUANA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A staff report to the United States national commission on the causes and prevention of violence released Monday night recommended the legalization of marijuana. The report also said the violent crime rate by urban blacks is markedly higher than whites and suggested improved ghettos conditions as a means to solve the problem.

The report called for legalization of marijuana to persons over 18 years old.

"There is no reliable scientific evidence of harmful effect, nor is there evidence of marijuana's being a stepping-stone to hard narcotics," the report said.

SUSPECTED MASS KILLER Dale Nelson, second from right, is led to RCMP squad car by arresting officers directly in front of his West Creston cabin. Nelson, object of a two-day manhunt, had been flushed from woods behind cabin and was subdued without a struggle. The body of an eight-year-old girl believed taken hostage by the gunman was later found in a wooded area nearby.

180 Hostages Held in Amman

Swiss Agree To Exchange

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced tonight it will release the hijacked Swiss airliner and its Swiss passengers as soon as the three Popular Front guerrillas held in Zurich are delivered here, an official communique said.

Times News Services

A team of negotiators from the International Red Cross flew today to Amman, Jordan, in hopes of saving the lives of 180 persons being held hostage by Palestinian guerrillas aboard two hijacked airplanes.

RELEASE of Leila Khaled, 25, held by British authorities and identified as the female accomplice in attempted hijacking of an Israeli El Al airliner Sunday, is major demand of Palestinian guerrillas holding other plane passengers hostage in Palestine. (AP Wirephoto.)

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine has threatened to blow up the planes and their passengers unless Arab guerrillas held in Western countries are released by 1 a.m. PDT Thursday.

Another 120 hostages were removed from the Trans World Airlines and Swissair planes now being held in this sunbaked desert city in Jordan.

The Red Cross said in Geneva today the guerrillas had increased their ransom demands to include the release of 3,000 Arab prisoners held by Israel.

A first ultimatum demanded the release of seven Arabs held by West Germany, Switzerland and Britain.

"The Front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warnings," a guerrilla spokesman said in Amman.

Britain Agrees to Talk Details

Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand. Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath, after an emergency cabinet meeting agreed to co-ordinate with the other governments in working out a package deal to win the release of the hijack victims.

A third plane was also involved Sunday in the drama. A Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes.

A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crew aboard.

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were in hospital for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

All three planes were hijacked en route to New York.

A fourth hijack attempt was thwarted by Israeli security officials when Palestinian Leila Khaled was seized and a male companion fatally shot when they attempted to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC-8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York.

She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded also are in jail on charges involving airline hijackings.

Three of the prisoners are awaiting trial in Munich and the other three have been sentenced in Zurich to 12-year prison terms.

SEND NEGOTIATORS

In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Red Cross mediators earlier convinced the Palestinians to release 120 hostages, mostly women and children, who were taken to a hotel in Amman.

The 180 remaining included all Israeli nationals aboard, plus men from the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland.

The hotel where the 120 were staying was hit by mortar fire during the night, but there were no injuries.

The attack appeared to be part of the skirmishing in the city between Palestinian Arab guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

LIST DEMANDS

The Popular Front demanded that:

● Switzerland free the three Arab commandos being held in that country for an attack in February, 1969, on an Israeli El Al Boeing at Zurich Airport.

Police Find 8th Victim; Man Charged

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

CRESTON—Dale Merle Nelson has been charged with non-capital murder in the slayings of eight persons near this southeast B.C. city.

I witnessed the capture of the accused mass slayer by RCMP in a wooded area near his cabin Sunday afternoon.

I was inspecting the scenes of the seven shootings early Saturday in the West Creston area, about 18 miles west of here, when I learned from police that a man had been spotted in the woods behind a cabin a mile away.

I rushed to the spot and watched as Nelson was flushed from the bush. A police dog rushed him and pinned him to the ground until police could handcuff him.

An eight-year-old girl believed held captive by the gunman was not with Nelson when he was captured. She was later found dead.

Nelson faces a charge of non-capital murder in connection with the slayings of the eight people.

The final act of the manhunt began about 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

While on holidays in Nelson, I heard of the shootings and drove to Creston Sunday to visit three places in the shooting area. The first place was the Alex Wasyk residence where Shirley Wasyk and her daughter Tracy had been shot to death and from which Tracy's body was subsequently taken.

A deep crimson blood-stain was visible in the back bedroom of the run-down shack, where Tracy had apparently been slain.

After several minutes I left the Wasyk residence and made my way to the next stop, which was the house of Raymond Phipps, about two miles along the road.

I asked if I could take a look at the scene and was told that as long as I didn't go into the house I could look all I wished.

RCMP Guards Front Door

The scene was gruesome. Deep pools of blood stained the living room floor where the body of Ray Phipps had fallen after he was blasted by a high-powered rifle, apparently while answering a knock at the front door.

Another large patch of dried blood marked the spot where Phipps' common-law wife, Isabel St. Almond, had been shot and her body mutilated with a knife.

The bodies of three of Phipps' children were found by police in the two bedrooms of the house, each shot several times and also mutilated.

After I had finished looking at the Phipps residence, I noticed four RCMP officers emerging from wooded hillside directly behind the Phipps' property.

The officers conducted a brief confidential conference. I gathered from their activity that something had been spotted in the woods above the house. However they refused to comment.

BLOOD STAINS

The time by now was about 3:30 p.m. I made my way from the Phipps property noticing on the way out a blood-stained knife in the back of one of the RCMP identification mobile units.

The house where Dale Nelson lived was situated between the Wasyk and Phipps houses, about one mile from each. This is where I went next.

Four RCMP officers were on guard at the Nelson house. Earlier in the day a slashed plastic window pane had been noticed by an officer, and there was evidence in the cabin that someone had been in during the night and had taken out some food and water.

WINDOW BROKEN

Police later admitted that they believed Nelson himself had made his way back to his cabin and had been able to break in a back window.

Poison Kills Fish In Mainland River

SURREY (CP) — The entire fish population in the lower reaches of the Campbell River, about 30 miles south of Vancouver, was killed during the weekend by an undetermined poison.

Don Udy, fish and wildlife conservation officer, said the kill included at least 1,000 bullheads, many flounders and cutthroat trout and a few spawning coho salmon. He said dead fish were found from the mouth of the river to a point about three miles upstream.

He said a number of fish, including about 50 coho, were also found dead in the Serpentine River, about five miles north of the Campbell.

Mr. Udy said other fish, including coho of up to 10 pounds, were found gasping for breath in the Serpentine but recovered quickly when moved upstream from a quarter-mile stretch that was contaminated.

Mr. Udy said heavy weekend rain could have caused a run-off of pesticides or herbicides from farms in the area, but other possible causes were also being investigated.

Both the Campbell and Serpentine are small streams that run into Boundary Bay near the Canada-U.S. border. They are favorite haunts of sports fishermen at this time of year with the coho run just starting, and Mr. Udy warned anglers to stay clear of the affected areas.

10-Mile Oil Slick Off P.E.I.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island today called on federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson for all possible "expertise and equipment" to deal with a huge oil slick moving through the Gulf of St. Lawrence following the sinking Monday of an oil-laden barge.

Campbell said the slick was 10 miles long and five miles wide and was moving one-third of a mile an hour toward the northeast coast of New Brunswick.

Present wind conditions were taking the oil away from Prince Edward Island, but this could change at any time.

The premier said all coastal areas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence were threatened by the oil.

There was no immediate indication how much of the barge Irving Whale's 850,000 gallons of bunker C oil had escaped. The barge sank Monday morning while under tow.

New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Newfoundland all have coastal areas bordering on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

EXPRESS OPTIMISM

Transport department officials earlier expressed optimism that oil would not escape from the Whale because it was only four years old and was structurally sound.

Campbell, who met transport department and armed forces officials here today, said the oil moving through the gulf was bunker C "from all appearances." This is a heavy grade of fuel oil, similar to the oil which polluted Nova Scotia's shoreline following the sinking of the tanker Arrow last winter.

The slick was not a solid mass of oil but covered a five-by-10-mile area halfway between the coast of Caraquet, N.B., and Cape North, P.E.I.

Its present course would carry it away from P.E.I.'s famous sand beaches on the north shore of the province, including the P.E.I. National Park.

The premier said top priority will be given to stopping the seepage from the 2,300-ton unmanned barge which sank in rough seas 60 miles north of P.E.I. early Monday while being towed by the tug Irving Maple to Bathurst, N.B.

SCHOOL OPENS —EXCEPT IN TRAIL

VANCOUVER — James Campbell, president of the British Columbia School Trustees Association, said he has asked Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to intervene in a strike that kept 5,700 students at Trail home today while 500,000 students in the rest of the province returned to school.

Lightning Hits Football Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A bolt of lightning which flashed out of the darkening sky over a practice high school football game killed two players and injured 20 other youngsters, two critically.

The bolt Monday centred on a huddle of the Gibbs high school offensive team, working on plays to be used in the season opener Sept. 18.

Killed were tackle Robert Newton, 17, and quarterback Vincent Williams, 15.

Four players remained in hospital, two of them — Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16 — listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Halfback Michael Washington, 16, said he was standing beside Chapman in the huddle when the lightning hit.

"A big flash came in the middle, and the shoulder pads looked like they were flowing," Williams said.

REFUSES TO LEAVE VICTORIA OFFICE

Clarkson Transferred, Demands Probe

By PETER McNELLY

Reg Clarkson, supervisor of the Vancouver Island region of the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia, today demanded an investigation into the reasons for his transfer out of Victoria to the foundation's Vancouver office.

Clarkson was notified of his transfer on Aug. 17 in a letter from the Foundation's executive director in Vancouver, E. D. McRae. He was to have reported today to the Vancouver to take a post as counsellor.

'LOSS OF CONFIDENCE'

But Clarkson said he is staying in Victoria because he cannot abandon his patients on short notice. At a morning press conference, Clarkson said McRae's letter said he was being transferred due to a "loss of confidence at the government level in my work with the alcoholism foundation on Vancouver Island."

He said he has repeatedly tried, without success, to get the foundation's executive to explain what they mean by a loss of confidence.

"I have been repeatedly refused a written interpretation of what is meant by this. One person (whom Clarkson would not identify) told me the reason is because the RCMP have spotted Communist unemployed agitators coming to my office."

He said he has been refused an appeal before the foundation's board of directors, but has talked to his lawyer and will press for either an investigation or an appeal.

The real reason behind the transfer, Clarkson said, "is to silence my complaints against the operation of the Alcoholism Foundation. For two years I have been complaining about the waste of money on counselling and the neglect of preventative education and community organization to fight alcoholism."

Asked if he believed the provincial government no longer had confidence in his work, Clarkson produced written testimonials support-

Alberta Coal Producers Expand to Meet Demand

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta coal producers, experiencing an average annual growth of about 30 per cent, are convinced there's no fuel like an old fuel.

Alberta's coal reserves are estimated at 24,000 million tons, ensuring that there won't be shortages for many years.

Estimates suggest that the peak production of 9.5 million tons a year, achieved in the late 1940s, will be exceeded in the next few years, prompting some industry spokesmen to suggest that black gold in the future will refer to coal rather than oil in Alberta.

NEED CHEAP FUEL

Dr. Norbert Berkowitz, head of coal research for the Alberta Research Council, said world-wide shortages of coking coal and a need for cheap fuel will increase Alberta production to 25 million tons a year by 1980.

The high capital investment required for hydroelectric installations and the increasing cost of natural gas is resulting in wider use of coal-fired steam generators in many new power plants.

Small mine shafts of the 1950s have been replaced with huge efficient strip-mining operations.

Dr. Berkowitz estimates the cost of strip mining in Alberta's Prairie areas at $1.10 to $1.40 a ton for power generation, a large reduction from the cost of a decade ago. However, he stressed that this is the cost only in Western Canada.

As a result of the cut in cost, Alberta coal has become one of the cheapest sources of fuel in North America, ranging from eight to 15 cents for a million British thermal units compared to an average of 24 cents for a million BTU in the United States.

The cost in Ontario, which imports its coal from the eastern United States, is 45 to 50 cents for a million BTU.

RISE CONTINUES

Coal-fuelled plants produced only one-sixth of the province's power in 1963, but by 1968 that had risen to nearly one-half and the increase was continuing.

W. L. Sterling, vice-president of production for Canadian Utilities Ltd., expects the province's coal-fired generator plant capacity will increase more than threefold by 1979. All major electrical production installations planned by his firm for the next 10 years will use coal.

Melson says: "Of particular significance is the fact that with coal production, about 60 per cent of the cost is for labor and thus most of the money is kept in the province.

"With the oil industry, only about 10 per cent covers labor costs."

Pound Under Pressure

LONDON (AP) —The pound slipped to its lowest level in almost a year today as foreign exchange markets opened in quiet conditions. It was quoted at $2.38125.

The fall raised some talk of devaluation, but financial experts discounted any immediate government move.

The slump came amidst labor strikes and deteriorating trade figures. Commentators said sentiment worsened with the latest International Monetary Fund warning of inflation and an American economic report advising subscribers to stay clear of sterling.

The $2.38125 level was half a point below Monday night's close. It was not immediately clear whether the Bank of England moved in today with support, but the slack conditions appeared not to warrant it.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Aggressive buying continued through the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, with feed grains gaining strength.

Oats and barley were strong all day on heavy exporter, commission house and domestic shipper buying.

Rye had a heavy exporter inquiry and some commission house buying.

The Winnipeg exchange today began trading rapeseed for delivery at Thunder Bay as well as the previous listing for Vancouver delivery.

Lakehead prices for class two and IGA wheat were all unchanged.

Britain Profited In Money Dealings

LONDON (AP) — Britain profited in its money dealings with the rest of the world by £53 million ($132.5 million in the April-June period, the government has announced.

The balance-of-payments surplus was less than half the surplus in the previous three months, when Britain was in the black by £119 million.

The quarterly balance of payments figures, showing the difference between what a country is earning and spending abroad, is a key indicator of national economic health.

YELLOW DOTS on local post boxes tell the number of mail pick-ups, pointing the way to faster service. Wendy Mudrak has picked a mail box cleared three times a day. Other changes under study may tell letter writers when their mail will be delivered.

IT'S AN EFFICIENCY DRIVE

Spots Break Out on Mail Boxes

The yellow dots which have blossomed on some local post boxes indicate the number of times daily the box is being cleared of mail.

It's a visual way of telling people who want to speed a letter on its way which collection boxes are getting the most service, local post office information officer Ken Stofer said today.

And it's part of an efficiency drive by the post office aimed at a better service while making it pay its own way.

There could be other changes affecting collection boxes if a pilot project under way in Toronto proves a new service worthwhile.

Meanwhile, about 50 local collection boxes have been removed because a survey early this year showed they weren't being used enough.

That left 386 post boxes in the Greater Victoria area and of these 96 now have from two to four yellow dots on them. The ones without dots are cleared once daily.

All boxes continue to show what times they are cleared but this may change. At some time in the future the box may show what time you have to get your letter into it to be assured of next-day delivery at major centres across the country.

A notice on collection boxes within the Toronto experimental area reads something like this: "If you mail your letters before 2 p.m., they will be delivered the next day in Montreal, Halifax, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. Letters mailed after 2 p.m. will receive following day delivery."

Some letter boxes in Greater Victoria are now cleared as early as 7 a.m. and as late at 7:40 p.m. The boxes where there is just one collection a day, mostly located in residential areas, are cleared mid-afternoon.

A fleet of 17 trucks clears these boxes, about 200 of them, within half an hour.

Nineteen boxes on major routes are cleared in the 7 a.m. to 8:05 a.m. pickup and about 80 boxes are emptied between 6:15 p.m and 7:40 p.m.

Damage of $15,200 In 51 Car Accidents

By STEVE HUME

The Labor Day weekend was a black one for drivers in Greater Victoria.

Area drivers were involved in 51 traffic accidents, 11 resulting in injuries, that did an estimated $15,200 damage to vehicles between Friday night and this morning, a Times survey showed today.

And those figures are conservative.

Not included in the totals are accidents that caused less than $200 damage and did not involve injuries.

The area surveyed included Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Sidney, and the area which falls undeer the jurisdiction of Colwood's RCMP detachment.

As heavy rains made pavements treacherous, Victoria and Saanich suffered most heavily over the long weekend. The two biggest municipalities accounted for a total of 34 accidents and an estimated total of $14,200 damage.

Victoria led in accidents with 21 to the 13 reported in Saanich, but it was the reverse in terms of damage estimates as Saanich police reported a total of $8,900 to $5,300 damage in Victoria.

Saanich police said there were increases in all areas compared to similar figures for the same period in 1969.

Accidents increased from 10 to 13, incidence of injury jumped from three to five, and damage estimates more than doubled from $4,000 to $8,900.

Of the other areas surveyed, Colwood RCMP reported seven accidents, two involving injuries, while Oak Bay reported three accidents with no injuries.

Esquimalt had five accidents with no injuries and Sidney RCMP reported two accidents, one involving an injury.

Two Women Hit by Car

Two women were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday night after being struck by a car driven by Leslie Webb, of 3329 Keats, Saanich, on the Trans-Canada highway at Harriet, Saanich police said.

Henry Charles Gaddes, 18, of 1344 Victoria Ave., was reported in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was taken after an accident Saturday noon in Victoria.

Gaddes suffered a fractured skull when his motorcycle went out of control in the 1100 block of Langley, jumped a curb on the wrong side of the road and slammed into a cement wall at 12:45 a.m.

Also in Victoria, John Garrison, 23, was reported in good condition at the Jubilee with chest and back injuries suffered in a two-car collision at Blanshard and Hillside about 10:30 p.m. Friday.

Felicie Upton, 49, of 4372 Parkside Crescent, driver of one of the cars, was treated for a cut leg and released.

Injured in an accident at Colwood Sunday were Mrs. Joan Thomas and her son Peter, both of 512 Linden.

Two people were injured in an accident at Burnside and Finlayson at 4:43 a.m. Saturday.

Maurice Earl Wutzke, 19, of 10109 Pleasant St., was taken to St. Joseph's for treatment of head cuts after the car he was driving collided with another car driven by Robert L. Dyke, 32, of 2426 Bevan Ave., in Sidney.

What may have been the most spectacular accident of the weekend, however, did not result in any injuries.

Appeal Seeks 3,000 Helpers

The 1970 United Appeal swings into action today by launching a one-week drive for residential canvassers.

More than 3,000 men and women are needed to canvass homes and apartments throughout Greater Victoria.

This year, campaign planners have divided the region into several districts and will arrange canvass routes so that no one will have to call on more than 20 homes.

The appeal hopes to reach its residential goal of $111,200 in one night. The idea is to blitz every district on Monday, Oct. 19.

This way no canvasser will have to work every week during the campaign.

"The only way to prevent a long drawn-out drive is to get the canvassers we need," says campaign director Judy Nyquist. "If the public doesn't help, it just won't get done.

Drive to Feature Sales Persuasion

Sales techniques will be injected into the federal government employees' United Appeal campaign this year.

Federal services division — first to start the 1970 campaign — last year raised 15 per cent more than its Appeal goal.

At the kickoff meeting today in the Newcombe Auditorium about 105 federal government canvassers watched a demonstration of how to persuade employees to contribute to the United Appeal.

Pointers were given by Fred Tanner, chairman of the board of directors for the G. R. Pearkes Clinic.

Federal division's goal this year is $52,300, down slightly from last year because of a reduction of Canadian Forces personnel.

READY TO WORK but no place to sit is the predicament of about 125 Victoria West Elementary students today as they wait for five portable classrooms to replace the 62-year-old building behind them. Government approval late last week means the portables will arrive — the first possibly today — but until then five classes will have assignments to complete at home for a few days.

Rescue Centre Sends Out SOS

By PAT DUFOUR

British Columbia's booming development and its image as a playground area is giving the Canadian armed forces one of its biggest headaches.

Rear-Admiral Richard Leir says the Rescue Co-ordinate Centre, recently moved from Vancouver to HMC Dockyard, feels it worst and says it's high time there was greater participation by other people in its financing.

"We picked up this service after the Second World War because we had the capability. But we're not getting reimbursed by provincial and other departments.

"Yet the work load has tripled in five years. By this weekend, as an example, there have been 1,197 operations this year. This is already more than last year's total."

Leir says the time has come when the ordinary citizen who buys himself a plane "or plays around with a boat", should participate in some measure.

He also says the provincial government should take some sort of responsibility for the rescue or search of people drawn here through their heavy concentration on the tourist industry.

There must also, he says, be some sort of arrangement to cover costs of mercy flights.

Although the RCC's work load has escalated its resources have geen drained through economic cutbacks.

"Our five Albatross and four Dakotas have been replaced with three Buffalo and three Labrador aircraft. This has to help us cover an area that includes all of the mainland and the B.C. islands, extending 600 miles out at sea.

"With all our vertical real estate we have the roughest country in Canada and a 13,500-mile coastline to watch that's more than that of the continental United States."

The phenomenal upsurge in pleasure boating is responsible for the spectacular rise in marine incidents but Leir says the biggest culprit in draining finances and time is aircraft.

"Every day there's another aircraft being bought and licensed. Some times it takes as much as five weeks before a search is over.

"I would like to see the department of transport make it mandatory that every plane be equipped with a homing device so that we can cut down the flying time needed to find a wreck.

"I'd also like to see the devices aboard yachts."

The RCC's commanding officer, Maj. Gordon Bissell, reports that the Victoria centre is the smallest of four across the country but has the largest number of incidents.

French-Canadians Pull Down Red Ensign

Two French-Canadians who pulled down the Red Ensign and damaged the flagpole in Centennial Square Saturday were told in court today that their actions were not helping national unity.

Lionel Desbiens, 21, of Lauzon, and Robert Lajoie, Cap de la Madeleine, Que., pleaded guilty before Judge William Ostler to causing wilful damage under $50 and were sentenced to one day.

They twisted the pole's steel halyard and broke it and were bringing the flag down when they were arrested.

Prosecutor Cory Stolte estimated the damage at about $40, but the city public works department said it would cost nearly $100 to repair the pole.

"You were treated decently here—why did you do that?" asked the judge.

Desbiens and Lajoie said they were sorry. They didn't know why they did it.

"We had a few drinks," said Desbiens.

They said they had hitchhiked across Canada and only had about $4 between them.

As the two young men had spent the weekend in jail, the judge decided to sentence them to one day which meant they were free to leave the city.

'Large, Faceless' Business Is Taking Over Downtown

Keep It Human Urges Shop Designer

By PETER McNELLY

Development in downtown Victoria should accommodate human values before big-money interests, a city designer and developer says.

And the public should have a chance to express itself before city council makes any final decision on the future of Wharf Street urban renewal.

He said the recent debate on Inner Harbor renewal moved him to give his support to Ald. Peter Pollen's call for a public meeting on Wharf Street renewal.

Bawlf made it clear he does not want to become embroiled in the current controversy over the proposed Reid centre. But he thinks council should listen to the public before making up its mind.

"There hasn't really been a dialogue between the politicians and the civil servants on the one hand and the people on the other. People aren't really aware of what the alternatives are and Pollen is trying to point them out."

Bawlf, who says he's never met Pollen, thinks downtown development should include residential buildings but not high-rises on the waterfront.

Waterfront high-rises in Victoria would be another step toward the imitation of Vancouver's west end, he says.

"What have high-rise developers done for Vancouver? The west end has got more problems today than it had 15 years ago when there were no high-rises."

Bawlf, who did graduate work in urban affairs at UBC before moving to Victoria, says downtown development ordinarily results in a replacement of community shops by "large institutional investors" like banks and trust companies.

This kind of change is already happening on Douglas Street, he says, and could happen to Wharf Street.

"When you get involved with large developers, the type that are running most cities today, you get involved with large institutional investors like insurance companies, and in order to secure their mortgages they have to lease their ground-floor space to prime national tenants like banks, very large faceless entities.

"Robson Street has been wiped out practically in the last 10 years. It was once the most exciting place to go in downtown Vancouver."

Bawlf said once the large developers moved in, the boutiques and small restaurants moved out.

He said his concept of Bastion Square works to retain small, community-oriented specialty shops. He admits this kind of development is attractive to the tourist, but says the years-round success of Bastion Square proves its worth for Victorians.

"We want people to realize that Bastion Square is for Victoria first, and we feel the waterfront should be the same way."

He said it is a mistake to think Victoria can continue to absorb both more tourists and more residents indefinitely.

Instead of gearing the city for outside consumption, Victoria should think of ways to export its character.

Bawlf said he'd also like to see some evidence that local governments are encouraging young people to establish their own businesses.

Bawlf's own Bastion Square project hasn't been as financially successful as a group of banks, law offices and trust and insurance companies would have been.

Young Driver Killed In Head-On Collision

CHEMAINUS — A head-on crash in heavy holiday traffic on the Trans-Canada Highway near Chemainus left an 18-year-old youth dead and four other people injured Friday night.

RCMP said Kevin William Espey, of Chemainus, was killed when the small foreign model car in which he was riding smashed head-on into another car towing a large trailer.

Victoria residents Charles A. Miller, 58, his wife Elizabeth, and their 13-year-old son Peter Charles, all of 3870 Epsom Drive, were treated and released at Chemainus General Hospital.

The crash, which occurred in heavy traffic on a narrow stretch of road, backed up oncoming vehicles for half a mile in each direction.

Coroner Thomas Lines of Duncan has ordered an inquest which was to open today with the viewing of the body.

Looks 15 Years Younger

My husband and I joined the Health Spa on March 17, 1967. Before that time I always had either a cold or the flue (or both) every winter. Since that time I've not had a sign of either. Six months ago, driving back from Texas, I discovered I was a horrible 157 lbs. (I'm 5'4"). I resolved to start on a diet the day after I arrived home and I did. This, together with the exercises at the Spa has taken off pounds and inches and today I weigh 128 lbs. Six months ago I bought dresses in size 16. Yesterday I bought a pant suit in size 12 which fit me perfectly. Do you wonder that I'm tickled pink? I feel better, look better (I think) and have far more energy. While I had to coax my husband to join, he now says and has said many times, that the money we spent on joining the Health Spa is one of the best investments we ever made.

A few years before joining this Club I weighed 248 pounds and today I now weigh 127 pounds. I have everything and everyone at this Club to thank for these results. The machines I have used to break down and reduce this fat — the exercising to tone up and the greatly appreciated helpful hints about dieting from the Instructors and Instructresses at this Spa. I have achieved great weight loss and a reasonably nice figure from the Spa and all the help I have received. I will be forever grateful.

I lost 40 lbs. in 6 months at the Spa. Before joining the Spa, I weighed 200 lbs. I wore size 44 and didn't have the pep I should have had.

Police Find 8th Victim; Man Charged

CRESTON—Dale Merle Nelson has been charged with non-capital murder in the slayings of eight persons near this southeast B.C. city.

I witnessed the capture of the accused mass slayer by RCMP in a wooded area near his cabin Sunday afternoon.

I was inspecting the scenes of the seven shootings early Saturday in the West Creston area, about 18 miles west of here, when I learned from police that a man had been spotted in the woods behind a cabin a mile away.

I rushed to the spot and watched as Nelson was flushed from the bush. A police dog rushed him and pinned him to the ground until police could handcuff him.

An eight-year-old girl believed held captive by the gunman was not with Nelson when he was captured. She was later found dead.

Nelson faces a charge of non-capital murder in connection with the slayings of the eight people.

The final act of the manhunt began about 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

While on holidays in Nelson, I heard of the shootings and drove to Creston Sunday to visit three places in the shooting area. The first place was the Alex Wasyk residence where Shirley Wasyk and her daughter Tracy had been shot to death and from which Tracy's body was subsequently taken.

A deep crimson blood-stain was visible in the back bedroom of the run-down shack, where Tracy had apparently been slain.

After several minutes I left the Wasyk residence and made my way to the next stop, which was the house of Raymond Phipps, about two miles along the road.

I asked if I could take a look at the scene and was told that as long as I didn't go into the house I could look all I wished.

RCMP Guards Front Door

The scene was gruesome. Deep pools of blood stained the living room floor where the body of Ray Phipps had fallen after he was blasted by a high-powered rifle, apparently while answering a knock at the front door.

Another large patch of dried blood marked the spot where Phipps' common-law wife, Isabel St. Almond, had been shot and her body mutilated with a knife.

The bodies of three of Phipps' children were found by police in the two bedrooms of the house, each shot several times and also mutilated.

After I had finished looking at the Phipps residence, I noticed four RCMP officers emerging from wooded hillside directly behind the Phipps' property.

The officers conducted a brief confidential conference. I gathered from their activity that something had been spotted in the woods above the house. However they refused to comment.

BLOOD STAINS

The time by now was about 3:30 p.m. I made my way from the Phipps property noticing on the way out a blood-stained knife in the back of one of the RCMP identification mobile units.

The house where Dale Nelson lived was situated between the Wasyk and Phipps houses, about one mile from each. This is where I went next.

Four RCMP officers were on guard at the Nelson house. Earlier in the day a slashed plastic window pane had been noticed by an officer, and there was evidence in the cabin that someone had been in during the night and had taken out some food and water.

Police later admitted that they believed Nelson himself had made his way back to his cabin and had been able to break in a back window.

Lightning Hits Football Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A bolt of lightning which flashed out of the darkening sky over a practice high school football game killed two players and injured 20 other youngsters, two critically.

The bolt Monday centred on a huddle of the Gibbs high school offensive team, working on plays to be used in the season opener Sept. 18.

Killed were tackle Robert Newton, 17, and quarterback Vincent Williams, 16.

Four players remained in hospital, two of them — Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16 — listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Halfback Michael Washington, 16, said he was standing beside Chapman in the huddle when the lightning hit.

"A big flash came in the middle, and the shoulder pads looked like they were flowing," Williams said.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island today called on federal Transport Minister Don Jamieson for all possible "expertise and equipment" to deal with a huge oil slick moving through the Gulf of St. Lawrence following the sinking Monday of an oil-laden barge.

Campbell said the slick was 10 miles long and five miles wide and was moving one-third of a mile an hour toward the northeast coast of New Brunswick.

Present wind conditions were taking the oil away from Prince Edward Island, but this could change at any time.

The premier said all coastal areas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence were threatened by the oil.

There was no immediate indication how much of the barge Irving Whale's 850,000 gallons of bunker C oil had escaped. The barge sank Monday morning while under tow.

New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Newfoundland all have coastal areas bordering on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

EXPRESS OPTIMISM

Transport department officials earlier expressed optimism that oil would not escape from the Whale because it was only four years old and was structurally sound.

Campbell, who met transport department and armed forces officials here today, said the oil moving through the gulf was bunker C "from all appearances." This is a heavy grade of fuel oil, similar to the oil which polluted Nova Scotia's shoreline following the sinking of the tanker Arrow last winter.

The slick was not a solid mass of oil but covered a five-by-10-mile area halfway between the coast of Caraquet, N.B., and Cape North, P.E.I.

Its present course would carry it away from P.E.I.'s famous sand beaches on the north shore of the province, including the P.E.I. National Park.

The premier said top priority will be given to stopping the seepage from the 2,300-ton unmanned barge which sank in rough seas 60 miles north of P.E.I. early Monday while being towed by the tug Irving Maple to Bathurst, N.B.

RELEASE of Leila Khaled, 25, held by British authorities and identified as the female accomplice in attempted hijacking of an Israeli El Al airliner Sunday, is major demand of Palestinian guerrillas holding other plane passengers hostage in Palestine. (AP Wirephoto.)

Swiss Agree To Exchange

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced tonight it will release the hijacked Swiss airliner and about 22 Swiss passengers as soon as the three Popular Front guerrillas held in Zurich are delivered here, an official communique said.

Times News Services

A team of negotiators from the International Red Cross flew today to Amman, Jordan, in hopes of saving the lives of 180 persons being held hostage by Palestinian guerrillas aboard two hijacked airplanes.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine has threatened to blow up the planes and their passengers unless Arab guerrillas held in Western countries are released by 7 p.m. PDT Wednesday.

Another 120 hostages were removed from the Trans World Airlines and Swissair planes now being held in this sunbaked desert city in Jordan.

The Red Cross said in Geneva today the guerrillas had increased their ransom demands to include the release of 3,000 Arab prisoners held by Israel.

A first ultimatum demanded the release of seven Arabs held by West Germany, Switzerland and Britain.

"The Front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warnings," a guerrilla spokesman said in Amman.

Britain Agrees to Talk Details

Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand. Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath, after an emergency cabinet meeting agreed to co-ordinate with the other governments in working out a package deal to win the release of the hijack victims.

A third plane was also involved Sunday in the drama. A Pan American World Airways Boeing 747 was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes.

A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crew aboard.

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were in hospital for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

A fourth hijack attempt was thwarted by Israeli security officials when Palestinian Leila Khaled was seized and a male companion fatally shot when they attempted to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC-8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York.

She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded also are in jail on charges involving airline hijackings.

SEND NEGOTIATORS

In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Red Cross mediators earlier convinced the Palestinians to release 120 hostages, mostly women and children, who were taken to a hotel in Amman.

The 180 remaining included all Israeli nationals aboard, plus men from the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland.

The hotel where the 120 were staying was hit by mortar fire during the night, but there were no injuries.

The attack appeared to be part of the skirmishing in the city between Palestinian Arab guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

The Popular Front demanded that:

- Switzerland free the three Arab commandos being held in that country for an attack in February, 1969, on an Israeli El Al Boeing at Zurich Airport.
- Britain free Miss Khaled and return her safely to Jordan.

Poison Kills Fish In Mainland River

SURREY (CP) — The entire fish population in the lower reaches of the Campbell River, about 15 miles south of Vancouver, was killed during the weekend by an undetermined poison.

Don Udy, fish and wildlife conservation officer, said the kill included at least 1,000 bullheads, many flounders and cutthroat trout and a few spawning coho salmon. He said dead fish were found from the mouth of the river to a point about three miles upstream.

He said a number of fish, including about 50 coho, were also found dead in the Serpentine River, about five miles north of the Campbell.

Mr. Udy said heavy weekend rain could have caused a run-off of pesticides or herbicides from farms in the area, but other possible causes were also being investigated.

Both the Campbell and Serpentine are small streams that run into Boundary Bay near the Canada-U.S. border. They are favorite haunts of sports fishermen at this time of year with the coho run just starting, and Mr. Udy warned anglers to stay clear of the affected areas.

REFUSES TO LEAVE VICTORIA OFFICE

By PETER McNELLY

Reg Clarkson, supervisor of the Vancouver Island region of the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia, today demanded an investigation into the reasons for his transfer out of Victoria to the foundation's Vancouver office.

Clarkson was notified of his transfer on Aug. 17 in a letter from the Foundation's executive director in Vancouver, E. D. McRae. He was to have reported today to the Vancouver to take a post as counsellor.

'LOSS OF CONFIDENCE'

But Clarkson said he is staying in Victoria because he cannot abandon his patients on short notice. At a morning press conference, Clarkson said McRae's letter said he was being transferred due to a "loss of confidence at the government level in my work with the alcoholism foundation on Vancouver Island."

He said he has repeatedly tried, without success, to get the foundation's executive to explain what they mean by a loss of confidence.

"I have been repeatedly refused a written interpretation of what is meant by this. One person (whom Clarkson would not identify) told me the reason is because the RCMP have spotted Communist unemployed agitators coming to my office."

CLARKSON . . . why the transfer?

He said he has been refused an appeal before the foundation's board of directors, but has talked to his lawyer and will press for either an investigation or an appeal.

The real reason behind the transfer, Clarkson said, "is to silence my complaints against the operation of the Alcoholism Foundation. For two years I have been complaining about the waste of money on counselling and the neglect of preventative education and community organization to fight alcoholism."

Asked if he believed the provincial government no longer had confidence in his work, Clarkson produced written testimonials support-
